White Woman Hanged.
Real Air News.
Dangerous Little Girls.
Big Wages Mean Prosperity.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

YESTERDAY the state of Louisiana for the first time hanged a white woman, Mrs. Ada Bonner Lebouef. The woman's four children appealed to the Governor in vain.

IN a cell close to the gallows, the woman listened to preparations for her killing. She died first, out of politeness. Her accomplice followed her to the gallows.

WHEN the sheriff and the priest, Father J. J. Rosseau, stepped into her cell, Mrs. Lebouef was hysterical. At the last moment she cried: "This is murder itself. I hope Jesus can love my soul. The rope is so tight around my neck."

Not a very pleasing spectacle in civilization.

THE woman deserved her fate. That is not the question. It is:

Does a great state deserve to have on its record the first hanging of a white woman, or black woman, either?

INTERESTING flying events. Col. Lindbergh goes to Miami to inaugurate United States air mail to Panama, preliminary to air mail distribution from Alaska to Terra del Fuego.

President Coolidge and Postmaster General New are to be congratulated on that.

LONDON issues an Imperial Airways time table, covering a regular weekly 5,000-mile passenger and freight service from London to India.

Here in the United States, under the auspices of the National City Bank, biggest of all, there is being organized what Wall Street calls "A General Motors of the Air."

DEAR young ladies and older ones in a New England branch of the Daughters of the American Revolution, tried to stop an exhibition of young girl dancers from Russia, brought over by a sister of Isadora Duncan.

THE little girls dance nicely and don't preach Bolshevism, but they ARE from Russia. The D. A. R. feared that encouraging them to dance might "encourage the reds."

IT WOULD be too bad to do that, and it is fortunate that grandfathers of those daughters were not so easily frightened. Were it otherwise, the tea might not have gone overboard, and we might all be singing "God Save the King."

FOLLOWING increase in wages of $8,500,000 for shop employes, the Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday added $450,000 a year to the pay of men working in the "maintenance of way and structures department."

THIS is a big country, and rich. Gen. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania, sets a good example for other employers.

Letting workers, as well as stockholders, share in prosperity increases that prosperity and, incidentally, puts a stronger foundation under big enterprises wisely managed.

PROF. ALBERT A. JOHNSON, returned from Russia, says divorces in Russia are few, compared with the United States. And in Russia you get a divorce as easily as you get a package of cigarets in this country.

YOU simply say, "I want a divorce," and the government says, "All right. You are divorced," and that's all; no expense.

Yet divorces are few. Is it because men and women only want what they can't have?

YESTERDAY President Coolidge took part in opening Edward W. Bok's "bird refuge" in Florida. There is sad irony about that.

Mr. Bok endows a refuge, a beautiful tower, where birds can live in peace and safety, thinking about the past, NOT worrying about the future.

UNCLE SAM prepares no such refuge for those that have been president. They must hop out at the end of their term, to take the world as it comes, handicapped by what they owe to the dignity of a great office.

AFTER having served as president of the United States, a man should have from this country, as long as he lives, at least $100,000 a year.

The British give their speaker of the House of Commons, even after serving only a few months, a generous pension for his life, inherited by the son, for the son's life. And with the pension there goes a peerage.

AN ex-president of the United States should not, when his term ends, depend on any man, or need to accept favors from any man. The little people are more interested in that than the big people.

TIME passes, and opinions change. Mussolini, once an ardent, but extremely radical socialist, receives for a moment two socialists from Berlin. They wanted permission to organize Italian workmen, and his reply was, "You are wasting your time. I AM MUSSOLINI." That ended the interview.

ON THE grave of Cyrus the Great was written, "I am Cyrus, O man."

Mussolini needs all the power in that "I am Mussolini" to carry him through his career. But after Mussolini, what? What organization is back of that name?

Organization endures. The individual dies, and there is the danger for Italy.

NEW YORK State suggests a tax on Wall Street transactions, the money to be used to help the farmer.

The state already taxes Wall Street transactions $13,500,000 a year. The new tax would equal the total direct tax that the state lays on real estate. The tax suggested, only one cent a share, shows what a business the Stock Exchange is doing.

BLUE LAW POLL VOTE 12-0 FOR MODIFICATION

The people of Pittsburgh are almost 100 per cent in favor of more liberal Sunday laws, if expressions on the subject gathered from passersby in downtown streets correctly mirror popular opinion.

Twelve persons were accosted at random and asked if they approved of the present Sabbath observance situation or would like to see the "Blue Laws" of 1791 superseded by legislation which would permit people to go to movies and baseball games on Sunday.

UNANIMOUS!

Unanimously they declared for Sunday amusements—and that in no uncertain terms.

As the names of citizens are drawn by chance in making up a jury of 12 persons to pass on questions coming before the courts, so the dozen were selected to pass on the question of the Sunday laws. Pedestrians wholly unknown to the inquirer were stopped and asked what they thought about the matter. It is significant that not one declined to express an opinion or to allow it to be published with his name and address.

9 MEN, 3 WOMEN

There were nine men and three women in the number; by occupation there were four salesmen, one traveling salesman, a music teacher, a dealer in automobile supplies, a gasoline station attendant, a policeman, a letter carrier and two women without regular occupation. All of the large Christian denominations were represented.

Man, 55, Found Dead In Rooming House

Benjamin Esler, 55, of 221 Anderson street, was found dead on the floor of his room by Joseph Skledar, proprietor of a rooming house at that address last night. Skledar broke in the door of Esler's room and found him lying near his bed. Esler had not been seen since Wednesday. The cause of death was not determined.

'Kidnap' Plot Charged in Fight for Riches

10 BURN TO DEATH IN HOME

KIDNAPING PLOT LAID TO HEIR

GREENWICH, Conn., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Testimony that Dr. James S. McCarthy had planned to "kidnap" his mother-in-law, the late Mrs. Margaret Huntington Smith, into a sanitarium so he could manage her $7,000,000 fortune was on the records of Probate Court here today.

The alleged scheme was told by Miss Elizabeth Conroy, a nurse, testifying at a hearing to admit to probate the will of Dr. McCarthy's wife, who died soon after her mother, leaving to her husband the bulk of the money, originally part of the Standard Oil fortune of John Huntington, of Cleveland.

UNIVERSITY IN CONTEST

The will is being contested by Margaret Gowen, 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. McCarthy by a former marriage, and the Western Reserve University of Cleveland. Miss Gowen received $200,000 under the will, but the university nothing, although it had been a beneficiary under four previous wills.

In addition to telling how Dr. McCarthy had discussed a plan to place Mrs. Smith in a sanitarium under pretense of taking her to a New York hotel, Miss Conroy testified that Mrs. McCarthy had been given to drinking. The witness said at one time Dr. McCarthy had locked up the liquor and had threatened to put his wife in a sanitarium if she did not "straighten herself out."

COFFIN CHOSEN EARLY

The nurse also said she believed that Dr. McCarthy had selected his mother-in-law's coffin three weeks before she died. Mrs. Smith died last June and Mrs. McCarthy January 11, only 13 days after her mother's entire fortune passed into her hands.

The contest is based on the contention that when Mrs. McCarthy made the disputed will two days before her death of pneumonia, she was suffering from a high fever and therefore was not in full possession of her faculties.

Youth Dies as Sled Crashes Into Truck

ALTOONA, Pa., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The third fatal coasting accident of the season here occurred when Leroy Duff, 18, of Juniata, crashed into a truck driven by George Ferguson, also of Juniata, throwing Duff under the wheels of the truck last night. Ferguson, who was an intimate friend of the victim, was not held.

1-Man Ocean Boat Reaches Las Palmas

STAR IN COURT

WINIFRED LENIHAN

Miss Winifred Lenihan, Theater Guild star, must appear in court Monday to explain why she built a balcony outside her apartment house window for play space and fresh air for baby cousin. Owners of the house say the balcony was erected without their permission and its presence was protested by neighbors.

SHOWMAN DIES IN AUTO CRASH

PONCA CITY, Okla., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—George Miller, one of the owners of Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch and 101 Wild West Shows, was killed this morning when his car turned over on the slippery pavement a few miles south of here while on his way to the ranch, which is located at Marland.

Two men found the showman's wrecked roadster and Miller's body partly pinned beneath it. It was believed Miller had attempted to jump from the skidding car, as the men who found him reported his head was pinned beneath one front wheel. His skull was crushed.

The accident occurred about 2 a. m. Miller was still alive when found at 4 o'clock, but died en route to a local hospital.

Mr. Miller was born 49 years ago at Baxter Springs, Kan.

His death recalls the violent death of Col. Joe Miller, brother and associate in the ranch and circus business, who was found dead in his garage less than a year ago. Monoxide gas from an automobile had caused his death.

MARSHAL FOCH IN RELAPSE

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, who had been slowly recovering from an illness due to heart trouble and kidney complications, has had a second setback, his physician announced today.

He developed another center of congestion in the lungs overnight and there was an air of uneasiness about his home.

Condition of King Reported Unchanged

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Hugh Rigby attended King George this morning and stated when they left the sick room that there was no change in his majesty's condition. The hint in the statement of physicians yesterday that the King's condition was less favorable than recently came as a slight jar to Englishmen generally, there having been an eager proneness of late to consider him well out of danger.

Rise in Temperature Predicted for Today

The cold weather that has prevailed in Pittsburgh for more than a week was scheduled to break up about noon today. Weather Bureau reports predicted fair weather this afternoon, with temperatures in the thirties. The weather this morning still was quite brisk, with temperatures about 15 degrees.

Gilbert, Reparations Agent, Ill From Flu

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations, has a touch of influenza and his physicians today ordered him to stay in bed and forget business.

Smoked 'Fag'

ETHEL LOWTHER

Ethel, 16-year-old schoolgirl, is back home again at Bridgeport, W. Va., after a two-day search for her when she ran away, fearing a rebuff for smoking a cigaret. Sheriffs found her 25 miles from home.

BRADDOCK SEA HERO HOME

Fonce Kellams, who helped rescue 32 sailors from a watery grave, slipped quietly and unassumingly into Pittsburgh and Braddock today in a manner becoming a modest hero.

This morning Fonce, a member of the crew of the United States liner America, left his train at East Liberty, seated himself in a taxicab, and a half hour later was in the arms of his step-mother, Mrs. Alice Fox, of 414 Oak street, Braddock.

SHIPMATE ALONG

Kellams was accompanied here by John Harrobin, another member of the crew that rescued the 32 sailors from the sinking Italian liner Florida.

Kellams was one of eight sailors who set out in a lifeboat from the liner America, and through a stormy sea, reached the sinking Italian liner to rescue the entire crew, 700 miles off the Virginia coast, on January 23.

FAMILY OVERJOYED

Parades, welcoming speeches, the cheers of thousands—these were missing, not because his townspeople of Braddock were not willing and anxious to fete their hero, but because Kellams kept secret the hour of his arrival. At 6 o'clock this morning Mrs. Fox received this telegram:

"Leaving New York, tonight. Arrive tomorrow. Fonce."

It was the first time in 10 years that Fonce has been home.

There was a joyous shout in the Fox home as he opened the front door and walked into the arms of his family.

Two Liners Aground In English Waters

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(INS.)—The liner Dafila, bound from Hamburg to Liverpool, went aground today off Dungeness, England, in the Straits of Dover. A heavy fog is believed to have caused the accident. The Dafila's passengers are still aboard the vessel.

A rough sea today balked two tugs in their efforts to refloat the Union Castle liner Garth Castle, which went aground on the East Suffolk coast yesterday while en route to London from Hamburg.

Door Breaks Leg, Girl Asks $25,000

Because the door of a municipal garage fell on her, breaking her leg, Genevieve Breiteigan, minor daughter of Mrs. Jennie Breiteigan, North Braddock, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against North Braddock Borough for $25,000 damages. She claims that while walking in Ravine street, past the garage, where the borough work trucks are kept, the door suddenly descended on her.

Hawks to Postpone Record Flight Today

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Captain Frank Hawks (Tex.), aviator, today announced that the start of his attempt to break the West-to-East non-stop transcontinental flight record, scheduled for this afternoon, probably would be postponed on account of reports of unfavorable weather along the route.

FONCE KELLAMS

LINDY HOOVER'S NEIGHBOR

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was a next door neighbor of President-elect Hoover today while preparing for his flight on next Monday, his twenty-seventh birthday, to inaugurate the Pan-American air mail service between the United States and Panama. Col. Lindbergh is quartered at the Belle Isle estate of Joseph H. Adams.

The trans-Atlantic flier will be the guest of the President-elect Sunday.

Col. Lindbergh arrived yesterday after a one-stop flight of 10 hours and 55 minutes from New York. He had intended to make the journey in one hop, but was compelled to stop at Jacksonville.

Mr. Hoover embarked today upon the last day of his second fishing trip since his arrival in Florida, with the landing of one or more sail fish foremost in his mind. Late today he will discard thoughts of the sport he loves as he returns to No. 8 Belle Isle for several days of work. Prominent on his list of things for consideration is a series of conferences with Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee on Tariff Revision and Farm Relief.

The President-elect anticipated having Senator Smoot as well as Col. Lindbergh as guests at one of the meals on Sunday.

ONLY ONE IN FAMILY SURVIVES

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—A can of blasting powder, placed in front of an open grate to dry, was believed the cause of 10 persons being burned to death today, shortly after midnight, their dwelling being razed while they were asleep.

The blaze virtually wiped out an entire family.

Those dead are:

Peter Simes, 50, a miner; his wife and six children—Soloman, 17; Hiram, 14; Earnest, 10; Harold, 8; Mabel, 4, and Ida Jane, 2; a married daughter, Mrs. Troy Gibson, and her 3-month-old infant.

Mrs. Gibson's husband escaped with severe burns.

Firemen stood helpless while the home burned. It was on the outskirts of Buckhannon, beyond the water mains.

Neighbors told fire officials that an explosion preceded the fire. This gave rise to the belief Simes was dying out powder for his work in the coal mines.

Gibson was unable to tell a coherent story. Shock and body burns were so severe his name was placed on the danger list at a hospital.

Thrill Slayer's Pal Will Be Tried Again

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 2.—(INS.)—Solicitor General John A. Boykin said today he would make every effort to place Richard Gallogly, wealthy college student, on trial again at this term of court for the murder of Willard Smith, drug clerk. Judge C. B. Moore ordered a mistrial in the case last evening after the jurors had been deliberating nearly 24 hours in a futile effort to reach a verdict.

Gallogly is accused of participating in a local drug store robbery during which Smith was killed. He was implicated in the confession of George Harsh, his classmate, who is under death sentence.

Man Badly Injured As Auto Hits Taxi

A man was injured seriously and a woman companion cut and bruised early today when their automobile collided with a taxicab at Fifth and Negley avenues. Howard McLumehy, of 102 Forty-seventh street, suffered a broken right shoulder and probably a fractured skull. He was taken to West Penn Hospital.

Catherine Sandrock, of 5521 Phillips avenue, was able to go to her home after treatment at the hospital. The cab driver, J. F. Hoff, of 515 Cherry way, Braddock, was arrested, charged with reckless driving.

Channel Cut In Ice To Get Girl's Body

HARRISBURG, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—In their effort to recover the body of Miss Verna Klink from the Susquehanna River, into which the girl jumped or was thrown a week ago yesterday, police will put a crew of 14 men at work on a flatboat today to cut a channel through the ice along the shore.

The ice has been frozen solid in the vicinity where Harry Bowman, held in connection with the woman's disappearance, told the authorities that the missing candy store employe leaped into the water.

Briand, Leygues Ill With Attacks of Flu

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Aristide Briand, foreign minister, and Georges Leygues, minister of the navy, were ill with influenza today and could not attend a scheduled cabinet meeting.

Neither case was regarded in the slightest way as serious. Influenza thus far in France this year has taken a mild form.

GROUNDHOG SEES SHADOW; 6 WEEKS MORE OF WINTER

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Feb. 2.—After several hours of tense uncertainty, due to an overcast sky, a committee of experts arrayed at Gobbler's Knob, Canoe Ridge, solemnly decreed, shortly before noon today, that a shadow of Br'er Groundhog had been cast, heralding six weeks more of winter.

Just as hopes of the group were sinking, a momentary gleam of sunshine broke through the sky and turned the trick. The weather-wise marmot, after casting a wary eye about and sniffing the air, turned his back upon his callers and returned to his burrow, there to remain until the second week of March.

"Sunny Joe" Wilson, chief of scouts on Canoe Ridge; Court Hoover, chairman of the prognosticators, and other members of the committee gathered in the public square of Punxsutawney after their return from the marmot's retreat and made formal announcement of the result.

The people here hailed the news with delight, because it means more breakfasts of country sausage and flapjacks, more dinners of spareribs and kraut, more days to wear red flannels and more nights to sport raccoon coats.

If the groundhog had failed to see his shadow, it would have meant an early spring, robins in March, bluebirds early in April and killing frosts in May, so the people say, and a season out of joint is not liked by Punxsy folks.

PULMOTOR SAVES LIFE OF DOG TRAPPED IN FIRE

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The reason no one said "dog gone" after the fire at O. H. Caldwell's house last night, was on account of the life-saving qualities of the Forest Park pulmotor.

Flora, a chow, was snoozing in the house while the family was away. An ember popped from the open grate and set fire to the living room. Firemen put it out, but Flora was overcome by smoke.

"Dog gone?" inquired a spectator as a fireman carried Flora out.

"Not yet," said Fire Capt. Lang. The pulmotor squad worked half an hour after which Flora was able to sit up and scratch.

LAWS TO END DRUG EVILS DEMANDED

By KENNETH CLARK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—An increasing demand has arisen in Congress for a thorough-going, scientific investigation of the narcotic menace in the United States.

Because of the limited time of the present session, sponsors will ask that the inquiry go over until the next Congress, it was made known yesterday.

Three chief purposes are back of the investigation:

DRASTIC LAWS WANTED

1—To draft drastic legislation to check smuggling and tighten up existing legal loopholes.

2—To prevent the manufacture of cocaine, one of the most deadly drugs, which leading physicians declare no longer is essential in the medical profession.

3—To increase penalties and fines for violations of the anti-narcotic act.

The latter is designed to smash the gigantic rings which are utilizing both transatlantic and transpacific liners to sneak poisonous drugs into the country. The fines on ships found carrying dope would be so increased that steamship companies would be in danger of bankruptcy if it were discovered that their vessels were engaged in extensive smuggling operations.

VIGOROUS SUPPORT GIVEN

Senate and House leaders, Republicans and Democrats alike, are backing vigorously the crusade to stamp out an evil which is menacing not only men and women in all ranks of society but boys and girls as young as 12 to 15. Among the leaders are Senators Johnson (R.) of California, Reed (D.) of Missouri, and Wheeler (D.) of Montana, and Representatives Porter (R.) of Pennsylvania, La Guardia (R. of New York, and Mrs. Kahn (R.) of California.

PORTER HITS AT PAROLES

Repeal of the laws permitting le for narcotic drug peddlers increase in the penalties pro l for them, will be called for bill Representative Porter announced he will file in the House shortly.

"The drug peddler is an assassin and deserves no parole," said Porter, adding:

"When we who know the damage done by drug peddlers see them go free after serving a brief spell in prison, we know that within a few hours they will be back at their reprehensible traffic in narcotics."

CHINESE SCHOLAR VISITS CITY

DR. DAVID Z. T. YUI

Dr. Yui, Harvard, '10, wearing his clothes of the Orient. A Chinese diplomat, he is visiting Pittsburgh and in a luncheon address told of the new and unified Chinese nation.

CHINA UNITED, SAYS DR. YUI

Declaring that "treaties between world powers are made for men and nations and that men and nations are not made for treaties," Dr. David Z. T. Yui, of Shanghai, China, diplomat, told a group of Pittsburghers today at a Y. M. C. A. luncheon in the William Penn Hotel, that all sections of his country were now united and that a firm government had been established in the new national capital at Nanking.

"There is no north, no south in China any more than in the United States," said Dr. Yui. "No longer are we disturbed by civil war. America's prompt recognition of our government leads us to hope you will soon revise all existing treaties between the two republics so that our relationships will be placed on an equal and reciprocal basis."

While Dr. Yui, a Harvard man of 1910, wears the clothes of the Orient, he said the younger generation of Chinese were adopting universally the costumes of the western countries.

POLL ON STREET FAVORS CHANGE IN SUNDAY LAWS

said Harris. "When I took over this territory the question arose as to whether I should make my home in Cincinnati or Pittsburgh. I chose Cincinnati because Pittsburgh is a graveyard on Sunday. Traveling men do everything possible to escape a Sunday in Pittsburgh. A Sunday here is depressing; I would just as soon spend Sunday in Charleston or Clarksburg, W. Va. There is just as much to do there as in this big city. They tell us we should go to church. But going to church does not solve the traveling man's problem of how to spend a Sunday in Pittsburgh pleasantly. So we try to arrange our schedules so that we can spend the day in some other state that has a sensible attitude."

Miss Cecilia Dowling, a music teacher, of 734 Millvale avenue, cited "Mischief born of enforced idleness" as one of the factors which influenced her in favor of modification of the Sabbath laws. She was indignant because of the obstacles that Sabbatarians had thrown in the way of Sunday symphony concerts.

"Such concerts are uplifting," said Miss Dowling. "They cannot possibly hurt observance of the Lord's Day. I have no patience with the people who oppose them. How much better it is for people to attend a symphony concert on Sunday afternoon or evening than to sit at home in idleness, gossiping, perhaps, about the neighbors! I am in favor of Sunday movies and Sunday baseball games, too, for those who like them."

J. J. Hilty, of 804 Southern avenue, Mt. Washington, an employe of the Gulf Refining Company, confirmed Miss Dowling's view that amusements and sports, when permitted on Sunday, keep people out of mischief. He remarked that in Toledo, where he once lived, there were fewer cases in the police courts on Monday mornings when the theaters and ball parks were open on Sundays than when the people were deprived of opportunity for such recreation.

The others interviewed, all of whom expressed themselves strongly in favor of the repeal of the blue laws, gave their names and addresses as follows:

H. Dyke, 806 Webster avenue, dealer in motor supplies; E. G. Batz, 835 Morningside avenue, salesman; Minerva Fiorillo, 5124 Lytle street; T. S. Quinn, of 919 Second street, McKees Rocks, a salesman; Charles Winter, of 55 Bellevue avenue, West View, a letter carrier; Mrs. M. Spellissey, of 700 Webster avenue; M. M. Wilhammer, of 3510 Louisa street, a salesman; S. F. Kelly, of 113 South Fairmont avenue, salesman, and Nicholas Modrak, of 143 South Sixteenth street, South Side, a policeman.

DRIVE GOES AHEAD

The executive committee of the new organization seeking blue law modification, formed at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Thursday, will meet today to map plans for attaining its objective, A. L. Humphrey, president of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, was named chairman of the committee.

This group has the work of outlining a bill to be submitted to the Legislature to modify the present Sabbath regulations.

SUSPECT HELD IN KIDNAPING

CHARLESTON, Ill., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Harry Daniels, 32, a filling station attendant, is being held for questioning in the kidnaping of Edith Mae Dierdorf, West Terre Haute, Ind., newsgirl.

Daniels was arrested by Charleston police upon the request of West Terre Haute authorities, who said they learned Daniels had been seen in Paris, Ill., not far from West Terre Haute, on the day the girl was kidnaped.

Daniels, police said, admitted being in Paris on the day the girl disappeared, but denied having been in West Terre Haute or having crossed the state line.

ENGINEER HELD IN DEATH OF RICH WIDOW

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Edward T. Riley, civil engineer, was detained today for an inquest into the death of Mrs. Sanford A. Burnham, wealthy widow. Mrs. Burnham died at a local hospital yesterday.

Riley's presence at the inquest was asked when it was learned he had obtained a 55 per cent interest in a vending machine business, valued at $500,000 which Mrs. Burnham's husband had bequeathed to her.

Mrs. Burnham was taken to the hospital on January 21, after she was said to have been found in the street semi-conscious. Her condition grew steadily worse. Following her death yesterday, a hospital physician refused to sign a death certificate. Coroner Herman N. Bundesen was notified.

Hospital records also showed she had been attended by Dr. Frank L. Borwn. Dr. Borwn, it was learned, left the city last Sunday.

Riley said he met Mrs. Burnham in Havana two weeks after the death of her husband. He declared she persuaded him to go into a business partnership with him and that he put $5,000 of his own money into a venture. It was a gum vending machine business, according to Riley.

The engineer explained his possession of 55 per cent of the Burnham Gum Vending Company stock by stating Mrs. Burnham was grateful to him for taking over the management of the concern and saving it from bankruptcy.

OHIO KIDNAPING REWARD RAISED

ORRVILLE, O., Feb. 2.—In a last effort to inspire the investigators of the Melvin Horst disappearance, the citizens committee today added $2,000 to the reward for the return of the 4-year-old boy and the arrest of his abductors. The total reward is now $4,100, including $500 by the Wayne county commissioners, $100 by the Rotary and Exchange Clubs and a previous bond of $1,500 by the same citizens committee.

The outlook for the finding of Melvin, who vanished six weeks ago, was dark today. Ora Slater, special sleuth, was still leading the investigation, but he admitted that he had no especially promising clues.

The Arnold family, indicted for the kidnaping, continues to deny any complicity. William Arnold has been released on bail, but his father, Elias Arnold, his brother and sister and a brother-in-law, Bascom McHenry, are still behind the bars.

ACCUSED MAN NOT DEACON

W. D. Danielson, chairman of the official board of the Dravosburg Christian Church, today denied a report that Everett McBride, former postmaster at Dravosburg, charged with embezzling government funds, was a deacon in the church.

McBride is a member of the church, but holds no official position, Danielson said.

2 GRAFT TRIALS PLANNED DAILY

Graft prosecutions will be continued in the local courts next week. The sentencing of the alleged heads of the Louisiana lottery was postponed yesterday until Monday or Tuesday.

The alleged operators, Henry Recker, James Murray and Mrs. Mary Shaffer, were to have been sentenced by Presiding Judge James B. Drew, but the judge was absent. The three pleaded guilty and appeared for sentence last week, but at that time Judge Drew said he wanted to review the testimony given before the grand jury.

When the three are arraigned for sentence, Monday or Tuesday, it is expected that several others who have pleaded not guilty will change their pleas to guilty. Throughout next week the trials of those who pleaded not guilty will be heard. District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner said he intended putting two cases on each day.

COOLIDGE GIVES LAST ADDRESS

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT COOLIDGE TO WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Having dedicated to the American public the sanctuary and singing tower established at Mountain Lake, Fla., by Edward W. Bok, President Coolidge traveled northward today, bound for Washington and the end of what is expected to be his last journey away from the national capital during his term of office.

The return tri, to Washington was begun last night.

The general public was not permitted to be present at the train's departure and of the many thousands who heard the dedication speech, only a comparative few managed to elude the Marine guard and be present when the train left.

The Florida adress is expected to be the last Mr. Coolidge will deliver before he leaves the White House.

Taking for his theme a growing appreciation of art and the beautiful in the United States, Mr. Coolidge pictured a new era in American life which is bringing to the masses privileges and advantages once enjoyed only by a few. He cited free education as the basis of this movement, with public concerts and art galleries as a helping influence.

4 SEPARATE TESTS NOW FAVORED

Council has requested the Better Traffic Committee to withdraw a proposal to eliminate 40 left traffic turns in a single experiment and to substitute a proposal for four separate tests, limited to 10 each.

Burton W. Marsh, traffic engineer, representing the committee, appeared before council yesterday with the original proposal and explained the alternate routes suggested if the left turns were abolished.

Replying to questions, he admitted that in certain specific cases the driver would have to travel five and six extra blocks to get to his destination. Some of the members admitted that the proposal had considerable merit, but they believed a smaller number of traffic points should be changed at one time so that drivers could become acquainted with them more readily.

Marsh was asked to study the advisability of establishing rules for right turns only for entering and leaving public garages.

He also was requested to report by Monday on the cause of the delay in letting the contract for the electric control signals for the outlying districts.

The downtown electric control system will be completed in about 12 weeks, he said.

MEDIATION SEEN IN BOOTH ROW

LONDON, Feb. 2. — (AP.) — The most Rev. Randall Thomas Davidson, former archbishop of Canterbury, was suggested by friends of the Salvation Army today as a possible mediator who might be able to clear up the army's difficulties.

It was understood that an effort would be made to enlist Lord Davidson's aid in settling the differences between the army's high council and Gen. Bramwell Booth, the army's aged commander-in-chief. His selection for such a role would be welcomed by the Booth family, it is said.

Questioned regarding the possibility of such action on his part, Lord Davidson said he had no statement to make.

Medal to Be Given To Two Scientists

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Because their contributions to science were judged of equal merit and both outstanding for the past year, the annual gold medal of the Society of Arts and Sciences for 1929 will be given to Dr. Robert A. Millikan, professor of physics at the California Institute of Technology, and Dr. Albert A. Michelson, head of the department of physics at the University of Chicago.

They will receive the medals at a dinner at the Hotel Biltmore February 22. Dr. Millikan's theory of the creation of cosmic rays won him the award. Dr. Michelson was honored because of his computations of the speed of light. The medal last year went to Thomas A. Edison.

Pedestrian Robbed By 3 Auto Bandits

Three automobile robbers held up S. G. Smith, of 401 Jucunda street, near his home last midnight, robbing him of $25. The men leaped to the pavement beside Smith and after taking his money, entered their automobile and drove away.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area moved northeastward. It is now centered over Lake Superior and extends southward over Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana, and covers the country from the central plains to the Atlantic coast. While the high has not diminished materially in pressure, it is losing its cold-producing tendency, resulting in only moderately cold weather throughout its area. The temperatures are not as low as yesterday over the Ohio Valley states and over the plains from Canada to the gulf, and they are rising slowly.

Low pressure is centered over the Plateau section west of the Rockies, producing cloudy weather and scattered light precipitation. It is also snowing in the Plains states from Iowa to Southern Oklahoma, and raining in Texas.

River Conditions.

The rivers are at low stages and stationary or falling slowly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.3 feet; Dam No. 2, 1.4, and Dam No. 6, 6.5. The dams are down. All the Allegheny and the upper Monongahela pools are frozen over.

Threat on Sea Hero Found Crank's Work

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(INS.)—The police guard has been withdrawn from the home of Mrs. Anna Manning, mother of the hero of the Florida rescue, after detectives disposed of the $7,000 demand letter threatening the life of Acting Capt. Harry Manning, of the liner America, as the clumsy work of a crank.

"Ads" Bring Back Borrowed Books And Apologies

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—If you want friends to return borrowed books—advertise.

When Lyle A. Stephenson, insurance man, decided it was time borrowers returned his volumes so he could have his library catalogued, he applied methods that have brought him success in business. He advertised.

And as for results, the books actually are coming back. Stephenson for several days has been busy accepting apologies from persons who had been delinquent for as long as four or five years.

SQUIRE SUED FOR TRAN-SEA FLIER'S BRIDE'S TROUSSEAU

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Bills for the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gordon last July were the basis of a $100,000 damage suit against Alderman Leonard Grossman today. Gordon was a mechanic for Amelia Earhart on her trans-Atlantic flight.

Mrs. Frances Manning, a designer, asks that amount from Grossman on the grounds that he agreed to pay the bills if she would purchase the bride's trousseau and arrange the nuptials. It was to be a "publicity stunt" she claims.

She charges Grossman never paid with the result that stores at which the articles were purchased on credit have sued her.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(INS.)—Fifteen bags containing registered mail valued at $150,000, were stolen from the Central London postal sorting office yesterday.

LOOTING AFGHANS LASHED ON CANNON, BLOWN TO BITS

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The Daily Express in a dispatch from Karachi, India, today said Amanullah has taken stern measures to suppress looting by tribesmen between Chaman and Kandahar, in Arghanistan.

Tribesmen caught attacking a caravan were brought in chains to Kandahar, where they were tied to the mouths of cannon and blown to bits.

All inhabitants were ordered to witness the spectacle. (Amanullah lost his throne by attempting to introduce reforms into the country.)

A Moscow report late yesterday said that the Afghan ambassador at that city had advised the Soviet government in behalf of Amanullah that he had resumed the temporal power in Afghanistan, with temporary residence at Kandahar.

COUNTESS GETS DIVORCE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The Examiner today says Countess Edith Mortimer Di Zoppola, New York society girl and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mortimer, obtained a divorce in Reno yesterday, on grounds of non-support. The paper says the decree included an agreement providing that the parents have joint custody of their 5-year-old daughter, Mary Elizabeth, and that an $80,000 trust fund established for the child shall be administered by the Countess and Di Zoppola's father.

Further provision in the decree is that Count Mario Di Zoppola admitted he owes his wife $8,270 as "repayment" on her $100,000 dowry. Predictions were made that steps will be taken to have the civil divorce decree supplemented by the annulment of the marriage by the Roman Catholic rota in Rome.

THIEVES STEAL GEM TRUNK

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Joseph Optican, New York jewelry salesman, reported to police here last night that he had been robbed of a sample trunk containing mounted diamonds worth $50,000. Soon after Optican arrived from Bartlesville he said he found the trunk delivered to his hotel was not his own. The baggage checks had been switched, he said. Police learned that two trunks of similar description had arrived on a train from Bartlesville, one consigned to Optican and the other to unidentified persons at the Elks' Club here. Ten minutes after the second trunk was delivered, two men called for it, saying it should have been delivered to the Y. M. C. A. building.

Optican said he was robbed in a similar manner a year ago between Wichita Falls and Forth Worth, Tex.

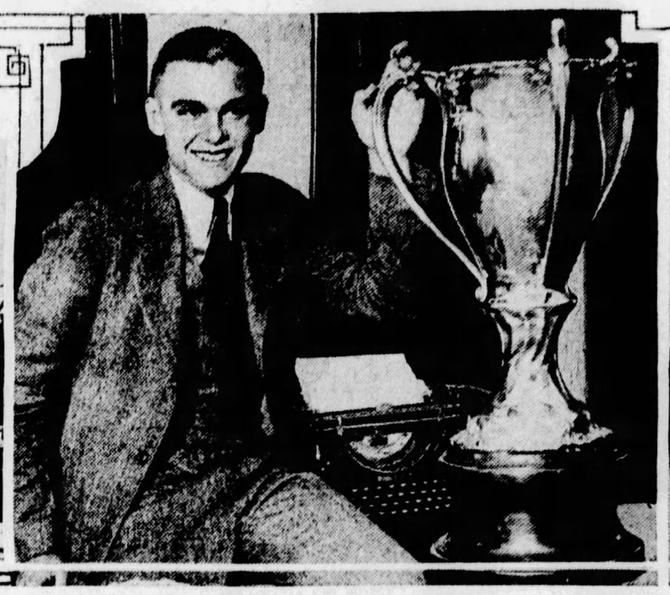
HOW FAST DOES YOUR BEST STENOGRAPHER TYPEWRITE?

ELEANORE MITCHELL

Europe's champion typist, Miss Mitchell, would average only 94 words a minute if she competed under international rules.



CHESTER SOUCEK AND HIS TROPHY

IRMA WRIGHT

The record of Miss Wright, world's champion amateur typist, is 116 words a minute. She's in action above.

HELEN REETZ

The average manages about 50 to 60 words a minute, according to Miss Reetz, showing how it's done in Pittsburgh.

TYPISTS IN U. S. SPEEDIER THAN IN EUROPE

Europe's champion typist, Miss Eleanore Mitchell, with her 150-word-a-minute record, wouldn't have a chance in American competition, an analysis of Miss Mitchell's record and American speed tests reveals.

Miss Mitchell's record sounds speedy, but actually it is not nearly so fast as the mark set up by Pittsburgh's own, Chester Soucek, state champion. In European contests only 10 strokes are deducted for each error, but in the American competitions, which are governed by international typewriting contest rules, 10 words, or 50 strokes, are deducted. Miss Mitchell, competing under the international rules, would have averaged only 94 words a minute, 17 words behind Soucek's record of 111 a minute.

The speediest typist in the world, according to present-day records, is Albert Tangora, whose average of 132 words a minute in international competition establishes him as the world's champion. The champion woman typist, Miss Irma Wright, set a mark of 116 words a minute.

Prisoner Found Dead At Central Station

Unable to arouse a man docketed as John Gallagher, 54, address unknown, in a cell in the Central Police Station, police took him to the Allegheny General Hospital where he was pronounced dead last night. The body was removed to the morgue, where an autopsy disclosed that the man had died of acute alcoholism, deputy coroners say.

Gallagher had been arrested by Patrolman Hugh Lavery at Smithfield and Water streets, three hours before, on a charge of drunkenness.

Preacher Has Son Swear Him Insane

Mothers' Fund Heads in Hunt For Offices

Local heads of the Mothers' Assistance Fund had a hard time finding office space yesterday after being put out of their former home in the Curry Building, which is being torn down to make way for the new County Building. They were directed to the old City Hall, room 101. This, they found, was occupied by the Metropolitan Commission. They were then directed to room 104 but found this occupied by the County division of contracts. However, the Contracts' Division was shifted into an information booth in one of the halls to make room for the Mothers' Assistance Fund. The next question is what the information bureau will do when it needs its booth.

'ELOPING' GIRL TO RETURN

Arrangements are being made today for the return home of Mary Collander, 16, of 148 East Seventeenth avenue, Homestead eloper, who was taken into custody in New York with William J. Thomas 18, of Cherry way, West Homestead. The couple, unable to get married, were picked up in New York, Thursday night. The girl's parents told police they would bring her home.

The Thomas youth disappeared January 23 after leaving a note on Browns bridge, saying that he had taken his life. His father's revolver, which he took with him when he left, was found in his possession in New York, according to word received here.

Body of Local Pilot Is Sent to Illinois

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The body of Eugene Cecil, Pittsburgh-Cleveland air mail pilot, who was killed near here when his plane was wrecked on the top of a mountain, was sent to the family home at Villa Grove, Ill., yesterday. Cecil, who was 35, and is survived by a widow, resided at McKeesport, Pa.

The death of Cecil, who crashed in attempting to land after straying far off his regular route in a snow storm, was the first fatality since the Pittsburgh-Cleveland route was established about two years ago.

SIX CHILDREN ABANDONED TO COLD, HUNGER

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The story of how the parents of six children, ranging in age from 1 to 9 years, deserted their brood and left them without food or fuel, in a shack on the shores of Mona Lake, in Muskegon County, was told here when two of the children arrived at University Hospital yesterday for treatment for rickets, due to undernourishment.

The children, five boys and one girl, were found in the cottage by neighbors. There was no fire and had been none for some time. The children were crying from the cold and huddling in corners to escape the chill winds which swept through the flimsy dwelling.

Two boys were sent here while the other children were taken in by neighbors. The year-old baby may lose a toe as a result of his feet and hands being frozen.

Information obtained by county authorities was that the father of the children had left severall months ago for Chicago and the mother had followed a few days ago.

PASTOR TALKS ON JAWORSKI

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Feb. 2.—Paul Jarworski, Allegheny County bandit executed recently, will furnish the theme for a sermon to be delivered by the Rev. POPE TO CALL ECUMENICAL COUNCIL, FIRST IN 60 YEARS

ROME, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—After an interim of 60 years, an Ecumenical Council shortly will be convoked by Pope Pius XI to meet in 1930, it is learned. Projected repairs and alterations to the nave of St. Peter's in anticipation of the meeting already are being considered by the pontiff.

More than 1,000 bishops and higher ecclesiastics from all over the world will attend the meeting which will consider dogmatic matters and possibly the Italo-Roman question.

It is this last phase which gives the prospective council particular significance. The last ecumenical council was that which adjourned in 1870, just one month after Italian troops under Victor Emmanuel marched into Rome and the Pope began his self-imposed imprisonment at the Vatican.

Not since then have the bishops been called together in ecumenical — which, simply, means "world wide"—council in 1930, if the plans of the Pontiff do not go awry, the problem which had its beginning at the adjournment of the last council will have lived its day and have been solved—an auspicious occasion for work on dogma which the Pontiff feels is highly necessary.

While there has been no official Vatican announcement yet even as to the convoking of the council, it is understood that the Episcopal body may be asked to ratify the negotiations which have been concluded between representatives of the Pope and the Italian government looking to settlement of the controversy between the two. These negotiations now await ratification by the two parties and provide for a large monetary indemnity to the Catholic church, and a ceding to this church of a small but highly desirable tract of land east of the present Vatican grounds.

Flood Waters Sweep Through Ohiopyle

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 2—Ohiopyle today was recovering from the effects of a flood which swept down upon it yesterday, when a dam caused by a cavein near the mouth of an abandoned working of the Anderson Coal Company gave way. The waters swept across the farm of W. M. Glotfelty and through the little mountain town. All of Garrett street, along the Youghiogheny River, was flooded as were the yards of the Ohiopyle Dun Tile Company and R. W. Whipkey Lumber Company.

Attack Victim Said To Be Bride Slayer

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2. — (AP.) — Miami police are seeking positive identification of a man found beaten and unconscious here and who has been declared by two men claiming to be acquaintances to be Christopher Cullen, 36, wanted in Weymouth, Mass., for the murder of his bride of five days.

The man was found on a railroad loading platform of a dairy. Police believed he might have been beaten and thrown from a train.

WOMAN WINS $7,500 VERDICT

Getting a little more each time, the third trial of the $25,000 suit of Mrs. Clara Morford and her husband, Lewis Morford, 149 Brackenridge avenue, Brackenridge, against the Borough of Brackenridge, has resulted in a verdict of $7,500 for Mrs. Morford and $1,800 for Mr. Morford. In the first trial the jury found $6,000 for Mrs. Morford and $1,800 for the husband and in the second trial returned a verdict of $6,000 and $2,000.

The borough was laying a sewer in front of the Morford home August 22, 1923, using a fire hose to put in water tamping. It was testified the workmen turned the hose so that it struck Mrs. Morford, who was standing on her front porch, opposite the work. She was knocked down and bruised internally, and her back was injured. The husband claimed damages for medical attention for his wife.

Tooth In Lung, Girl Speeds to Hospital

WICHITA, Kan., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Esther Elizabeth Croat, 11, today was en route to Philadelphia where she will undergo an operation at the Graduate Hospital there, for removal of a tooth in her lung.

The girl swallowed the tooth December 20 while her mother was attempting to remove it with a string. A serious lung infection developed. Dr. Chevelier Jackson will perform the operation.

Two Youth Accused Of Flourishing Gun

Flourishing a revolver and a blackjack, according to police, Andrew Parke, 17, of 2312 Shelley street, and John Powell, 17, of 2740 Shelley street, were arrested last night in South Twenty-seventh street, near Carson street. Police received complaints that children were being frightened by the pair, they said. The two are charged with being suspicious person.

Three Boys Sought In Window Robbery

'SPIRIT' RICHES OF STILWELL DWINDLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The fortune which Arthur E. Stilwell, retired railroad builder, said spirits aided him to amass, was disclosed today by his will to have dwindled to about $1,000.

The small size of his estate caused general surprise in financial and railroad circles. It generally had been believed he was still the possessor of considerable wealth at the time of his death last September.

SUFFERED MEXICAN SETBACK

The lawyers who filed the document declined to assign any reason for the dwindling of the holdings, but it was recalled he suffered a severe financial setback some years ago in connection with a railroad he was commissioned to build by the Mexican government.

This commission was given after he had completed a road which shortened the distance from Kansas to the Mexican Central Railroad. Due to financial difficulties, the Mexican road was never completed and was sold at auction in 1924.

Mr. Stilwell during his life raised millions of dollars for construction of railroads. His first road was the Kansas City Belt Line. During his career he constructed seven railroads with approximately 2,500 miles of tracks. He also designed and built the city of Port Arthur, Tex., as a gulf terminal for one of his roads.

GAVE CREDIT TO SPIRITS

After his retirement he made a public announcement that he had been guided in all his undertakings by the advice of spirits.

The will gave the entire estate to his widow, but, as she committed suicide two weeks after his death by leaping from the twelfth-floor window of her apartment, it will go to two of his sisters, Mrs. Florence Robb and Mrs. Annie P. Moore, both of Buffalo, N. Y., and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary E. Ferris, of Binghamton, N. Y.

Hit-and-Run Driver Hurts East End Man

East End police are seeking a hit-and-run motorist who ran down Hirley Himerlight, 43, 249 Amber street, while Himerlight was crossing Penn avenue at Collins avenue. A pedestrian who had Himerlight removed to the Pittsburgh Hospital reported the accident to the police. The victim was treated at the hospital and then taken home.

Man Leaves Pay For Gas Used To End Life

HOBOKEN, N. J., Feb. 2.—(INS.)—Lindy Newton, 40, a sailor, not only paid his rent to his landlady, but also paid for the cost of the gas when he committed suicide in his room last night, police said today. When the landlady, Mrs. Anna Glasshopo, broke into his room after smelling gas, she told police, she found him with a gas tube in his mouth. On the table was $6 and a note stating that $5 of the sum was for the room rent and $1 for the gas he was going to use.

J. D. DECLARED 'MISINFORMED'

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Col. Robert W. Stewart expressed the opinion yesterday that John D. Rockefeller, Sr., would not have supported his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in the latter's fight with Col. Stewart over control of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana unless the elder Rockefeller had "been deliberately misinformed."

Col. Stewart addressed a letter to Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., in reply to a public statement by Mr. Rockefeller that he would support his son in efforts to oust Col. Stewart as chairman of the board of the Standard of Indiana.

The chairman of the board told the elder Rockefeller that he could have "understood the silence of a father under the circumstances," but was unable to understand the statement.

At the same time it was announced 1,100 employes of the Wood River refinery of the company near Alton had decided to support Col. Stewart by voting 15,000 shares of stock held by them for him at the March stockholders' meeting.

Smoke Regulation Head to Speak

H. B. Meller, head of the city Bureau of Smoke Regulation, will address the Women's Community Association of the Twenty-seventh Ward Monday night in the John Morrow School, Davis avenue. Miss Nance Bricker and Miss Marie Saul will have charge, respectively, of the social hour and the music.

AIMEE'S RADIO OPERATOR IN FUND QUIZ

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 2.—(INS.)—Kenneth Ormiston, former radio operator of Angelus Temple and one of the central figures in the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnaping case, today again found himself enmeshed in the affairs of the noted evangelist.

The legislative committee investigating the $2,500 "love offering" given to Judge Carlos S. Hardy, has announced that Ormiston will be called before the committee to be questioned.

The committee also announced that former District Attorney Asa Keyes would be asked to appear before the investigating body. It was indicated that Keyes would be asked if Judge Hardy ever conferred with him regarding the McPherson kidnaping-conspiracy case.

The investigation is being made to determine whether Judge Hardy is liable to impeachment. Should the committee decide the "love offering" was given for legal advice, it is likely that the committee will recommend that he be impeached.

Judge Hardy claims the money was not given to him for legal advice. Mrs. McPherson likewise testified that the $2,500 gift was not in payment for legal advice.

McCormick Petition Thrown Out by Court

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(INS.)—Probate Judge Henry Horner decided yesterday his court had no jurisdiction in the appointment of a conservator of the body of Stanley McCormick. A petition for an appointment had been made by Mrs. Katherine Dexter McCormick. The Judge held that service had not been made upon McCormick personally.

McCormick is now living at Santa Barbara, Cal., where he has been ill for some time. A petition of members of McCormick's immediate family for the naming of a conservator of his $35,000,000 estate recently was granted.

WINDOW-BREAKERS LOOT ONE STORE, FLEE SECOND

The two North Side window robbers shattered two store fronts again this morning. They robbed one store, but were frightened away before they had completed their work at the second place. Two days ago they committed a similar robbery.

Throwing a tire iron through the window of the Dunke Electric Shop, at 904 East treet, the two occupants of an automobile stepped to the pavement to steal articles in the window, but fled when a nearby resident who had witnessed the breaking of the pane, called to them. The window was valued at $200.

At the hardware store of C. P. Conway, at 1616 Lowrie street, the same men shattered a large window valued at $300. They stole two small gas stoves valued at $40 each. In this case they used a tire pump to break the glass.

MOVIEDOM ON DRESS PARADE AS "THE DIVINE LADY" GETS PREMIERE

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate).

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 2.

And Corinne was gorgeous in a soft, shimmering fine satin gown, simply but gracefully made, longer in the back than the front and with panel on the left side.

For the opening of her most auspicious cinema in years, Husband Walter Morosco presented Corinne with a stunning bracelet. 'Twas made of graduated diamonds linked together by diamonds. She also wore two other bracelets, both set in platinum and having three rows of diamonds with emerald buckles between them. They glittered real deluxey. Oh, yes, and she wore a chinchilla wrap—luscious, too.

Corinne Griffith

Corinne Plays Historic Lady

"THE DIVINE LADY" is beautiful photographically. Miss Griffith appears her loveliest as Lady Hamilton and gives a ditto performance. Victor Varconi, as Lord Nelson, shares histrionic honors with her. Ian Keith and H. W. Warner—no relation to Vitaphone—are also in the cast. The story celluloids lengthily. Too lengthily for this scribe, who lapsed restless when Lord Nelson went forth for his secont sea battle with Napoleon's fleet. One sea fight is grand. Two's company and company never works in the flickers.

As usual, the flicker-ites went dress parade and thereby pleased their maids. Norma Shearer and Irving Thalberg, Laura La Plante and William Seiter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. George Fitzmaurice, Ian Keith, Vera Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Moreno, Bess Meredyth and Michael Curtiz, Vera Reynolds and Robert Ellis, Julia Faye and her mother, Leatrice Joy, Colleen Moore and John McCormick, Ruth Roland and Ben Bard, Mr. and Mrs. Jack White (Pauline Starke), Sue Carol and Nick Stewart. All present. Um, and others. The house was jammed with fems and what came with them.

Leatrice Joy.

Movie Stars Play Y. M. C. A.

SCREEN SCRIBS: Tomorrow eve will see the Thalians engage the local Y. M. C. A. basketball team in mortal combat. BILLIE DOVE asked TOM MIX to be timekeeper and he agreed. Billie and COLLEEN MOORE will assist. The Thalian team is comprised of flicker-ites, including "BUDDY" ROGERS, GEORGE O'BRIEN, MERVYN LEROY, et al. Outer be a heyhey game. With gossip at its lowest ebb, the villagers spare a few words wondering if LOWELL SHERMAN and ANN RORK will resume being "that way" now that Lowell is getting a divorce from PAULINE GARON. JAN KEITH admitting he can compete as the world's greatest lover. Modest, I calls it. Ian's wife, ETHEL CLAYTON, is in Kansas City these days. Can't answer any whys. LOTTIE PICKFORD and JACK DAUGHERTY whooping it up at the Plantation. Lottie looks badly. NILS ASTHER annoyed because his car was stolen and returned. Yes, he carries insurance. DON ALVARADEZ is up and about after three days' victimization by flu. And Don is coughing much better, thank you. And—that's all.

Nils Asther.

Director Niblo Speaks a Piece

AFTER the final fade-out, Fred Niblo took the spotlight and went Rotarian for five minutes ere introducing the cast.

Miss Griffith and Mr. Morosco sped homeward immediately to hostess and host for a small gathering of friends. There was a buffet supper, tall glasses, conversation, and then the grand exit. Corinne had to work the next day. 'Twas a delightful evening for her and she was at her rollicking ultra. Incidentally, she and Walter trek Europe-wards about March 21 for several months' anticipated merriment.

Howard Greer, fashion director, says:

Marion Davies goes shopping in a black and white crepe romaine ensemble. The two-piece dress is a combination of black and white, ingeniously put together in modern manner. The coat, of black, is straight and three-quarter in length, with an attached cape banked in silver fox. A standing collar of fox frames the face.

REAL LIFE ROMANCE

It looks like Janet Gaynor's romancing isn't confined to the screen. Hollywood reports have it that she soon will announce her engagement to Lyndell Peck, young Los Angeles attorney.

3 Saved as Car Hits Train in Snowstorm

SOMERSET, Pa., Feb. 2.—Joseph Starr, his wife and his daughter, Esther, 16, narrowly escaped death when their automobile was dragged 200 feet by a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad freight train at Stoyestown. All were thrown from the machine by the impact and escaped with slight injuries. Starr, unable to see because of a blinding snowstorm, crashed into the train at a crossing.

Quarantine Ordered On Sheep and Dogs

WAYNESBURG, Feb. 2.—A general quarantine has been ordered on all sheep and dogs in the Ruffs Creek and Castile sections of Greene County by the State Department of Animal Industry in order to prevent further spread of an epidemic of rabies which has developed among sheep flocks and farm dogs.

Varied Programs By Heinroth, Organist

The first number on Dr. Charles Heinroth's organ recital in Carnegie Music Hall tonight will be the Overture, Nocturne, Scherzo and Wedding March from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream." This recital starts at 8:15 o'clock.

The program includes:

Pastorale, Rodger-Ducasse; Two Divertimenti, Yon; Persian Suite, Stoughton; Andante from Symphony in G Minor, Mozart; Ride of the Valkyries, Wagner.

The program for Dr. Heinroth's concert tomorrow afternoon follows:

State Dentists End Mid-Winter Meeting

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania State Dental Association ended its mid-winter meeting here last night with a banquet and ball at the Hotel Lawrence. More than 100 dentists were registered for the sessions which convened Thursday.

Dr. Elmer Hess, Erie surgeon, was the principal speaker at the banquet. Other speakers were Dr. E. R. Elliott and Dr. V. A. Westin, both of Pittsburgh, and Dr. A. McAlpin, of Bradford.

NEW THEATER BILL HAS VARIETY

All next week, beginning Monday night and playing the usual matinees Wednesday and Saturday, the new Winter Garden revue, "Pleasure Bound," will be in the Alvin. Its cast includes Jack Pearl, Phil Baker, Aileen Stanley, Shaw and Lee, Fred Hillebrand, Ralph Locke, Rosita Moreno, Paco Moreno and Oleson and St. John.

Gladys Clark and Henry Bergman, in comedy songs and dances, are to be conspicuous on the bill in the Davis next week. Their songs are tales set to music and they are expert hoofers.

Monday afternoon in the Nixon, with matinees daily thereafter, Arthur Hammerstein will present "The End of St. Petersburg." The picture was shown in New York for four months.

COLMAN NOW STAR

Ronald Colman will be seen on the Penn screen next week in "The Rescue," film version of Joseph Conrad's story of the same name. It is Colman's first star film. Teddy Joyce and the Penn Stage Band will present "Cheerio."

"The Redeeming Sin," a Warner Brothers Vitaphone film, is coming to the Stanley screen next week with a cast including Conrad Nagel, Dolores Costello, Lionel Belmore, Phillippe de Lacy and Warner Richmond.

"In Old Arizona," the first all-talking screen play produced out of doors, will be seen and heard next week in Loew's Aldine. It is the result of more than three years of experimentation in talking pictures on the part of William Fox.

"Give and Take," with Jean Hersholt and George Sidney featured, will be the attraction on the Grand screen next week.

Jyes LaRue, brunette prima donna, is prominent in the cast of "Wine, Woman and Song," burlesque which opens in the Academy with a midnight show Sunday night.

WARNER HEADS CAST

A Warner Brothers Vitaphone production, "Stark Mad," with a cast headed by H. B. Warner and Louise Fazenda, will be the attraction at the Enright Theater, East Liberty, opening today.

Bernard Gorcey and Ida Kramer, who played Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Cohen in the stage version of "Abie's Irish Rose," play the same parts in the screen version with sound, which is showing in the Regent for the first time in East Liberty.

Hardeen, brother of Houdini, will be featured in the vaudeville in the Sheridan Square the first half of next week and in the Harris the last half of the week. The talking picture feature in each theater for the first three days of the week will be "The Spieler," with Alan Hale and Renee Adoree.

Women in More Auto Mishaps Than Men

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—According to Dr. Morris S. Viteles, assistant professor of psychology at the University of Pennsylvania, a recent survey shows that when men and women who drive automobiles cover an equal amount of mileage and face approximately the same traffic conditions, the women are three times as likely to become involved in accidents as the men.

On the other hand, the survey suggested, the accidents in which the women drivers become involved are less likely to be attended with serious damage than those in which the men participate.

It also was indicated that women drivers escape with relatively smaller damage claims against them.

CITY POLICE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICE IN BODY

The evening service tomorrow at Smithfield Methodist Episcopal Church, Smithfield street and Seventh avenue, will be devoted to the Pittsburgh police force, when policemen of the city will attend in a body. WRITING TO "I'M THE GUY" BIGGEST CRAZE OF DAY

It seems as though most everyone who reads the Sun Telegraph has been affected by the craze for writing I'M THE GUY wise cracks.

I'M THE GUY'S office is so full of letters from Pittsburgh and every town around the city that he hardly has room to move.

I'M THE GUY wants everyone who has already entered the contest and not won a prize to keep right on trying. Each day's winner, he says, seems to be someone who has been trying since the contest began, and finally has sent in a wise crack to take the honors.

If you have not as yet sent in any clever lines for I'M THE GUY, do so today. See today's winners to get the idea. Write as many as you want and mail them to I'M THE GUY, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh.

FIVE DOLLAR PRIZE WINNER

"I'm the Guy who knows that taking 'A' from Agent does not make every Agent a Gent." Mrs. E. Todhunter, 545 Broadway McKees Rocks.

ONE DOLLAR PRIZE WINNERS

"I'm the Guy who said do not lag when saluting the American flag." Won by Thelma Shroads, 2012 Eighth avenue, Beaver Falls.

"I'm the Guy that put the Sit in Visit." Won by Mary M. Leiter, Third and Taylor avenues, Beaver.

"I'm the Guy who took 'a' and 'r' from arrange and still had a Range." Won by Mrs. J. W. Alexander, 1508 Evans street, McKeesport.

"I'm the Guy who got a position through good composition." Won by Gertrude E. Mellon, 550 Mellon street.

"I'm the Guy who took the 'L' from Lover and thought it over." Won by Mrs. William L. Twele, Box 73, Greenock.

Senate Confirmation Of J. R. Clark Stands

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The nomination of J. Reuben Clark undersecretary of state, was reconsidered by the Senate on motion of Chairman Borah, of the Foreign Relations Committee, yesterday, but the confirmation voted earlier in the week was finally allowed to stand.

Senator Borah asked reconsideration of the vote by which Clark, a Utah man, was confirmed upon receipt of a protest involving the conduct of the undersecretary in an old law case. A letter from Clark explaining his position was read and accepted by the Senate.

TEMPERANCE NEED CITED BY LAWYER, CLERGYMEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—"When God wrote his 10 Commandments, He did not add an amendment of enforcement (Exod, 20:1-17). God made man a free agent. When Jesus turned water into wine, it was wine (John 2:1-12). The Bible does not say that it was grape juice. The apostle Paul wrote: 'Every man that striveth for mastery is temperate in all things.' (1 Cor, 9-25).

"In accordance with this God-given knowledge, the Constitution of the United States of America was written by God-fearing men, giving to every American citizen the privilege of 'freedom of conscience.'

"The question arises: "If American citizens are deprived of their freedom of conscience, how can they exercise the power of moderation?

"In abolishing the saloon, the Anti-Saloon League accomplished a great and commendable work, but in overstepping the boundary of its purpose, it did a greater harm than the saloons ever did at their worst. Where formerly in one block there were four saloons, we now have 14 speakeasies. Facts are indisputable. Prohibition has made us the laughing stock of the world, turned law-abiding citizens into hypocrites and made a crime of that which is not a crime."

The foregoing statement is part of the logic and observation of a woman living in a fashionable part of New York city, who entered the $25,000 temperance prize contest initiated by William Randolph Hearst to find a means for the abolition of prohibition and to substitute for it temperance. Thousands of such views are raining upon the contest headquarters as evidence of the tremendous interest evinced from coast to coast in Mr. Hearst's offer.

Interviews by the Hearst newspapers with persons of note in their communities on the purposes of the contest are published daily, of which the following are indicative in tone:

Albet E. Hughes

Albert E. Hughes, Boston attorney:

"Such a travesty on justice and law as the prohibition law is! We lawyers are in a position to know and we do. The whole thing is a farce. It is only such a man as Mr. Hearst who would dare sanction a substitute for prohibition, and bring his position, influence and newspapers to bear on the problem.

"The prohibition law should be radically modified and in its place should be enacted a more sane and sensible measure, in accord with the beliefs, ideals and emotions of the people.

"I say this though I have never touched a drop in my life. But that prohibition has failed must be admitted by the most prejudiced. It has, and there's no denying it.

"Prohibition has been tried ten years. That is a fair trial, and is long enough. Give something else a test. If ours is a progressive civilization, let us evidence it by abandoning this farce."

Donald L. Marshall

Donald L. Marshall, chief of police, Oakland, Cal.:

"Mr. Hearst is to be commended for taking a very excellent means of stimulating interest and thought in one of the most vexing and perplexing problems of the day. I consider any plan which, like Mr. Hearst's, will precipitate a closer study and consequent better understanding of America's prohibition problem, an aid to the cause of temperance."

Nathan Matthews

The Rev. Nathan Matthews, Calvary Church, Danvers, Mass.:

"I don't believe in prohibition a bit. Never have! It has done more to bring about evil and harm than anything else I know. And I ought to know. I am in a position to see and get around. And I am not the only one who holds this view. Ungodly thing, I think. It was horrible ever to have countenanced any such measure.

"Of course, I wouldn't want to see the return of the saloon conditions of pre-prohibition days but neither should I like to see continue the conditions as they are, brought about, while not wholly, largely because the young people have been hounded with 'you must not,' and 'you shall not.'

"I, for one, would welcome a remedy. We have not had prohibition. Let us then modify the Volstead act in the honest and real interest of temperance and morality and permit beer and wine. I have a friend here who is 98 years old, the oldest graduate of Harvard, and he thinks the same as I do."

Daniel R. Magruder

The Rev. Daniel R. Magruder, Church of St. John's Evangelist, Hingham, Mass.:

"The Bible has no quarrel with the use of wines in moderation. The Christian church stands primarily for self-control. The prohibition law has been extremely demoralizing and I think that some modification of the law would make, in the long run, for greater temperance.

"There is need of a change. We should either abolish or modify the Volstead act, and I trust the Hearst temperance prize contest may find a real solution."

William John Cooper

William John Cooper, California superintendent of public instruction and newly appointed United States commissioner of education:

"Voluntary obedience to properly constituted law is the cornerstone of a democratic government. It is obvious either that the attitude of large numbers of people must change or that our present laws regarding liquor should be modified. Either alternative means a campaign of education. Insofar as Mr. Hearst's plan will lead to careful investigation and intelligent discussion, having in view the welfare of our republic rather than the pocketbooks of some or the anarchistic impulses of others, it is a good thing and will be supported by educators."

Rules of $25,000 Temperance Contest

THE purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitue for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close on April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

Davenport and Chair

In the February Furniture Sale

Davenport $160 — $240 — Chair $80

Demonstrating how much can be bought for so little in this great event . . . this davenport and chair in a choice of coverings—plain or chevron-checked mohair, tapestries, brocatelle or damask. Proportioned for use in today's homes and apartments, the pieces are of the English type—with smart narrow arms and deep, luxurious cushions—in keeping with the mode of 18th Century furniture. They are typical of the great predominance of moderately priced suites and pieces in the February Sale.

A Sale of Beautiful Furniture

No matter what price you choose to pay, the furniture we show you will be chaste of line and tastefully proportioned. And the finish, the materials, the deep-down construction will be the high grade that has for years identified Horne's as purveyors of the excellent in furniture.

See the great selections . . . and the February prices . . . lower by a considerable degree than in other months of the year. There is furniture here for your home, be it a luxurious town house, a modern apartment or a modest suburban cottage.

For years Horne's has been recognized for leadership in the finer qualities of furniture. With the decided increase in building—with the great number of new homes throughout the entire city, this store has turned its attention to meeting the requirements of these new home-makers with great stocks of good furniture at moderate prices.

A still further advantage in choosing your new furniture at Horne's is the liberal plan of deferred payments. A reasonable first payment will deliver the furniture to your home—the balance may be paid over a period of months.

We invite you to consult the Decorative Studios on all problems of home furnishing and decoration—a staff of thirty decorators and artists is at your disposal, and there is no charge for this service.

Twelve rooms furnished and decorated by our Studios show the furniture in correct and modern settings.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Do Men Resemble Cats?

EVERY now and then some masculine philosopher goes miles out of his way to prove that women resemble cats, while men resemble that nobler animal, the dog.

This always gets a perfectly good "rise" out of me. Not because I adore women—but, because I adore, admire and envy CATS!

I envy the cat his perfect poise, his calm self-assurance, his beautiful self-complacency, his placid indifference, his love of neatness and order, and his imperturbable masculine DIGNITY! And, for all these qualities I envy a man! In my next incarnation, oh Lord, make me a cat—or a man!

* * *

Cats and men have NO inferiority complex. It is only women and dogs who suffer from humility and self-doubt and are forever running about trying to please somebody or to ingratiate themselves with somebody, or to attract somebody's attention.

Cats and men are attached to places. It is harder to dig a cat or a man out of a comfortable home or his favorite easy chair, than it is to dig the first olive out of a bottle, or a secret out of the Sphinx. Once a cat takes a liking to a place, families may come and families may go—but the cat stays on, forever!

* * *

A dog and a woman, on the other hand, will follow the man they love to the ends of the earth. Dogs and women are always wandering out, snooping into the neighbors' affairs, and trying to get friendly with strange people. Their ruling passion is curiosity!

* * *

But dogs and women CAN be tied—and often have to be. Whereas, what cat and what man could ever be held by main force? They abhor that "tied feeling," and even a collar around the neck galls them!

A dog and a woman love to be loved, and are grateful for a pat on the head, and a kind word or a bone flung at them. But a cat and a man flee incontinently from anything flung at them—particularly affection.

* * *

A cat and a man will sit coldly across the room, and utterly ignore the woman who tries to allure them with her tender advances. But the woman who pretends not to notice their presence, and treats them with polite indifference, will soon find them purring around her and bidding for attention. It breaks a dog's heart to be ignored—it only hurts a cat's vanity.

Cats, like men, prefer to do their own pursuing and HATE being chased. Their affections, if any, are given to the woman who flatters them the most, makes them most comfortable—and lets them ALONE!

Why do I admire cats? Because they are so superbly MASCULINE!

* * *

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Don't Do This!

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

How should I write a note (without being rude) asking to spend the week with a friend and wishing to pay my own expenses? INQUISITIVE.

I CAN conceive no circumstance in which such a letter would be in good taste. I really would not know how to write such a letter. If you will write me again and make clear to me the circumstances which would justify such a letter I shall be glad to try it. But such a letter would demand that the reason for such a request be made perfectly clear.

Not Too Young

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am a girl 20 years old and am about to be married and I would like to know if it would be proper to have a younger brother, 16 years old, give me in marriage at a church wedding. If this is not good taste would it be proper for an uncle of my fiance to give me in marriage or perhaps a very close friend? X. Y.

IF the young gentleman of 16 is your only brother, I strongly advise that you give him the honor of presenting you in marriage. (That is, if your father is not living, or is not to be at the wedding.)

I went to a wedding the other day at which the bride was about your age, and her brother of 15 gave her in marriage. It was very appealing, for he is a young gentleman of great dignity and he performed his part in the service with a most effective realization of how important and dignified it should be.

Resting the Knife

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct form in the course of eating a meal to rest the knife and fork, when not in use, on the platter, and is it equally proper just to have the prongs of the fork rest on the edge of the plate and the other end on the table, and the end of the knife rest on the edge of the plate with the handle resting on the table? S. W.

ALL of these forms are incorrect—essentially incorrect. To rest the handle of either the fork or the knife on the table, when one is eating, is to indulge in a terrible "give-away" that we do not know what's what in table-manners.

After we have begun to eat a course, the handle of our fork or knife does not touch the tablecloth. If we rest our knife, or rather when we rest our knife, it is with the handle and blade on the rim of the plate, the upper part of the handle and the the lower part of the blade. Likewise, when we rest our fork, we rest it on the plate, never with the handle touching the tablecloth.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

STYLISH DRESS FOR MANY OCCASIONS (FOR STOUT FIGURES).

As an evening gown without sleeves, this design will be lovely in lace or in metal brocade with facings of crepe or satin on the vestee and panels. It will also be attractive as an afternoon dress in velvet or flat crepe or in satin. Moire taffeta is also suggestive. The waist blouses slightly above the belt. The deep V neck is squared by a vestee. Loose panels, one set on at the belt and the other at the edge of the curved yoke in front, gives the popular uneven hem line. The sleeve is a one piece fitted model.

This pattern is cut in 9 sizes: 36, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52 and 54 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 46-inch size will require 5 yards of 39 inch material. For facing of contrasting material on the vestee and panels ¾ yard is required. For facing on vestee alone ¼ yard yard is required.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

BOTH WINNERS-LOSERS

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

"LOVE is cruel," accuse the women and girls. And cast mournful and indignant looks at love.

"Libel!" shouts Love in his voice that is a cross between that of a Mourning-Dove and a child's treble. "Women are cruel. They would pluck my feathers to trim their hats!—if feathers were in style."

"What! And what!" gurgles brown eyes and blue, charcoal black hair and hair sifted with gold-dust. "You who go armed with a bunch of arrows that you stop at every corner to sharpen! Heart-breaker; thief; magician who puts up dreams for realities—dreams that fade! And YOU laugh. You never grow old and you never weep. What is a broken heart to you?"

"I do weep, and it's nobody's fault but yours that I never grow old. I do not break hearts—I prick them with bitter-sweet—just enough to make them wildly happy. After that I go my way, for I am a very busy young fellow. And is it my fault if people break their own rainbow bubbles and their own hearts? Women cheat love, neglect him, decorate themselves with him—" says Love.

"Love cheats—you promise and you forget. You summon romance and then you go to sleep. You lure us down moonlit, jasmine-scented paths; and at the end of them we need a fur coat! Warmth and perfume are no more." This from scarlet lips and furious eyes—la femme.

"Woman is fickle and cruel!" cries Cupid. The while he thinks how pretty, how very alluring, how very winsome, and how very completely, very desirable she is!"

"Love is cruel and a snare!" cries woman. The while she thinks how sweet, how delectable, how enchanting, how very winsome, how very completely, very desirable he is!

He pulls her hair, and she jerks his feathers.

It is one fight where both are lost when both have won! —NELL BRINKLEY.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Marion Maintains Attitude of Hostility Against Stepfather.

MARION MORTON did not turn her head the fraction of an inch as her stepfather asked her mother her opinion of the new car's behavior in traffic. Nor did she halt perceptibly in the conversation she was carrying on with Mary Harrison. But I, watching her closely, saw the little rippling shudder that went over her as she heard Harry Underwood address Lillian as "old girl," saw the subsequent stiffening of the muscles at the back of her neck, and knew that she was fiercely resentful, not so much at the familiar address as at the loving comradely admiration which invested his tone.

At first I thought Lillian had not noticed the girl's reaction, and was thankful. Her voice was warmly enthusiastic, her face unruffled and smiling as she answered:

"She's the 'Liverpool packet,' lad."

"Does that mean 'good Lord, let her go'" he finished the quotation with a grin.

"Later," she hedged hurriedly. "Say east of Patchogue."

"We're not going that way," her husband informed her. "Too much traffic. The old Dicky-bird has a new way figured out—a luscious peach—a bit longer than the main one, but little traffic and new concrete, most of 'em."

Lillian and I groaned in unison. Many and hectic have been our adventures when Dickey has elected to find new roads, forsaking the well-beaten ones.

"The last time the Dicky-bird found a new road for us," Lillian said, "we broke two springs on a spur of wood road—a short cut which was to save an hour or thereabouts of time. We spent the night, Madge and I, at the worst hotel on Long Island, while Dicky went on to New York, and we waited the next day until the dratted thing was fixed, and then Madge drove it home."

"You'd trim a Christmas tree with crepe," Dicky told her truculently. "Just for that, Harry, don't take 'em over the new roads. Go on down through the thickest traffic you can find."

But Mr. Underwood shook his head with decision.

"Nothing doing," he said. "I'm sold on the new way. Don't worry, old dear," he turned to his wife again. "I've been over the most of the way with the Dicky-bird trying out cars. It's a pippin. We'll turn off the double boulevard about a mile before Jamaica, cut across on a bully turnpike to the Motor Parkway, speed along that to Lake Ronkonkoma, then amble north and east to Port Jefferson, then across to Riverhead on that new road and thence home."

"If you're sure there are no detours, you've picked a course free of traffic," Lillian conceded.

"Nary a detour," her husband assured her, "and we can step on it on the Parkway and at the east end. We'll have you home, Duchess, before you have time to cook up a grouch."

Lillian laughed indulgently, but as her eyes went to Marion's lovely head stiffly erect with an air of uncompromising rigidity about it, the merriment died from her face and her lips tightened into a thin line of pain.

Useless to pretend that I had not seen, and so I laid my hand over one of hers. She turned it quickly, palm upward and grasped mine fiercely, clinging to it as if the contact helped her. After a few seconds, I spoke in the inaudible murmur she taught me in our old secret war service together.

"Don't take that child so seriously," I begged. "She's acting the way a spoiled small boy does when somebody wants to share his favorite toy. But she's coming out of it slowly, and she'll convalesce all the faster if you don't take her temperature every so often."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

"Flu" Complications Carry Real Danger

AS I write this, the papers are carrying accounts of the ravages by influenza. It takes so long after it is written for one of my articles to go through the various processes before it is printed in the papers, that it would be useless now to speak of the care and prevention of influenza. I fear the information would be given too late.

But there will be after-effects of this disease which will be felt by many persons who have suffered from it. It is my present desire to speak of these.

The danger of all the acute respiratory diseases, including influenza, is that secondary infections may take place. The germs of the pus producing germs, and other unfriendly agents, are all the time seeking admission to the human body. This is the serious thing about influenza.

No matter how severe may be the type of influenza in a given epidemic, a patient rarely dies. It is the complication of pneumonia or pleurisy that is most likely to prove serious.

Such complications are not the only ones. There may be trouble with the kidneys. What is even more serious is involvement of the nervous system.

If you are attacked by influenza you should go at once to bed and make a business of getting well. In that case, the unfriendly germs will not have the opportunity to engraft themselves upon your system.

If you are convalescing from influenza and are not making a satisfactory recovery, it is necessary to find out what is wrong. You should talk with your family doctor about it. He will examine your chest to make sure that the lungs are clear and that no remnant of disease is left there.

At the same time the doctor will listen to the heart's action to see if that organ is functioning in a normal way. Likewise, there will be a test made of the kidney function to see if it is as it should be.

After the great epidemic of 1918, we found a few cases of sleeping sickness. Of course this is not the sleeping sickness such as they have in Africa. The term as we use it, is given to an involvement of the brain and nervous system in which sleepiness and inability to perform mental work are the prominent symptoms.

I shall not undertake to detail the treatment which should be followed in any one of these complications of influenza. My purpose is to call them to your attention in order that you will be governed accordingly. If you are not progressing satisfactorily, it is vitally important to be wisely advised as to what further should be done.

Answers to Health Queries

D. E. Q.—What do you advise for a person suffering with arthritis?

A.—For this condition, massage, baking, mud baths, electricity, X-ray, vaccines all have their value.

K. A. Q.—What do you advise for correcting cross eyes? Is such operation dangerous? Where can I obtain literature along these lines?

A.—Operation. No, since it does not involve the seeing part of the eyes. My advice would be to see an eye specialist for further advice and examination.

C. P. Q.—What do you advise for acne?

2.—Is smoking and salt harmful?

A.—Eat simple food, eliminating starches, fats and sweets from your diet. Avoid constipation. Drink plenty of water between meals.

2.—Not unless used excessively.

M. T. Q.—What can be done for uric acid and pains in the limbs and back? I have trouble with my bowels.

A.—Proper attention to your diet, avoiding too much meat and excessive sweets, should help you to some extent. When the acidity has been cleared up, the pains will probably disappear.

M. A. Q.—What causes headaches?

A.—The common causes of headache are: eye-strain, infected teeth, tonsils and sinuses, constipation, indigestion, auto-intoxication, high blood-pressure, kidney conditions, or catarrh. A thorough physical examination and a complete eye test will usually locate the source of the trouble.

Horoscopes

Sunday, February 3

SUNDAY'S horoscope forecasts most interesting and important occurrences, possibly of an unforseen nature, and having to do with the personal or romantic affiliations. There is prospect of a sudden and radical change, with travel or new environment. It may involve a spectacular marriage. It would be well to be on guard against a situation of treachery or duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of sudden and far reaching changes. These may relate to purely personal or romantic affiliations, or to artistic business connections. Be careful in new projects and guard against treachery or subtlety.

A child born on this day may be skillful, artistic, and accomplished in many directions, and should succeed in a conspicuous degree in music, art, invention, or in original research in science.

Fulfill thy fate! Be, do, bear and thank God.—Bailey.

Monday, February 4

WHILE this is forecast as a day of much activity, with stirring events in business, employment and in finance or possible speculation, yet there is a sign warning against rash use of money, unwise investment, debts, loans and litigation. With good judgment and calm manipulation of opportunities presented, profit and advancement in many directions may be reaped. Personal affairs may assure a sensational or surprising complexion.

Those whose birthday it is are to have a year of alluring openings and opportunities in many avenues of gain, but speculation, loans, debts and kindred risks may bring defeat, threatening litigation and loss. In personal affiliations there is hint of the unconventional or sensational.

A child born on this day may be clever, versatile and adaptable to many pursuits and activities, but a leaning toward rashness in handling finances and in making loans and debts may prove its ultimate undoing. Prudence, thrift and caution should be instilled.

He only owes who something hath to pay.—Martial.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

SCHOOLGIRLS NEED HEALTH

Daughter of Mrs. Catherine Lamuth Box 72, Mohawk, Michigan

"After my daughter grew into womanhood she began to feel rundown and weak and a friend asked me to get her your medicine. She took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine. Her nerves are better, her appetite is good, she is in good spirits and able to work every day. We recommend the Vegetable Compound to other girls and to their mothers."—Mrs. Catherine Lamuth.

Daughter of Mrs. Eva Wood Howe 1006 South H. Street, Danville, Ill.

"I praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for my fourteen-year-old daughter as well as for me. It has helped her growth and her nerves and she has a good appetite now and sleeps well. She has gone to school every day since beginning the medicine. I will continue to give it to her at regular intervals and will recommend it to other mothers who have daughters with similar troubles."—Mrs. Eva Wood Howe.

PATRICIA PITT'S SOCIAL COMMENT

Pittsburghers Principals In Greensburg and Gotham Weddings

JUST in case you might be thinking that, because our social season is a thing of the past now, there is nothing of interest going on, I am going to tell you about a couple of weddings which are making this particular week-end important. Both of these are out-of-town ceremonies, but since the bride at one and the bridegroom at the other wedding are local folks, their remoteness doesn't detract from their importance here. And, as a coincidence, both brides are daughters of well-known jurists.

Farthest away from home was Rhoda Drew's marriage to Oliver Parker McComas which was solemnized last night in New York. And today, at 5 o'clock, is the wedding of Katharine Whitten, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Charles Edward Whitten, of Greensburg, and Charles Chauncey Mellor II, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Burt Mellor, of the D'Arlington apartments, Shadyside.

This latter ceremony is being performed in the Westminster Presbyterian Church by the pastor, the Rev. William Owens, and a reception at the Greensburg Country Club follows. Katharine is being given in marriage by her father, and her maid of honor is her sister, Elizabeth. The bridal gown is a French model in white satin, and she is wearing a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet is of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Two Pittsburgh girls are bridesmaids—Ellen Page and Mrs. Henry Peterson. Their frocks and that of the maid of honor are made alike in fuschia chiffon, and with them are worn beige hats. They are carrying Dresden bouquets of spring flowers.

Mr. Mellor is having John W. Beatty, Jr., of Pittsburgh, for his best man and the ushers include George C. Calvert, of Elyria, O.; John B. Veach, of Oil City, and Guy Batchelor, of this city. William Wentzell, of Greensburg, is playing the wedding music.

The young Mr. and Mrs. Mellor are leaving tonight to take an Eastern wedding trip. They will make their home, I understand, in North Linden avenue, East End, after February 15.

RHODA DREW is, you know, the daughter of Judge and Mrs. James B. Drew, of Morewood avenue, and she decided to go to Gotham for her marriage to Mr. McComas, who is a son of Mrs. Oliver Parker McComas, of Baltimore. They were married in the small ballroom of the St. Regis Hotel there, with just the two families and a few close friends present.

Judge Drew gave his daughter away, and she wore a gown of ivory satin and lace embroidered with pearls. She had Alice Havemeyer, of New York, for her only attendant, and James Hopkins Wickersham was Mr. McComas' best man.

Mr. McComas is taking Rhoda to live in Paris, so our social society group is losing a most attractive member. They sailed at midnight last night on the Ile de France and are planning to travel extensively on the continent before settling down to live in Paris.

THE date for the popular Aero Club ball is March 15, according to Raymond M. Marlier, who is chairman this year. The ball will climax the first air craft show, which is to be an annual event, and is scheduled for the week of March 9 in Motor Square Garden. The ball, however, will be held as usual in the William Penn Hotel. Plans also are being made, I hear, for a dinner to be held in the hotel on March 12 for the Aero Club and the exhibitors at the show.

AMONG the travelers are Mrs. Samuel McClung Lee, of Ben Avon, who is visiting her brother in Los Angeles. Mrs. Watson P. Phillips, of Darlington road, is spending the winter in Miami, and Mrs. W. M. Henderson, of Aylesboro avenue, is in Hollywood, Fla. Mrs. Robert Riddle, of Crafton, is spending a fortnight in Washington and Atlantic City, and Mrs. Frederick Baird and her daughter, Nancy Jane Baird, of Fifth avenue, are leaving to visit Mrs. Herman Blickle at Warrenton, Va. Mrs. Elder Marshall, of Edgewood, has just returned from a trip to Baltimore, Washington and Lynchburg, Va., and Mrs. Robert Metcalfe will leave on Tuesday to spend some time in New York. Mrs. Earl Hadley, of the Ruskin Apartments, will leave Tuesday for Fort Worth, Tex.

THE choir of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Sewickley, entertained last night with a buffet supper in the parish house in honor of the associate rector and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Walter White Reid, whose marriage took place early in January. Mrs. Reid was Miss Edith Bryant, daughter of Mrs. Alexander Bryant, of Greenwich, Conn., and Yonkers, N. Y., before her marriage. Miss Susan Barley was general chairman for the affair, assisted by members of the active choir, Mrs. William Henry Kunkle, Julian R. William, Mrs. John Davidson McCord and Mrs. Randall Turner Van Pelt. John Morris sang and there was dancing.

Dormont Club Gives 'The Willow Pattern'

"THE ROMANCE OF THE WILLOW PATTERN," Elizabeth Beekman Van der Veer's poetic play, was presented as the program for Dormont New Century Club's meeting in Masonic Hall yesterday afternoon. It was a colorful presentation which Mrs. Lewis W. McCoy had arranged with Mrs. S. A. Capartis, Mrs. M. F. Haley, Mrs. Ella M. Harley and Mrs. B. R. Owens as the cast. Several ancient Chinese songs sung by Mrs. Joseph N. Orbin and clouds of incense created the proper atmospheric affect for the dramatic telling of the tragic little story.

At the business session the January ways and means committee reported $515 cleared from "The Desert Song" benefit performance and the February group of the ways and means announced a benefit card party and bake sale in the South Hills Harris Theater on February 13. Mrs. W. W. Lapham, Mrs. J. C. Chisler and Mrs. Arthur Wagner will have it in charge. The music department is planning a musicale tea in the Beach home on February 22, when the program will be given by Helen Bell Rush, soprano; Mary Earl Allen, contralto, and Gertrude Robinson Dodds, pianist.

AN interesting program is being arranged by the Edgewood League of Women Voters for the monthly meeting on Monday afternoon in the Field House. "Duties and Powers of Election Officers, Watchers and Overseers" will be the subject of Mrs. Elizabeth B. Motz's talk.

The Fourteenth Ward League will give a dinner at the Morrowfield Hotel on Monday evening and will hear Dr. George St. John Perrott, superintendent of the Bureau of Mines, talk on "Coal, the Modern Aladdin Lamp," and Stephen Q. Hayes who has just returned from an eight-months' tour of South America. Reservations are being made through Mrs. Frank A. Bond.

On Tuesday evening the Penn Township League will meet in the Thad Stephens school and Mrs. E. B. Motz will speak on legislative current events.

The Eighth Ward women will meet in the Athalia Daly Home on Wednesday afternoon to hear Mrs. Henry Chalfant Miller speak on "County Government," and Mrs. Motz on legislative current events. Miss Stella Kane will sing. The Twenty-fifth Ward League is to have a benefit bridge and "five hundred" party at the Observatory Post American Legion Home, Perrysville avenue, on Monday evening. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Harry Bernhart and Mrs. Blanche Neely. Miss Marie Karns will be hostess to the Springdale-Cheswick League on Friday evening. Mrs. Motz will speak.

MRS. G. A. CORRIVEAU, of Rodgers avenue, Crafton, entertained the Goodwill Club yesterday at luncheon and cards. Mrs. Ross E. Alexander, president of the club, had Mrs. Samuel Goose, of Cincinnati, as her guest. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Frank Braesecker, of Lincoln avenue, North Side, on February 15.

* * *

MRS. JOHN L. MCLELLAND, Mrs. J. O. Sherrard and Mrs. C. M. Wellons are hostesses today in the Congress of Clubs for the bridge luncheon of the Ohio State University Women's Club. Plans are being made for an evening bridge to be held later in the month under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. J. Paine and Mrs. Spencer Hunt.

ANOTHER scholarship loan has been established by the Congress of Clubs. This time the music department, beginning with an initial gift of $25 from its chairman, Mrs. Elsie Breese Mitchell is the donor. The fund will be for the purpose of assisting pupils in the study of music and will be ready by fall.

THE card group of the University of Pittsburgh Women's Association will meet for luncheon and cards Monday at 1 o'clock in the Faculty Club. Mrs. E. W. Tillotson, chairman of the affair, will be assisted by Mrs. E. M. Frost and Mrs. E. A. Holbrook.

THE Dermont New Century Club and the Berean Bible class of the Avalon Presbyterian Church, will furnish the program for the "friend and neighbor night," which the Avalon Woman's Club will hold in the high school auditorium on Monday.

MUSIC and bridge will mark the Grove City College Club meeting next Saturday in the Congress of Clubs. Vivian Kiser Fay will read and piano solos will be furnished by Louise Esler. Mrs. Charles A. Gardner will be hostess.

PITTSBURGH COURT No. 2, Order of the Amaranth, will hold a bridge tea in the Hotel Roosevelt Tuesday afternoon, February 12. Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. Lorena Wood and Mrs. George Johnson are the committee in charge.

* * *

THE Court Chartiers, Catholic Daughters of America, Dramatic Club will hold a card party Wednesday night in the K. of C. Hall, Crafton, Bridge, "500" euchre and old maid will be played.

* * *

NEXT Saturday's meeting of the Pittsburgh Irving College Club will take the form of a book shower for the college library. Mrs. Philip Rinehart, of the King Edward Apartments, will be hostess.

* * *

MEMBERS of the Women's Overseas Service League met at their room in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. for luncheon and a business session today.

B. & O. PREPARES TO TAKE OVER READING

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad plans to acquire control of the Reading Railway and the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

This is the first step in the B. & O.'s plan to proceed with its Eastern trunk line system, regardless of trunk line unification programs contemplated by the New York Central, the Pennsylvania and the Nickel Plate.

The announcement came from George M. Shriver, senior vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio, who said applications for acquisition of the two roads would be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, together with recommendations for the system which the road intends to build up.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today will take up consideration of legislation to permit railroads to consolidate with a view to arriving at a speedy decision on this subject, which has been pending in Congress several years.

Chairman Watson, of the committee, declared that a sub-committee which has been inquiring into the subject, will announce its findings in open session and that he will ask the members to give undivided attention to the problem so that a report may be made to the Senate without much further delay.

Proposals for legislation which would permit consolidation of railroads have been pending in both branches of Congress for some time, and exhaustive investigations have been made by both the Senate and House committees charged with their consideration. President Coolidge has recommended the adoption of a consolidation measure.

Rebekahs' Sessions Held in Charleroi

Fifth Floor Offices Afire, Traffic Halts

The offices of the Edward Eiler Lumber Company, on the fifth floor of the Flannery Building, Forbes street and Meyran avenue, were damaged by fire last night to the extent of $2,000. The blaze, of undetermined origin, was discovered by a pedestrian who sounded an alarm. Placing ladders against the office windows, the firemen carried in several lines of hose and prevented the flames from spreading to adjoining offices. Traffic in Forbes street was halted for more than an hour.

No Negligence Found In Fatal Mine Blast

KINGSTON, W. Va., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—An explosion of gas and dust was responsible for the deaths of 14 miners in the Kingston Pocahontas Coal Company mine No. 5 here January 28, a coroner's jury decided yesterday. The origin of the blast was not determined.

The jury found that there had been no negligence on the part of the coal company, stating that the concern had complied with the state mining laws.

PLEDGE TO CUT GASOLINE TAX RECALLED

An increase in the tax on gasoline would work a hardship on the motoring public and the automotive industry, a resolution adopted by the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association yesterday declares. The resolution says the increase would not be necessary to provide increased revenue for highway needs and would be unfair because of promises to reduce the tax, made by legislators a year ago when an emergency levy of 1 cent was added to the 2-cent tax. The resolution was addressed to Gov. John S. Fisher and members of the Legislature.

The resolution says that "while this tax of 2 cents on each gallon is regarded high, it should not be increased, as the present tax on the based price of gasoline costs the automobile dealers 18 per cent on each dollar spent and the retail user about 15 per cent on each dollar spent."

"The increasing use of motor vehicles is bound to materially increase the present revenue from this source," the resolution continues. "The last session of the Pennsylvania Legislature increased the tax from 2 cents to 3 cents on each gallon with the agreement that the additional 1 cent tax imposed would be removed at the close of the 1929 Legislature."

Wreck Fatal to Five Probed in Kentucky

HENDERSON, Ky., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Officials of the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis Railway are conducting an investigation of the wreck at Posey's Cut, five miles east of here, when an eastbound passenger train collided headon with a westbound freight train yesterday, resulting in the death of five trainmen and an employe of the American Express.

So violent was the impact that both engines reared up and the wheels and mountings were torn from both. The baggage car was telescoped and coals from the wrecked engines set fire to it. Two freight cars also were destroyed. Road officials said they believed damage would reach several hundred thousand dollars.

Demand That Raskob Resign Likely in Va.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—A. J. Dunning, Jr., of Norfolk, chairman of the second Virginia district delegation to the conference of anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia to be held in Lynchburg, February 5, indicated yesterday that there would be an attempt at the conference to demand the resignation of John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, and to demand the repudiation of Mr. Raskob's leadership by Virginia Democratic leaders.

Church Circle Plans Braddock Dinner

Plans are being made for a dinner to be held February 23 in the hall of the First Presbyterian Church of Braddock, to be given by the Young Women's Mission Circle of the church. The circle's last meeting was held in the home of the president, Miss Ida Kane, 422 Second street, Braddock.

Wesleyan Gets Offer Of Rockefeller Aid

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Dr. Homer E. Wark, president of Wesleyan College, has announced that a gift of $60,000 would be made by the Rockefeller Foundation if the college succeeded in raising $100,000 before May 1.

Murphy's Luck Rivaled
Fortune Favors Adams
Bell May Lose Value

Braves' Many Bosses
New Alibi in Hockey
Diving Attack on Mat

BOSTON LEADS IN PUCK RECEIPTS

BACK in 1906, Charles P. Taft purchased control of the Chicago National League baseball club and placed Charles Webb Murphy in charge to succeed James A. Hart as president, with permission to run the plant as he pleased and the privilege of buying Taft's stock as soon as he accumulated sufficient profits to pay for it. Murphy, a former drug clerk, didn't possess much more than the proverbial thin dime. The club had not won a pennant in 19 years and looked like anything but a gold mine.

Charles F. Adams.

But it happened that Frank Selee, in four years as manager, had almost completed the work of building up a champion team. To Frank Chance, who succeeded him as pilot when Murphy came in, Selee bequeathed such material as Johnny Kling, Johnny Evers, Joe Tinker, Frank Schulte, Shorty Slagle, Artie Hofman, Three-Fingered Brown, Ed Reulbach, Carl Lundgren and Bob Wicker. The addition of players like Jimmy Scheckard, Harry Steinfeldt, Pat Moran, Orval Overall, Jack Pfiester, Jack Taylor, Fred Beebe, Jack Harper and Harry Gessler rounded out a team so powerful that it turned in and won three pennants in a row.

MURPHY remained at the head of the Cubs for eight years, during which time they won four flags, finished second twice and third twice. He coined money, bought the club and piled up a fortune. He had run a shoestring into a million and was called the luckiest man in baseball.

But he appears to have a rival now in the person of Charles F. Adams, baseball and hockey magnate in Boston. Adams got a big break right off the bat, when, soon after he had bought a chunk of stock in the Braves and had been made vice president of the club, Sunday ball was legalized in Boston for the first time in history, assuring greatly increased financial returns, and on top of that some hockey figures just made public show that Dame Fortune has been even kinder to him in the ice game.

HOCKEY fans here and elsewhere may be surprised to learn that Boston leads the entire 10-club National League in gate receipts, if a report just issued from the office of League President Frank Calder shows that to be a fact.

The report covers the first 10 home games of each club and discloses that the Bruins outdrew every other team in the double circuit, their receipts totaling $225,000, or an average of $22,500 a game. The New York Rangers ranked second and Detroit third. Pittsburgh, due to the limited capacity of Duquesne Garden, is eighth on the list, trailed only by Ottawa and Chicago. Adams surely seems to have the magic touch.

Wilbert Robinson.

THOUGH the baseball world calls the National League a curve-ball loop, because there is a stronger tendency toward hook-pitching in the Heydler circuit than in the American, the managers there are just as insistent as those in the other major girdle that their hurlers be able to throw fast balls as well. No hurler is going to get by with a curve ball alone. He has got to have a swifter to back it up and to mix with his other stuff, and he has got to throw it with the same motion that he uses in delivering his bender. Otherwise the batter would be on the lookout for a curve at all times and that would spell speedy disaster for the pitcher.

ONE of the sticklers for fast-ball ability in a moundsman is Manager Wilbert Robinson, of the Brooklyn club. Robbie always instructs his scouts to center their attention on big, husky men when they are looking for flingers. He wants hurlers who have size and strength and particularly men who have a good fast ball.

"You can teach a pitcher everything else," said the veteran pilot of the Dodgers, who was a star catcher in his playing days and who is still rated one of the game's smartest handlers of slab workmen, "but no power on earth can teach him how to throw a fast ball. A young pitcher either has a fast ball or he hasn't. It's a question of natural strength." The Brooklyn boss says he agrees with Walter Johnson in that "There is no substitute for speed."

THE rumor of a deal for the transfer of Third Baseman Lester Bell to the Cubs from the Braves was carried so far that some one told Bell himself that he was to be sold to the Bruins and led him to express his views on it. "Rogers Hornsby and I are old teammates and pals," Bell is quoted, "and I surely will be glad to strut my stuff on Wrigley Field this summer, for I like to travel with pennant winners. I'd certainly like to see the deal go through."

Johnny Evers.

With the player in that frame of mind, and after publicly expressing himself, his value to the Braves for any further period of service must be considered extremely doubtful. If Bell isn't shifted now he will be disappointed, and a dissatisfied ball player is next door to being worthless. In effect, at least, even though not in design, the manner in which this proposed deal has been handled is not far removed from a serious baseball offense that once was known as "tampering."

IN THE spring circular or roster issued by the Boston National League club it's hard to tell whether the club officials or the players are the ones who are going South for training. That is, as far as the relative size of the two lists is concerned. It isn't easy to distinguish between them from that angle. The Braves resemble a Mexican or a South American army in that they appear to have more generals than private soldiers. The names of no fewer than eight officers or executives adorn the roster, as follows: Emil E. Fuchs, president; Charles F. Adams, vice president; Albert M. Lyon, treasurer; Edmund P. Cunningham, secretary; John J. Evers, assistant manager; Fred F. Mitchell, business manager; John T. Slattery, assistant business manager, and George B. Hunt, assistant secretary.

FOLLOWING that imposing list, which is printed in capital letters, the names of the players are given, in a sort of incidental way, in smaller type. Surely, the Braves ought to make a strong bid for the pennant with such a brilliant array of executive talent. No rival club can approach that impressive showing of officialdom.

But the question is, who is the manager of the team? You don't get the faintest inkling in looking over executive material that it won't need a manager. President Fuchs has said that he will manage the outfit himself, with Johnny Evers as his assistant (though Evers has forgotten more baseball than Fuchs will ever know), but he appears to be a little bit backward about giving that title to himself, or to any one else, for that matter, on the club's official spring bulletin.

IT REMAINED for the New York Rangers to depart from the usual line of alibis and to spring a brand new explanation of a hockey defeat. They insist that their reverse at the hands of Les Canadiens

Nurmi, Pickard Compete Tonight

BOSTON, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—A field, international in character, with such stars as Paavo Nurmi, Percy Williams, Jimmy Ball and Vic Pickard, of Pitt, competing against the cream of America's track athletes, makes notable the Boston Athletic Association's fortieth annual meet tonight. Nurmi will attempt to better his world's record of 8 minutes and 58 1-5 seconds in a special two-mile race.

McKees Rocks To Honor Athletes

Four of McKees Rocks' leading athletes will be honored tonight when the home folks pay tribute to them at a testimonial banquet in the Miles Bryan High School. The guests of honor are Tony Sweet, Carnegie Tech; Toby Uansa, Pitt; Bobby Angelo, Grove City, and Elmer Yoter, who is a member of the Washington Senators. Frank J. Lanahan will be toastmaster.

BUCS SET FOR MAROONS

BENNY LEONARD TO DIRECT PIRATES

GAMES TONIGHT

Montreal Maroons vs. Pirates at Duquesne Garden (8:30).
Ottawa at Canadiens.
Toronto at Boston.

By CARL W. SHATTO.

With Benny Leonard, owner of the local hockey club, at the helm, the Pirates will wind up their season series with the Montreal Maroons at Duquesne Garden tonight. Manager Odie Cleghorn, stricken with a severe attack of grip and tonsilitis Tuesday night, still is confined to his home. The improvement in his condition was reported as very slight today, and there is a possibility that he will not be able to accompany the Bucs to Toronto next Tuesday.

The retired undefeated lightweight boxing king, who has spent recent weeks vacationing in Havana, arrived here today to serve as pilot in the crisis. Benny will direct the team from the bench, and he is certain to have the Bucs well keyed up for a real fight. He gave each of the local skaters a new hat as a reward for the fine exhibition they gave in the season opener here, and he probably will hand out steam yachts or business blocks if the Bucs give him a thrill and win under his management.

BUC LINEUP CHANGED

Charley Leonard, brother of Benny Leonard, and secretary of the club, served as manager in the practice sessions of this week. Charley has traveled with the club all season and is well qualified to sit in the driver's seat, but when the owner of a club wants to do the pinch hitting for his aggregation nobody is going to give him an argument.

Charley's last official act as manager today was to announce that Roger Smith and Bert McCaffrey, rather than Smith and Johnny McKinnon would start at the defense posts tonight. The Maroons are very big and just as rough as they are hefty, and Charley has concluded that Roger and Bert, both experts at dolling out bruises, are best fitted to slow down the Canadian heavyweights.

The husky Maroons arrived here today at the heels of a very hale and equally hearty manager, Mr. Eddie Gerard. Although he is exceptionally well primed for the fray, Gerard has nothing on his men, for they were subject to nothing more than a light workout in handing the lowly Chicago Hawks a 2-3 setback Thursday night and are eager for a real battle with foemen made of sterner stuff.

The Chicago fray was the only game in which the Maroons indulged this week and the Pirates have been idle since last Saturday. Rough, wild battling ever has marked Pittsburgh-Montreal jousts, and tonight, with the clubs well primed, activity of manslaughter caliber well can be expected.

SEEK TO EVEN COUNT

The Maroons at present hold a two-wins-to-one edge on the Bucs, and the locals are eager to even the series count in this final meeting of the season. The Pirates also have a score to settle with big Nels Stewart, who scored three goals and beat them lone-handed in an earlier battle here. Nels, who has been shifted from wing to center since he last appeared here, will get plenty of attention, as will Ward, speedy forward who gave the Bucs much trouble at Montreal last Saturday.

Dave Trottier, who achieved international fame in leading Toronto amateurs to a world title in the last Olympic games, will be an added attraction. Trottier did not see action on the occasion of the Maroons' earlier visit here, but he scored Montreal's first goal in the Chicago duel Thursday and is primed for further action.

Neither the Bucs nor the hefty Canucks lack victory incentive. The Maroons are only two and one-half games out of first place in the International Group race, and the Pirates know that they must turn in triumphs thick and fast if they are to pass the Detroit Cougars and get into the ice world series. The probable lineup:

Pirates.		Maroons.
Miller	G	Benedict
McCaffrey	R.D.	Dutton
R. Smith	L.D.	H. Smith
Frederickson	C.	Stewart
Darragh	R.W.	Ward
Milks	L.W.	Siebert

Former Pitcher Returns as Outfielder

Several years ago Tony Kaufmann was one of the mound luminaries of the National League, twinkling in the box for the Chicago Cubs. Reverses overtook him and sent him to the minors. Last year with Rochester he was the batting sensation of the International circuit. He is making his major league comeback with the Giants this season as an outfielder.

Tunney Flees Publicity in Jugoslavia

ZAGREB, Jugoslavia, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney, one-time heavyweight champion of the world, has not yet got beyond the confines of his fame in either time or distance. The newspaper Novosti says that his appearance at Raguza on the Dalmatian Coast excited such intense popular interest that he was unable to find the privacy he sought and therefore fled to an unannounced destination.

CLEVELANDER EASY VICTIM FOR MAX

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—It takes a great man to beat a very good man and Johnny Risko, with the heart of a lion and the jaw of a gorilla, was as good as ever he was last night when, reeling and punch-poisoned, he was called out on his feet after a minute and five seconds of the ninth round by a humane referee. Yes, John was good, very good, but Max Schmeling, the German, was so much better that he actually was greatness itself as he punched Risko until he was silly, leaving Referee Arthur Donovan nothing to do but award the Dempsey of the Deutchlands what is said to be the first legitimate knockout ever scored at Risko's expense.

RISKO DOWN FOUR TIMES

Four times he had Risko on the axminster and not another man in the ring today would have arisen from the second and third knockdowns, which were perfect bullseyes, but Risko has the chin of all chins and so he got up and fought back heroically. He still was striking out blindly at his tormentor with the fighting instinct of the true fighting man, although barely able to keep his feet, when the referee wisely decided that too much was a great plenty. He saved this amazingly brave man from an actual knockout, since it was inevitable that even this glove swallower never was destined to see the tenth and final round.

The fight was nothing less than a ring masterpiece, a saga of glorious courage that filled the eye and gladdened the heart. Risko furnished much of this with his last game stand against the inevitable, but it must be admitted that it was the great fighter and not the very good one who turned in the performance that sent the witnesses gibbering out into the night. He did things in this fight that left not the slightest doubt of his greatness. No other kind of a fighter could have taken the mauling Risko gave him through the third, fourth, fifth and sixth rounds and then, with a single punch in the seventh practically ruin a man like John for the remainder of the evening.

HAILED AS CHAMP

No other kind of a fighter, not even the old Dempsey, could have put a faster and neater finish to a man than Schmeling did in the ninth and last round. This was master workmanship, no less. The witnesses rushed the ringside when it was all over to babble incoherently about "the next champion of the world" and, frankly, there was nothing that could be vouchsafed against it.

Incidentally, the young man knows something about keeping the old potato protected, as Risko discovered after casting 500 rights and lefts at it through the first seven rounds. John wasn't casting anything after that except possibly a weary eye at his corner.

Risko staggered on his way to the corner, but came out fairly fresh for the ninth. In the first minute, however, he was clipped with a right hand that spun him around and left him groping dazedly with his back half turned to the enemy. He was in perfect position for a left hook, and this smart German, never more impressive, began pumping lefts to the target with a rapidity and an accuracy that was amazing. John was forced to bend blindly under the storm, and then Schmeling looped a right behind his ear and dropped him for another nine count. He lurched to his feet and weaved drunkenly to the other side of the ring. There he essayed to make his last desperate stand and was lashing out gamely toward an unseen foe when he reeled and all but fell from his own weakness. That was enough for both fighter and referee.

JACK SHARKEY WELCOMED AT MIAMI BEACH

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Jack Sharkey arrived here last night to pitch his camp around the corner from that of W. L. (Young) Stribling in preparation for their heavyweight elimination bout here the night of February 27.

Sharkey was accorded an enthusiastic welcome when he and Johnny Buckley, his manager, and their respective wives stepped from the train in Miami at 6:50 o'clock, and the ovation was repeated at the Miami Beach Kennel Club and later at the Miami fight between Russia Heise and Texas Ranger, which the Boston sailor refereed.

MALONEY BEATS CON O'KELLY

BOSTON, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, gave Con O'Kelly, of Ireland, a terrific 10-round beating here last night in the Boston Garden's feature bout. Maloney carried every round but the last and had O'Kelly in great distress in the ninth. Maloney came in at 194 pounds and his opponent was five pounds lighter.

In the ninth, Maloney dropped O'Kelly for a no count and when he arose, battered him all around the ring, but O'Kelly lasted until the bell. In the final round O'Kelly tried desperately to win by a knockout, attempting wild wide swings which permitted Maloney to slip inside his guard and chop away at his head and body.

Blackburn Cops 19-Hole Match

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 2.—J. R. Blackburn, of Oakmont, won a 19-hole match on the links here yesterday. He defeated C. L. Schoonover, of Warren, O., in the final of the second division in the twenty-fifth annual St. Valentine's tournament.

R. C. Steese, of Youngstown, won the second consolation by defeating R. L. Tyrrell, of New York, by 2 and 1.

A. P. Dysart, of Pittsburgh, lost the third division final to C. C. French, of Brooklyn, by 2 and 1, while W. J. Fleming, of Pittsburgh, defeated W. R. Roberts, of Philadelphia, in the consolation, by 2 and 1.

Walt Wilmot, Vet Major Leaguer, Is Dead

STEVENSPOINT, Wis., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Walter R. Wilmot, of Minneapolis, former major league baseball star and promoter of various amusement enterprises, died here yesterday after a lingering illness. He was 66 years old.

As a baseball player, Wilmot performed at various times with the New York Giants, Chicago White Stockings and Washington, the latter two clubs at that time being members of the National League, and with Minneapolis, St. Paul and Louisville, in the old Western League. He always played the outfield.

He was paid the highest salary of any player in the National League from 1890 until 1895, drawing down $4,250 a season, while with the Chicago White Stockings. The late Adrian C. (Pop) Anson was manager and first baseman of the White Stockings in those years and $3,000 was all he received.

Wilmot was almost as widely known as a billiard player. He had lived in Minneapolis for 39 years. A widow and son survive. Funeral services will be held here Sunday with burial at Plover, Wis.

National Leaguers Gather for Meeting

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(INS.)—Baseball magnates and managers were gathering here today for the National League meeting next week. The only deal in sight involved the attempt of the Boston Braves to secure George Kelly, Cincinnati first baseman.

Munhall Passer Scores Basket For Foe

Bill Hausner, forward on the Munhall High School reserve team, helped to defeat his own quintet last night when he threw a field goal in the Homestead basket in the preliminary to the Munhall-Homestead game at Munhall. The score was 10 to 7, with Homestead on the long end. Hausner apparently became confused after getting the ball in the second half and made a perfect goal by tossing one in the Homestead hoop.

LOCAL GOLFER BEATEN

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2.—C. M. Scott, of Pittsburgh, was defeated in his final match in the annual Miami Beach amateur championship golf tournament over the La Gorce course yesterday. He succumbed to J. M. Cameron of Montclair, N. J., in the concluding match in the fourth 16, 4 and 3.

Scott trailed from the start, due to erratic work on the greens. He was unable to catch up with his rival, who played a fine brand of golf throughout.

In the championship division, semi-final round, Darden Hampton, of Chattanooga, Tenn., furnished a thrill in disposing of Harcourt M. Brice, local star and medal winner, by 3 and 2. In the other match, Harry K. B. Davis, of Greenwich, Conn. put out Albert R. Hakes, of Fredonia, N. Y., by 2 and 1.

Davis and Hampton are battling today in the final match for the title.

Fownes II Loses Bermuda Match

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Two Canadians will battle it out today for the Bermuda amateur golf championship at the Riddels Bay Country Club. A. C. N. Gosling, of Toronto, the defending titleholder, and Nicol Thompson, jr., of Hamilton, Ont., swept into the final round by virtue of victories over G. H. Heavis, of England, and H. C. Fownes II, of Pittsburgh.

Gosling defeated Heavis, 5 and 4, and Thompson disposed of Fownes, 3 and 2.

JACKETS BOW TO GROVERS

GROVE CITY, Pa., Feb. 2.—Trailing by seven points with less than three minutes to play, Grove City College came through with a victory over Waynesburg College here last night, 28-25.

Waynesburg took an early lead, but the Crimson rallied and led at half time, 11-8.

The game was rough at stages, thrice Waynesburg players being ejected via the personal foul route. White performed well for the losers and Angelo was Grove City's luminary. The lineup:

GROVE CITY—28		WAYNESBURG—25
Allison	F	Angelo
Patch	F	Bartlebaugh
Ufiom	C	Reeves
Smith	G	Elliott
White	G	Ryan

Substitutes—Grove City: Deakoster for Elliott, Waleski for Bartlebaugh, Burke for Waleski, Bartlebaugh for Reeves, Reeves for Bartlebaugh, Elliott for Deakoster, Caulfiel for Elliott; Waynesburg: Porter for Allison, Allison for White, Biehl for Porter, Hathaway for Ufiom, Fleck for Waynesburg; Allison 2, Patch 2, Porter 2, Smith 2, White 1; Grove City: Angelo 2, Bartlebaugh 1, Waleski 1, Reeves 1, Deakoster 1, Caulfield 1. Foul goals—Waynesburg: 7 out of 15; Grove City: 14 out of 24. Time of halves—20 minutes. Referee—Beggs Snyder.

MILLER REPEATS WIN

DETROIT, Feb. 2.—(INS.)—Ray Miller, Chicago lightweight contender, had one less competitor to worry about today following his victory over Tommy Grogan, of Omaha, in a 10-round battle here last night. Miller was awarded the decision on points. Four weeks ago, Miller knocked out Grogan in four rounds after having been floored five times in the second round.

BELLEVUE TAKES LEAD

Bellevue won the lead in Section 2, W. P. I. A. L., when it defeated Edgewood, 20-16, last night.

BATTLING GIZZY EASILY BEATS CARPENTIER

By LARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

Battling Gizzy makes 'em dizzy, or so, at least, it seemed last night, when the young Donora featherweight slapped the more experienced U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, around like nobody's business in the 10-round main bout in the Moose Temple ring. It was Gizzy's first appearance in a local arena, although he has been boxing with great frequency in surrounding towns, and he won hands down, carrying every round.

Billed as a pocket, or perhaps only a hip-pocket, edition of the late Harry Greb, Gizzy resembled the latter in one respect, and that was in his busy punching. He flailed and flailed from bell to bell and always had another punch left to swing when Carpentier thought the fireworks were over. Almost as unorthodox as Greb in his free-swinging manner, he lacks the bounding footwork of Harry, who went on to annex the American light-heavyweight and world middleweight championships and win a place in fistic history as one of the greatest men of his weight. But he's fine stuff for a youngster.

UPPERCUT EFFECTIVE

Gizzy's most effective weapon was a full-arm looping uppercut with which he several times almost tore off Carp's head. He kept banging away with it lustily and the usually agile and clever Carpentier was unable to defend himself against it in the open or to tie up the wicked fist in the close exchanges. With his manager, James (Red) Mason, missing from his corner, Carpentier was all at sea and never had a chance. He fought all wrong from the opening bell, tossing away his advantages in boxing skill and height and reach to mix with his walloping opponent and wind up on the short end of virtually every exchange. A few times the going became too hot for him and he had to take it on the run. It was the worst drubbing this writer ever has seen him take.

After the first few rounds, the action became monotonous and there was not a highlight until the closing moments of the final session, when Carpentier went down along the ropes from an uppercut let loose from the floor that caught him in the pit of the stomach and kept traveling upward. He protested that he had been fouled, but Referee Joe Keally wouldn't allow the claim and almost counted him out, delaying the final toll as U. S. began to drag himself up at nine, his face contorted in pain. Carp stalled through to the finish and still was protesting that the blow he complained about was below the belt line. It did not appear so from the press seats.

DUNN WHIPS ELRENE

Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, gave another classy boxing and sharp-hitting exhibition in defeating tough Joe Elrene, of the North Side, in the six-round semi-final. Elrene was game and willing and kept swinging and often nailed Johnny with solid blows which the latter was willing to take for the sake of getting in close to drive home his own knife-like thrusts. This fellow Dunn has the goods and deserves a main bout chance in the rings of this section.

The first two bouts ended in knockouts. Max Ziff, of Lawrenceville, and Tom Walker, of the North Side, light-heavies, pummelled each other about in longshoreman fashion until Ziff finally planted a right hand sock-dologer on Tommy's protruding chin and knocked him colder than last week's heat wave in the sixth round. Walker also was down for nine in the third round, but rallied and had Max in distress a few times.

CROWD IS SMALLER

The gate was not as large as for the opening show in the same arena, two weeks ago, many of the $2 seats being vacant, but standing room was sold in the gallery and the show was a paying one for Promoter Francis Flynn.

Joe Keally refereed all of the bouts and the judges were Frank Brown and Jim McLaughlin. A. C. Couch was timer and Mike Kelly did the announcing.

The weights were: Carpentier, 125⅛ pounds, and Gizzy, 128½; Elrene, 126, and Dunn, 123½; Ziff, 165, and Walker 174, and Monroe, 125¼, and Haggerty, 125.

Ringside Chatter

Promoter Jim McGirr, of the McKeesport Club, will introduce a novelty to his patrons at his show next Thursday night in the form of a wrestling bout between Pete Abate, of Wilmerding, and Joe Washington, brother of Jap Washington, of the Homestead Grays baseball team. They are 170-pounders and will wrestle two out of three falls with a half-hour time limit. Jackie Rodgers, North Side bantamweight, and Happy Atherton, of Indianapolis, will box the 10-round windup. Sig Keppen and Teddy Welch are in the semi-final.

Three Clairton amateurs will box in an inter-city show at Buffalo tonight. They are Joe Orsini, Johnny Warner and Eddie Hebner.

Dan Billick, of Duquesne, turned in another victory in his bout with Ossie Bodkin, of Detroit, at Jersey City Thursday night, in the semi-final to the Pete Zivic-Bobby Brady 12-rounder. Bodkin was disqualified in the fourth round after having been floored for a count of nine in the preceding session.

LOCALS BATTLE SPARTA HERE TODAY

TODAY'S GAMES.
NATIONAL AMATEUR CUP.
BEAVER VALLEY LEAGUE.
Harmony at Ambridge.
American Bridge at New Brighton.

By TOM BIRKS

Three soccer games will be played today locally for soccer enthusiasts. While the two games in the Beaver Valley League carry a kick, it is the presence of the Cleveland Sparta team in Pittsburgh, opposing the Pittsburgh Soccer club in the third round of the National amateur cup at the Westinghouse High School stadium, that will bring out the crowd.

Nothing definite could be learned last evening regarding the arrival of Sparta in Pittsburgh. One report stated the Clevelanders were coming over the P. & L. E. Railroad and would reach the South Side station this morning. Another stated they had chartered a special bus and would proceed directly to the game.

The bus idea seems a little wild, as the players are sure to be cramped for the rest of the day. Pittsburgh has strengthened its front line during the last three weeks and will cause the Sparta defense plenty of trouble. Just how the line will start has not been decided. Hennigan and Evans can both play center, and get goals. Perhaps Evans will partner Galle, with Hennigan in the center and McGinn working with Secane. The middle line will not be changed. Toman, McNair and Behling compare with any line in the district. Boyle will be in goal, with Strachan, Murray and Schang in the backfield. The kickoff will be at 2:30 o'clock.

RIBNICKEY OFF CARD

Joe Ribnickey, of Donora, has been injured in training and will not be able to box on the card at Washington, Pa., Monday night, and, as a result, Red Ryan, of Washington, has been matched against Lee Sala, of Donora, in a substitute bout. Five battles are scheduled, with Johnny Carey, of Erie, and Young Saylor, of Charleroi, furnishing the eight-round windup.

COLLEGIANS LINE UP FOR FETE

By JESS CARVER

From the manner in which the colleges are lining up reservations for the John Gruber testimonial dinner, being sponsored by the Pittsburgh chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America at the William Penn Hotel on February 14, one would think the affair was a strictly collegiate event.

Carnegie Tech, Duquesne and the University of Pittsburgh have all made reservations for full tables. It is possible that all three will need more than the 10 tickets required for a table, and that they may wind up with two apiece. Graduate Manager Holohan, of Duquesne, made his request for a table Monday, and Buddy Overend of Tech and W. Don Harrison, of Pitt, put in their bids Tuesday.

There will be several college football coaches among the list of invited guests and speakers. Chief among these will be Capt. L. McCall (Biff) Jones, head football mentor at the United States Military Academy at West Point, and Sam Willaman, newly appointed coach at Ohio State University.

FESLER MAY ATTEND

Both Willaman and Jones sent in their acceptances yesterday. The Army coach will make an effort to bring one of his star players with him, though the fact that the Cadets find it exceedingly difficult to secure a leave of absence makes this doubtful. Coach Willaman may be accompanied by Wesley Fesler, State's all-America end of the past grid season, and Leo Raskowski, an all-America tackle in 1927.

The Tri-State Conference, through its individual graduate managers of the various schools, is considering reserving of a table and sending one or two representatives from each school. West Virginia, Washington-Jeff, Allegheny and Grove City will likely have representatives at the affair.

In addition to Jones and Willaman, Dr. John Bain Sutherland and Charley Bowser, of Pitt; Wally Steffen and Bob Waddell, of Tech; Elmer Layden and Bob Reagan, of Duquesne; Andy Kerr and Bill Amos, of Wash-Jeff, and Ira Rodgers and Ross McHenry, of West Virginia, will be on hand.

OUT-OF-TOWNERS TO COME

Besides the college football folks, basketball, swimming and track will have representation. Dr. H. C. Carlson and Charley Hyatt, of the Pitt five, have signified their intention of being there; Pat Corr, coach of the Panther swimming team; Frank Shea, track coach, and Pete Rowen, star swimmer and quarter-miler, have been invited to attend.

From out of town, athletes and coaches from all of the region colleges have been mailed invitations, and it is possible that Coach Francis Stadsvold, of West Virginia; Hugo Bezdek, of Penn State; Jap Douds, of Wash-Jeff tackle fame; Ken Loeffler and Mack Fienniken, of Geneva; John Lawther and Dyke Beede, of Westminster, and Bob Thorn, of Grove City, will be present.

PITT BATTLES TEMPLE FIVE TODAY

Once again, for the second time this week, tri-state college basketball interest centers about the new field house at West Virginia tonight, where the Mountaineers will encounter their toughest opposition of the season in Ken Loeffler's Geneva College Covenanters. Now that this correspondent has come right out, and in rich, full-throated voice, declared that Geneva will make it tough for West Virginia tonight, the Covenanters will probably pull and fade out and enable him to keep his record perfect of never having picked one right.

Mr. Loeffler spent the greater part of the time on the trip home from Morgantown the other night after having seen the Mountaineers take Davis and Elkins, rubbing his chin and muttering to himself, greatly disturbing the rest of Daniel Zip Brickley and myself. When Brother Loeffler thinks, look out!

GENEVA MAY WIN

Geneva, boasting a smart, consistent defense and a deliberate and dangerous offense, certainly figures to stand a better chance against the rampaging Mountaineers than by other team West Virginia has played except Pitt. The Mountaineers will be playing under a decided strain tonight, even as they were against D. & E. Geneva, rangy and fast, may beat Stadsvold. If they do, don't shout "upset" too loudly.

Duquesne, stumbling about in the throes of something or other which Chick Davies can't quite figure, swings into action in the Tri-State Conference tonight, meeting Bethany at Bethany. The Bisons are unbeaten, with triumphs to their credit over Wash-Jeff, Waynesburg, Fairmont and John Carroll.

The wins over the Jackets and Presidents were very decisive ones, and for once the Dukes will not enter the contest with the boys from Buffalo Creek favorites.

PITT IN PHILLY

Pitt is in Philadelphia, where the boys will tackle Temple University this afternoon and tackle a big banquet tonight. Temple has won 10 games and lost but two this season. They figure to give Pitt a ball game. So did the Army.

The Panther team, together with Coach Carlson and Sykes Reed, captain of last year's undefeated quintet, will be honor guests at the men's Association of Philadelphia, annual dinner of the Veteran Sports representing college basketball as 1928 champions.

Capt. Howard Harpster and Ted Rosencweig, of the '28 Carnegie Tech football team; Graduate Manager Overend, and Advisory Coach Walter P. Steffen will also be guests at the affair.

Thiel, still seeking a victory, will hardly realize this aim at Meadville tonight against Allegheny's ambitious basketeers.

Penn and Penn State meet in the Palestra in Philadelphia in one of the East's feature contests, with the Eastern League leaders prime favorites.

Pros Play 41 Holes In Miami Final

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The final in the Miami open best ball team tournament at the Miami Country Club went 41 holes before Mike Brady, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Eddie Williams, Cleveland, could break a deadlock to win.

Mike and Eddie had ample opposition from Willie Dow, Fargo, N. D., and Jim Dante, Westwood, N. J., throughout the match, and at one time the latter team was 3 up on Brady and his partner. This was on the twenty-sixth hole, but they were even at the thirty-sixth hole.

Local Fight Fans Invited on Special

Local boxing enthusiasts anxious to attend the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling bout at Miami Beach, Fla., February 27, are invited to join a special train party sponsored by the Times-Star of Cincinnati, leaving Cincinnati over the Southern Railway route Saturday night, February 23. A special reduced rate of $65.32 for the round trip from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati to Miami Beach has been arranged. Reservations may be booked through Charles (Irish) O'Conner, in care of the Times-Star, Cincinnati.

MEHLHORN ASKS P. G. A. TO EXPLAIN OMISSION

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 2.—Bill Mehlhorn has broken his silence in the controversy arising out of his omission from this year's Ryder cup team. In what he characterized as his first statement to the press the professional of the Fenimore Country Club challenged the executive committee of the P. G. A. to make public the reason for dropping him from the team.

Bill Melhorn

Mehlhorn's statement was issued after he had read newspaper dispatches from Chicago, naming the 10 players who are the final choice to represent the United States in the international match against the British professionals in England next April.

In his written statement Mehlhorn expressed a desire to correct an impression that Walter Hagan, captain of the American Ryder cup team was responsible for the personnel of the squad. Hagen was on record in favor of having American citizens of foreign birth on the team but his statement had nothing to do with the selection of the 1929 squad, which had been announced two months previously.

ISSUES STATEMENT

Mehlhorn's statement follows:

"Since the Ryder cup team was announced with my name omitted without explanation, I have been asked for a statement but I have made none. My omission is as much a mystery to me as it seems to be to people all over the country who have been writing me letters and telegrams about it.

"I was on the team in 1927, and certainly my competitive record since that time is as good as it was prior to that time, for since January 1, 1928, I have won eight tournaments from good fields, namely, the Long Island Beach, Texas open, Richmond open, Montauk open, West Chester open, El Paso open, San Antonio and Harold Lloyd's tournament.

GOOD FRIEND OF HAGEN

"As the only member of the 1927 Ryder cup team who was dropped, I feel the P. G. A. executive committee or whoever selected this year's team should be big enough to explain why I was left off. However, I have decided to let my golf clubs plead my case for me and this they have done in the last two tournaments, in which I won with record scores of 271 and 277.

"The only statement I desire to make is to correct the impression, which has been widely published, that Walter Hagen, captain of the American team, is responsible for my being left off. To the best of my knowledge and belief, Hagen is one of my best friends in the profession and had nothing to do with the selection of the team."

B. & O. BOWLERS MEET HERE

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bowlers from all cities in the eastern division will compete in the annual tournament scheduled today on the Haus alleys, North Side. This year's event has shattered all records for entries, bowlers from New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Wilmington, Baltimore, Cumberland, Keyser, Grafton, Fairmont, Wheeling, Parkersburg, Connellsville and Pittsburgh having enrolled. Besides the men's events there is a program for the women employes.

The bowlers will be honored at a banquet to be given at the close of the tournament in the Fort Pitt tonight. Prizes will be awarded the winning teams.

WHEELING BOWLERS HERE

A team of bowlers representing the Wheeling Y. M. C. A. will meet East Liberty Y tonight in one of the events on the program arranged for the dual meet between the two institutions.

FRITZI BEATS MRS. PRICE

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—The steady brand of golf that Miss Fritzi Stifel of Wheeling, W. Va., has displayed since she won the medal last Monday in the annual January women's golf tournament at the Belleair Country Club, has carried her to the championship. She won from Mrs. J. R. Price of Pittsburgh, 1 up.

Mrs. Price was a stubborn contender, however, and when she took the sixteenth, was 1 up on the Wheeling girl. Only to see such golf as champions play on the next two holes, which Miss Stifel won to take the title.

AMATEUR FIVES IN SPOTLIGHT TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Amateur basketball teams in Western Pennsylvania will occupy the center of the spotlight tonight when more than a score of league and tournament games will be presented for the edification of the fans.

Tonight's schedule is without the least doubt one of the most attractive ever arranged for teams operating under the banner of the A. A. U.

One of the feature attractions is the inter-city battle between East Liberty Y. M. C. A. and Wheeling Y. M. C. A. at East Liberty. The Wheeling team is coached by Spike Shannon, former athletic director at McKeesport Y. M. C. A. and is said to be one of the best quintets in the Mountain state.

TWO LEAGUE GAMES

Two games will be played in the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League, the best amateur loop ever organized in this vicinity. Kingsley House will be the attraction at North Side Community House, while Hill Top Y. M. C. A. opposes Heinz House on the Heinz House floor. The reserve teams of all institutions involved meet in the preliminary games.

The Y. M. H. A. quintet, leader in the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League, makes its debut in the A. A. U. tournament when it opposes the Homewood Presbyterian Celtics in one of the two games carded in the first-class division. In the other Mifflin varsity meets the Crescent club at the Rankin Christian Center. The Y. M. H. A. reserves engage St Henry's Lyceum in the preliminary to the Y. M. H. A.-Celtic game.

Only one game is scheduled in the light first-class division, Pittsburgh Boys' Club appearing at McKeesport against the Y. M. C. A. team. In the junior class, St. Joseph's, of Coraopolis, meets Sewickley Y. Academy, while in the midget class the Olympics clash with the Sewickley Y. Midgets.

DRIBBLES

The Miele-Franchinas will be the opponents of Duquesne Light in the only Allegheny County League game carded tonight. The game is scheduled at the South Side Market House and will be preceded by a preliminary featuring the Red McMahan club.

The New York Hakoahs face four tough games in four days starting with tonight's contest with Buhl club, of Sharon. They meet the Cleveland Rosies in Cleveland tomorrow afternoon, the Goldensons at the market house Monday night and East Liverpool in East Liverpool Tuesday.

Bill Miller, Eddie Losman and Nate Lippe are three of the big stars on the East Liverpool quintet. The team operates in the new City Auditorium.

SPORT COMMENT

By JAMES J. LONG

this week was caused by the failure of a goal judge to see perfectly good goal shot by Frank Boucher.

The story goes that Boucher's shot went squarely into the net, but that at that particular instant something blew into one of the eyes of the goal judge, blinding him for the moment and preventing him from seeing the drive. Tie that one.

Jim Londos.

JIM LONDOS, Greek heavyweight wrestler, who made Pittsburgh his headquarters for a time some years ago and who has just returned from an extended European trip, ridicules the claim that the diving attack of Gus Sonnenberg, the new title holder, is something new in the mat game. "It's as old as the hills," said Londos. "Once in a while I use it myself, but there is no element of butting in the way I employ it. I do not aim at a man's torso, but lunge at him just below the knees my object being to lock my arms around his knees with a sudden jerk as my momentum flings him backward. It is a paralyzing attack, but there is no butting at all. As a matter of fact, the danger is to the attacker for if your head happens to hit your opponent's hard kneecap it is just too bad for you, rather than for the other fellow."

U. S. Delegates Hopeful Of Reparations Agreement

By B. C. FORBES

FROM one of the four Americans going to Europe to take part in the German Reparations Conference, I have obtained this interesting information:

No attempt will be made to fix a definite grand total which Germany must pay.

The intention is to arrive at an agreement as to the amount which Germany should be called upon to pay annually and to specify the number of years these annual payments should be kept up.

Financiers declare there is a great difference between these two tasks—the naming of a grand total and the naming of so much per year for a certain number of years.

Nor do they contemplate drawing up any definite plan for the so-called "commercializing" or German reparation bonds.

That subject may be informally discussed; it may even be formally discussed. But it is not believed by America's representatives that conditions have yet ripened for attempting to market any colossal quantity of German reparation obligations. That, they believe, is a matter for future action.

The American delegation, consisting of J. P. Morgan and Owen D. Young, with Thomas W. Lamont of Morgan's and Thomas N. Perkins of Boston as alternates, will sail for Europe hopeful that tangible results can be achieved in the direction of reaching an agreement on the amount and the number of annual payments. If this can be done, then it will be a relatively simple matter for Germany to make arrangements with her creditors to anticipate payments whenever she feels capable of doing so. Also, it is believed the time will come when investors in America and elsewhere will feel sufficiently responsive to warrant efforts to market some part of the reparation obligations.

It is strongly felt, however, that to try to force such securities upon the market until investors are in the right frame of mind would be to court failure, with an unfortunate effect upon future possibilities of commercializing the bonds.

Owen D. Young probably will prove a great pacifier at this gathering of conflicting international interests, just as he did at the Dawes commission sessions. What Mr. Morgan and Mr. Lamont may say concerning the financial aspects of any proposed settlements will carry great weight. It is not exaggeration to state that until J. P. Morgan & Co. sponsored issuance of reparations bonds in this country, any attempt by Germany to do so would invite failure.

THE slant on the oil industry comes from William C. Van Antwerp, author of an authoritative work on the New York Stock Exchange and during recent years a Pacific coast resident partner of Hutton & Co., one of the best brokerage houses in Wall St.

"My belief is that the oil industry is facing the most prosperous era in its history. The formation of the export association is but the first step in that direction. The next step, on which a special committee is at present at work, is the proration of output by the producers in the various oil areas throughout the country. If an agreement is reached on this matter, nothing will prevent a real boom for the industry similar to that recently enjoyed by the copper companies. Meantime, the sporadic seasonal breaks of price-cutting here and there mean nothing. For the first time in its history, the oil industry is doing big constructive things in a big way."

THE best profits continue to be made usually by the biggest companies. Some mergers, but by no means all, are justifying themselves.

I HAVE never met Col. William J. Donovan, assistant United States attorney general and outstanding World War hero, but so many of his friends have said and published such commendatory true-ringing things about him in recommending him for the attorney generalship under President Hoover that I find myself mentally rooting for him. Without wire-pulling on his part, he has received the most effective publicity of any man in recent years.

Some business and financial men profess indifference as to what is said and printed about them. Such men are either liars or fools. The more important the position a man holds, the more important is it that he earn the esteem and goodwill of his fellow beings and, after all, far more than ninety-nine million of every hundred million people form their opinion of a prominent man by what they read about him.

Incidentally, my own observation is that it is very rare indeed for the public to have a wholly wrong opinion of a man.

THIS letter from a workman possesses genuine human interest:

"For years I have feared unemployment and, prompted by such fear, have saved and invested any money I could spare, building up an income from investments.

"My first purchase of stocks, three Southern California Edison Common, gave me only $21 per year, or an average of less than $2 per month. Through the partial shutdown of the plant I found myself unemployed several months ago, but with an income from investments which averages over $80 per month (a principal of over $19,000). People with dependents (I have none) profit from my example. I now consistently endeavor to live within my private income, and seem to be able to do so.

"For freedom from financial worry, live, or try to live, within your income from investments. My investments are all stocks."

STANDARD CO.'S PLANT STAYS IN CITY

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company will not be taken out of this city as a result of the consolidation with the American Radiator Company.

Both companies will continue to operate as individual units. There will be no changes in sales policies or personnel. The new holding company, which is being formed to own the stocks of both organizations, will be used largely to cement the community of interests of the two organizations. Actual operations will be carried on separately.

THE relationship of the holding company, the name of which has not been selected, will be similar to that of the United States Steel Corporation to its operating units such as Carnegie Steel, American Sheet & Tinplate and National Tube. Each of these is, for all practical purposes, a separate business. The parent organization merely lays down the general policies and keeps the units working in harmony.

Theodore M. Abrens, president of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, probably will be made president of the holding company. The other officers have not yet been selected.

THE previously announced ratio of three and two-thirds shares of Standard Sanitary common for one share of Radiator common is being approximately maintained in the final consolidation plans. Under these the holders of each share of Radiator get four shares of the common stock of the new corporation, while the holder of each share of Standard gets 1.09043 shares of new stock.

Radiator preferred stockholders will go into the consolidation on the same basis as the common stockholders, getting four shares of new common for each share. Under this arrangement the common stockholders of American Radiator will get an increase of $1 a year in dividend return, while the preferred holders will take a loss of $1 a year. The new stock will be on a $1.50 annual dividend basis. In compensation for the loss in dividends, however, the preferred holders will get a very substantial increase in market value.

STANDARD SANITARY stockholders will take only a negligible loss in dividend return. The rate on the new stock will be equivalent to $1.63½ a share compared with $1.68 at present.

Standard preferred is to be exchanged share for share for new preferred. The dividend return is 7 per cent on both issues. The old Standard Sanitary preferred is non-callable and non-cumulative, while the new preferred is cumulative and callable at the remarkably high price of $175 a share.

Both companies showed increases in earnings in 1928, but Standard's development was by far the most rapid. Standard Sanitary reported net earnings for 1928, after all charges, of $8,869,585.

AFTER deducting preferred dividends of $335,048 this was equivalent to $2.63 a share on the 3,234,486 shares of common stock. Earnings were $1,074,573 more than in 1927.

Combined earnings of the two companies for the year have been officially estimated at $21,200,000 or $2.32 a share on the 8,937,467 shares of proposed common stock of the holding company. This indicates that American Radiator's earnings for the year were about $12,450,000 compared with $12,057,315 in 1927.

GOLDMAN BAND ON RADIO; LONDON PROGRAM HEARD

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

PITTSBURGHERS heard the chimes of "Big Ben" in London yesterday—but it was through WCAE.

It was the first attempt of the NBC to rebroadcast a program originating at 2LN, London, over a nation-wide hookup.

Fans telephoned the Sun-Telegraph that the tests were very good and that they had enjoyed their first taste of classical music from overseas. Allan Machesney, chief engineer of WCAE, said the programs had wonderful quality. It will not be long until these programs are broadcast regularly over the N. B. C. network, he predicted.

The London concert originated in the studio of 2LN, went 30 miles by telephone wires to 5SW at Chelmsford, where it leaped into the air on 25.53 meters with a power of 10,000 watts.

Spanning 3,300 miles of the Atlantic Ocean the signals were picked up at Riverhead, Long Island, carried to the N. B. C. studios in downtown New York and relayed over land wires to 40 stations throughout the country.

GOLDMAN CONCERT

An orchestra conductor who has won the hearts of fans through previous engagements over the radio makes his appearance tonight at 8 o'clock in the first of a series of band concerts sponsored by the Pure Oil Company. Edwin Franko Goldman and his band will be heard in a most delightful program through KDKA. Glance at this program and see, if you were arranging an initial performance, if you could select seven numbers as varied and full of taste. It looks very good to us and 8 o'clock will probably find us at the KDKA dials.

Since this program lasts but half an hour, it will be possible to tune in on Walter Damrosch's concert over WCAE between 8 and 9. Here, too, we have some beautiful music, principally the "Prize Song" from Wagner's "Meistersinger."

At 8 o'clock from KDKA the Interwoven Entertainers will try something new in the way of entertainment. Reels, jigs and breakdowns by a dance orchestra are on the schedule.

It is a tossup whether the addresses by Mayor James J. Walker and Police Commissioner Grover H. Whalen, of New York, will be more interesting than Lew White's rendition of "Kreisleriana," both at the same hour, 9 o'clock.

The Winchester Band and a piano accordion duo will be featured on the Arctic and Antarctic program from KDKA at 11 o'clock, while the Ponce Sisters will offer "I Wanna Be Loved By You" and four other good numbers from WCAE one minute later.

FEATURES AT WJAS

Three programs at WJAS look like they might bear watching. First is the Philco Request Program at 7:30 o'clock; second, the Capitol Limited Trio at 8:45 p. m. and last the Spang-Chalfant Quartet at 10:30 o'clock.

KQV will present the usual midnight show from the Webster Club.

Suit Against Ford Ordered Dismissed

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 2.—(AP.)—Henry Ford and his son, Edsel B. Ford, have won at least a temporary victory in their litigation with Wilfred C. Leland and stockholders of the Lincoln Motor Company. The State Supreme Court yesterday ordered a suit in Oakland County Circuit Court dismissed.

Leland and his associates charged stockholders of the old Lincoln company were defrauded by failure of Ford to carry out a contract agreement they said was made when the Fords purchased the company. The Supreme Court found the stockholders did not lose, and said that, on the contrary, the agreement Leland was trying to enforce was contrary to public policy.

CAPITOL LIMITED TRIO AT WJAS

A. A. SUTTER W. H. KRAMER GEORGE C. SUTTER

From WJAS tonight at 8:45 o'clock radio fans will hear the Capitol Limited Trio in a program of popular and semi-classical hits.

Party Promised "In Fun," 500 Jam Studio

Someone made a mistake at WCAE and subsequently the announcers had to fight their way through a crowd of several hundred children last night to get to the microphone.

Joe Villella blamed everything on C. A. Wakeman, alias "Uncle Gimbee," who "accidentally broadcast a general invitation to his playmates of the Gimbee Family to attend the first anniversary of the Family in the WCAE studio last night. Afterward Wakeman said he made the announcement "all in fun" and wouldn't do it again.

But one announcement was enough—500 people jammed the studio last night to see Uncle Gimbee and Cousin Lora and in so doing they almost prevented the station going on the air. After scrambling through the crowd Wakeman found the microphone being used for a saw fiddle by several innocent kiddies.

Anyway a good time was had by all.

Pastor to Begin Series of Lectures

The Rev. C. J. Loehr, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Pennsylvania avenue and Manhattan street, North Side, will begin a series of nine lectures on Christian fundamentals Sunday night. His subject of the first lecture will be "How Can I Know." These lectures will be followed by the regular Sunday night worship.

Moose to Initiate 100 at McKees Rocks

The McKees Rocks Moose, as a part of a membership drive, Thursday night will initate a second class of 100 members, under the direction of Edward A. Schofield, of Pittsburgh, district deputy supervisor. Attorney M. A. Musmanno, Stowe township resident, from which district most of members of the new class come, will sponsor the class.

Railways Workers Arrange Card Party

A card party will be held under the auspices of Castle Shannon motormen and conductors of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, at the company's administration building, Castle Shannon, Thursday evening, February 7. Euchre and "500" will be played. The proceeds will go towards the flower and aid funds, it was announced.

Assign Minister To McKees Rocks

Father Philip Moore, formerly assigned to the St. Joseph's congregation at Mt. Pleasant, has been assigned to the St. Francis De Sales Church, McKees Rocks, and will assume his duties at once. Father Moore fills the vacancy created by the death of Father William Dunlea, several months ago.

Testimonial Dinner Given Commissioner

Prominent members of the McKees Rocks official family attended a testimonial dinner given Dominic Bennett, the newly appointed members of board of commissioners for Stowe township. Covers were laid for 50 and at the end of the repast the honored guest was the recipient of many congratulations.

Woman's Auxiliary To Hold Card Party

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

IF, by some foul chance, the reader finds that instead of sitting in a comfortable home of an evening reading his newspaper, he is forced to walk around looking for a place to sleep because he has no home, no money, and no work, I recommend No. 1 Police Station, First avenue and Short street.

If you come upon such unfortunate circumstances all you have to do is to walk to the police station and tell the sergeant you would like to be put up for the night. You will wonder that the sergeant doesn't inquire about your own case, which you deem the strangest and hardest of any you know about, but the sergeant will not ask you questions because he has become accustomed to stories, rivalling even yours, and has adopted a certain philosophical attitude toward the whole problem. If he didn't steel himself in this way he might suddenly go mad.

You would be shown to a large detention room and instructed to pick out a place to sleep. You would discover that bad as your plight is it is not exceptional for in that room you would discover that at least 125 others are in the same fix. They are not, as you now might imagine, sitting around, reciting their experiences, swearing at the Fates, and telling one another how terrible it is to be hungry and homeless, but instead they are sleeping.

Unluckily, the beds are not of the best, consisting of the same wood which makes up the floor. After stepping carefully around the 125 forms on the floor, many of whom a long time ago were mothered and fathered and made much of when they got their first tooth, you would take a reclining position and through weariness and a dullness coming from your inability to figure this whole thing out, drop to sleep.

IN THE morning you would be told to get up—and only at this point would you decide, perhaps, that in a mad world there is some little reason, after all. You would discover that there is hot coffee and bread there and while that does not quite measure up to the bacon and eggs you used to get you would likely say that this breakfast is fine.

Ordinarily, police stations give you only a "bed" and that is why I recommend No. 1 Police Station at the present time, for under the charitable hand of Inspector James Hoey this modest breakfast has been procured. The fact that 125 down-and-outers walked out every morning, cold and hungry, caused the inspector in question to tilt his cap back on his head one day, and scratch his head in thought. The result of such meditation caused him to make a call on a few merchants he knew in the district. Would a baker send bread, fresh or stale, to the station? Would a coffee man help out? Would a creamery send along some milk? They would and they did.

NATURALLY, this is never going to happen to you or me (we think) but I thought you'd like this information about No. 1 Police Station, because just the other night a bewildered man, called Slim, was trying to figure it all out as he was waiting his turn to be placed in the sleeping quarters. Perhaps his story wasn't entirely clear, for he was under a bit of a strain. You see, he had just walked to Pittsburgh from McKeesport, (quite a distance even in a comfortable motor car), and naturally his hands and ears were giving him some bother as he told his story. It was not an unusual story except that Slim was not born a down-and-outer. There were evenings some time ago when he used to sit at home and read a newspaper, too, but luck changed considerably and here he was.

Slim's gratefulness over the accommodations at No. 1 and over the service rendered by the maitre d' hotel, one, Inspector Hoey, was such that it prompted a story about the "flop" and the coffee and the bread.

SMOKING IN BED, MAN BADLY BURNED

Believed to have been smoking in bed, Oscar Slaten, 50, a roomer at 221 Anderson street, was found badly burned by firemen who forced their way into the room during a fire early today.

He is reported near death in the Allegheny General Hospital.

According to District Fire Chief Mart in Loebig, Slaten was found on the floor of the room, burned about the face, head and chest. The bed was on fire, as were other furnishings. The house was saved.

It is thought the man ignited the bed and then rolled to the floor to escape the flames.

Passed as Sister, Wife Says, Sues For Divorce

"My husband introduced me to his girl friend as his sister, and I didn't dare contradict him, because he had said he would beat me up," declared Mrs. Lucy Perry, 12 Orphan street, testifying in her suit for divorce from Robert Perry, before Judge Harry H. Rowand in Common Pleas Court.

Judge Rowand will hand down a decision later.

P. & W. VA. R.R. COMPLETES PLANS

The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway has completed plans to make increased use of the rivers possible for Pittsburgh industries and has also taken another step towards the formation of its proposed new trunk line system, which will include the Western Maryland and the Wheeling and Lake Erie lines.

A rail and river terminal is to be built between Dravosburg and Clairton.

The project will be the second to make use of railroad car barges on the Monongahela. Loaded railroad cars will be transferred from the lines to barges carrying tracks. These barges can be moved on the rivers to industrial plants for unloading of materials from the cars or loading with finished products.

IS TIME SAVER

In addition to giving plants with only one railroad connection facilities for reaching any line through the connections of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, the new method of transferring cars by river will save a large amount of the time consumed in switching cars through the congested Pittsburgh yard areas.

The Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation has had a similar car barge service in operation between the plants at Pittsburgh and at Aliquippa for nearly two years.

Directors of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway at a meeting in New York yesterday voted to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to acquire the Western Maryland.

CONSOLIDATIONS PLANNED

Pittsburgh and West Virginia also has an application pending for permission to consolidate the Wheeling and Lake Erie with its lines. Upon completion of the new Connellsville extension to the lines of the Western Maryland the two proposed consolidations would open a new trunk line from the lakes to the Atlantic seaboard.

Approval of the two applications is considered unlikely at the present time. The commission has been refusing to confirm railroad merger proposals because of the fact that no complete railroad consolidation program has been drawn up. In addition to this, other lines are holders of large blocks of stock in the two roads. The Baltimore and Ohio owns a large block of Western Maryland stock, while the Nickel Plate, New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio control the Wheeling and Lake Erie.

SHERADEN SUN-TELEGRAPH NEWSBOYS WELL SATISFIED

That the Sun-Telegraph newsboys in Sheraden, who receive their papers from Crosier & Ellicker, news dealers at 2128 Chartiers avenue, are satisfied with their pay and working conditions is apparent from the length of service of some of them.

Verdon Ayers, of Allendale street, has been carrying and selling papers for seven years. His brother has been a newsboy for five years. Richard Weaver, of 1011 Fairdale street, has been with Crosier & Ellicker for six years, and Frank Harrison, of 911 Perry street, for five yeras.

Crosier & Ellicker treat the boys well. In addition to paying them a fair wage, they give the youngsters cash presents at Christmas, take them to a picnic every Summer, and allow them a discount on purchases made in the firm's store.

The 20 boys served by the agency come for the most part from families that do not need their earnings; so they spend their wages on their own requirements. Some have savings accounts in the banks.

Crosier & Ellicker handle the Sun-Telegraph exclusively, of the Pittsburgh evening and Sunday papers.

Husband Already Wed, 3 Mo. Bride Asks Divorce

A girl bride, discovering after three months that her husband had not been divorced from his first wife, Mary Zenovich, 955 Washington boulevard, has brought suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court against Michael Zenovich, of Woodlawn. She is still a minor and filed the suit through her father.

LEG BROKE, BOY ASKS $20,000

His leg broken while attempting to escape from an elevator on which he had been playing, Charles R. Schippbauer, 8, through his father, Frank Schippbauer, of Aspinwall, has filed suit for $20,000 damages against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in Common Pleas Court.

The boy, with other children, had boarded the baggage elevator at the Aspinwall Station and started it upward, when an employe of the railroad caught them and, pulling the rope, stopped the elevator half way between floors, telling the children he was going to hold them there while he summoned the police. Schippbauer climbed out through the cage to try and get away and in some manner his leg was broken. The accident occurred August 21, last.

Petty to Address Dormont Mothers

The annual guest night of the Dormont Mothers' Club for the teachers of the Dormont public, high and religious schools and husbands of the members of the club will be held in the Dormont Baptist Church, Thursday, February 7. Dr. C. Wallace Petty, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Pittsburgh, will be the principal speaker. The music will be furnished by Mrs. Mary Reese Wilson, soloist; Mrs. Lola Fuffelman, trumpeter, and Frank Raup, baritone.

Woods Run Center Forms Athletic Club

Two Confectioners Seized in Dry Raids

Two confectioners, Alfred Daunt, 30, of 7734 Susquehanna street, and Joseph Smith, 46, of 1003 North Lang avenue, were arrested last night by Lieut. William Fullerton, who raided their stores and confiscated moonshine in each, according to his report.

St. George Knights Plan Card Party

Plans are being completed for a large card party and reception to be held February 8 in St. Anselm's school auditorium, Church street, Swissvale. The affair is being sponsored by Swissvale branch of the Knights of St. George.

BOY, 15, SEIZED IN DRY RAIDS

Raids on four saloons and a store in Duquesne netted Federal prohibition agents eight prisoners, including a 15-year-old boy, and resulted in confiscation of large quantities of moonshine and brew yesterday.

Raiding a saloon at 408 South Second street, Duquesne, the agents arrested Michael Polatas, 50, his wife, Anna, 51, and their son, George, 15. Moonshine was reported seized in the place. Each of the three were released on a $1,000 bond.

Charles Hrebenah, 32, 100 Camp avenue; John Kavish, 24, of 38 Milford street, and Joe Burik, 53, of 170 Milford street, saloonkeepers, and Mrs. Mary Kovac, 35, and Andrew J. Kovac, 21, of 406 South Second street, storekeepers, all of Duquesne, were arrested when liquor law violations were found in their places, according to the agents' report.

Eleven cases of beer reported found on the truck of Frank Bruscemi, 28, of Tustin street, led to the seizure of the truck and the arrests of Bruscemi and Thomas Bonanno, 39, of Gibsonia, at Marion and Forbes streets, yesterday.

State Officers to Attend Anniversary

The forty-fifth anniversary of Honest Abe Council No. 66, F. P. A., will be held Thursday night in the council room, Masonic Hall, Carnegie. The state board of officers are expected to be present. The committee in charge consists of the executive officers of the council, Councillor George R. WHO'S GUILTY??? CAN YOU SOLVE THIS DETECTIVE STORY?

The Two Eye-Witnesses—First Prize Mystery Story

Cash Awards to Be Given For Best Solutions of Baffling Murder

By EVELYN JOHNSON AND GRETTA PALMER.

OFFICER MULCAHY was calmly strolling along his beat, wondering how his bathtub of home brew was coming along, when a hand suddenly grabbed his arm. He spun around and found himself face to face with a large, muscular and extremely excited young man.

"My father has been shot. For God's sake come!" said the young man. "It's just down the block."

Mulcahy glanced briefly at the young man's face and broke into a run beside him.

Their destination proved to be a small jewelry store. Mulcahy hurried at the young man's heels through the main shop, along a small hall and into a repair room behind. A curious scene appeared. Slumped over a work table was an elderly man. His tools were all about him and he held a watch in his hand, as though he had been interrupted in the midst of his work.

The cause of the interruption was obvious. In the back of his head was a jagged bullet wound. The unusual touches consisted of a second inert body crumpled beside an open safe and a large and magnificent tripod camera between the work-bench and the windows. The ticking of the clocks all about the room added to the macabre effect.

THE man at the work table was obviously dead; so Mulcahy stooped, and turned over the man on the floor. He saw immediately that he was still alive. One side of his jaw was livid purple. The policeman looked at the young man inquiringly.

"I am afraid that is my fault," said the youth.

"I came in, saw my father, then this man in front of the safe, and when he turned around, I hit him and ran for help."

They worked over the unconscious form for several minutes before he finally revived.

"That was quite a punch you gave him," said Mulcahy.

"I'm a prize fighter," replied the muscular young man.

The victim of the assault was in a pitiable state of bewilderment, and when Mulcahy gathered what he was saying, he saw that the case was not as simple as it seemed.

"You're both under arrest," he said to the boxer and to the little man with the injured jaw, and called headquarters.

WHEN the detective arrived, Mulcahy had found a revolver on the safe with one bullet missing, that was obviously the weapon used in the murder. But Mulcahy had not found a single coinciding statement in the two stories told by his respective prisoners. He was not sorry to turn the pair over to the plain-clothesmen.

The young man stated that his name was Edward Burroughs, known to fistic fame as "Spider" Burroughs, and that he was the son of the dead man, George Burroughs, proprietor of the jewelry shop. A few days before, he had been talking to his father when the other prisoners, whose name, he thought was Slade, came in and asked his father if he didn't want some photographs taken.

The photographer had finally talked Mr. Burroughs Senior into having some flashlights taken of the interior of the shop and of himself at work.

An appointment had been made for three o'clock that afternoon, he believed. At that time he had been in his bedroom—the Burrough's apartment was over the shop. His mother, who was ill, had been in an adjoining room.

"DOES she know about this?" asked one of the policemen.

"No," said young Burroughs. "Let me explain what happened. I remember I heard a flashlight go off, and just after that I decided to play the radio. There wasn't anything on but some stock market quotations, so I turned it off after a minute. Then I heard another report—and now I come to think of it, it did sound a little funny.

"A little later I went into mother's room and said I thought I would go out. I came downstairs and into the work-room to say something to Dad. I found him sitting there dead. This guy was reaching inside the safe. When he turned around I socked him and went for the police."

This all sounded simple enough until the little photographer told his story.

HIS name was Horace Slade, he told the police, and he was a professional photographer. He often went around to shops and houses when business was slack, and he had seen Mr. Burroughs and made the appointment for 3 o'clock, as young Burroughs had said.

But from there on everything young Burroughs had said was a mass of lies. He had set up his camera, and posed Mr. Burroughs, and as he set off the flash with one hand and clicked the camera with the other, he saw his sitter slump forward over his bench. He was sure a shot had been fired just as he set off the flash. Before he had had a chance to rush to Mr. Burroughs' rescue, the curtains over the door to the hall had swung open and young Burroughs had rushed in and hit him on the chin, and that was the last he remembered.

The police went upstairs to interview Mrs. Burroughs. They found the murdered man's wife, lying on a couch, unconscious of everything that had happened. They broke the news to her as gently as they could, and then asked her what she knew of the events that had taken place.

SHE corroborated her son's statements to a large extent. She had been dozing, until she heard the first report—she could not state whether it had been the noise of a flashlight or a pistol shot or both; she had never dreamed that it could be anything but her husband having his picture taken. A few seconds later, she heard the radio giving stock market reports. You could hear it perfectly from the next room. It stopped after a short while. A few minutes later there was a second report, and shortly her son came in and said he was going up to the gymnasium.

However, when she was asked if her son could have had any motive for murdering his father, she became confused and finally broke down and admitted that there had been extremely bad blood between them over "Spider" Burrough's worthless ways, and that the father had threatened only the day before to cut his son out of his will entirely. The will had not as yet been changed, but she was sure that her husband had really intended to do it. She admitted also that her son was very badly in debt.

No amount of cross-examination could shake these three stories at all. All three witnesses were quite sure that there had not been more than one report. Mrs. Burroughs obviously knew no more than that she had heard her son turn on the radio just after the sound of the report, and that he had turned it off again after a few seconds, and said goodby to her a few minutes after that. She had heard nothing else.

SLADE insisted that his sitter had slumped into a heap just as he snapped the picture, and that immediately Burroughs had come in and hit him. He denied opening the safe or having a gun. Burroughs was certain that after taking the picture, Slade, tempted by the open safe, had gone behind Burroughs and fired from the rear, setting off another flash to cover the sound of the bullet.

The body yielded no further evidence, but the police found the pistol on top of the safe. One bullet had been fired, which was proved to be the bullet that had killed Burroughs. There were no finger-prints on the gun.

The development of the negative which remained in the camera brought some interesting results. In plain view behind the dead man was one of the numerous clocks that stood and hung about the workroom. It marked the hour of 2:16. The dead man's face was absolutely serene.

"So," said one of the detectives, turning to Slade, "you say that Burroughs fell forward as you took the picture! You could have worked your story out better."

This one picture was the only one that had been taken.

THE police then examined the premises carefully. It was a very simple layout. On the ground floor was the shop, then a small hall containing the stairs, and back of this the work-room. There were three windows. Upstairs, there were living rooms over the shop, and over the work-room two bedrooms, that of Burroughs, and the one in which Mrs. Burroughs had been lying. Burroughs' room had two windows, the other room one, each one over one of the windows below. In their anxiety to test every possibility, the police investigated whether anyone could have climbed down into the room below, but found it impossible. The drop was too great, there was no foothold, the radio was in front of one window and a cluttered writing table in front of the other.

The police found that the stock market reports were given at 2:15 every day. The clock that appeared in the picture was running perfectly.

Can you tell which of the witnesses, if any, were telling the truth, and explain just what happened?

Cash Awards for Best Mystery Story Solutions

EVERY day the Sun-Telegraph will print a mystery story on this page. The correct solution, written by the authors, will appear the day following the publication of each story except the one printed on SATURDAY.

Each SATURDAY there will be printed an original, or PRIZE STORY, by the same authors, the solution of which is in a sealed envelope. Prizes will be paid only on stories appearing on that day. Everybody is invited to send in their solutions of the SATURDAY PRIZE STORY. For the best three solutions in point of accuracy, brevity, clarity and completeness, the following cash prizes will be awarded:

FIRST PRIZE..... $10.

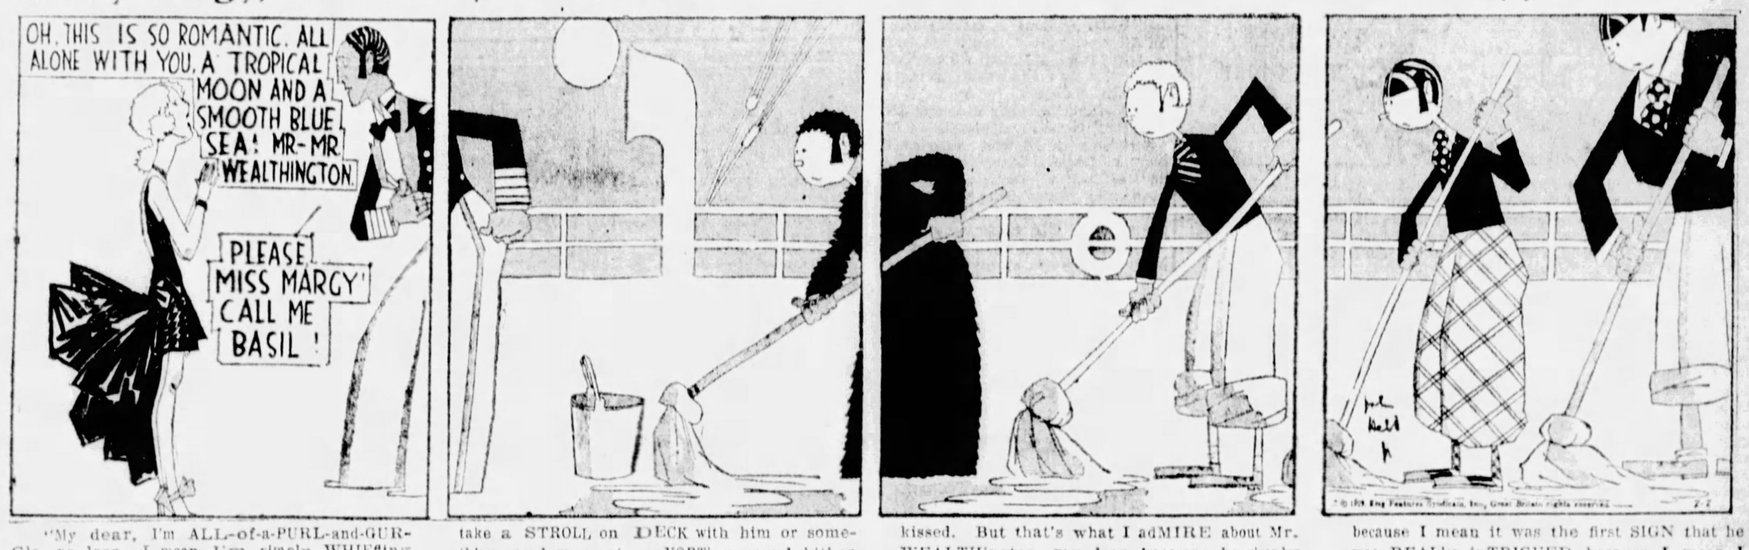
Three prizes of $5 each for the next three.

Contestants for the PRIZE STORY AWARD will have from Saturday morning until the following THURSDAY night at 6 o'clock, to send in their solutions. Letters postmarked after that time cannot be accepted, as judges must be able to render their decision on the prize winners in time to make the following saturday's editions, when the correct solution of the PRIZE STORY, along with the names of the winners, will be printed with another PRIZE STORY for you folks to tackle.

Address your solution to the Mystery Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer By John Held, Jr.



OH, THIS IS SO ROMANTIC. ALL ALONE WITH YOU, A TROPICAL MOON AND A SMOOTH BLUE SEA! MR-MR WEALTHINGTON
PLEASE MISS MARGY' CALL ME BASIL!

"My dear, I'm ALL-of-a-PURL-and-GURGle, no less—I mean I'm simply WHIFFing and BURBling with JOY at this point because it was the most diVINE NIGHT last night with a simply treMENdous MOON effect and the YACHT sort of SLITHering SINuously through this TROPical SEA, and after DINner MR. WEALTHington asked me if I'd like to take a STROLL on DECK with him or something and we went caVORTing round hither and YON and he's perfectly SWISS because I've never YET met a man who was so MARvelously self-conTROLLED, sort of, because I mean in that AWfuLly roMANtic ATmosphere with the AV'rage person you'd expect to get kissed. But that's what I adMIRE about Mr. WEALTHington, my dear, because he simply NEVer gets FRESH or anything. But I was all-of-a-TWIT because FInally when I'd kept calling him Mr. WEALTHington awfully FORMally and all, my dear, he asked me to call him BASIL, and I was TOO imPRESSED because I mean it was the first SIGN that he was REALly inTRIGUED because I mean I think he's the TYPE that's sort of inDIFFerent to GIRLS, my dear, but I think BASIL's the most THRILLing name in the WORLD—so sort of mysTErious and roMANtic sounding and all, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

NANCY DEANE By Roy L. Foley

Wescott Is Eager to Make Nancy Tell the Name of Her Real Parents

CHAPTER XXIV.

HOWARD WESCOTT was determined upon two things. He was bound that Nancy should find a place to live that would be all her own—away from the dingy rooming house on Biddle street. Away from Ginger and her companions. And he was determined to have her reveal the names of her grandparents.

He wanted to get her away from The Carmondy so that he might see more of her alone. And he wanted to discover her true relationship because there was mystery in it. Because, so far, it was something denied him.

Wescott knew that if the story told were true, and he didn't doubt that it was true, that the entire circle in which he moved would have something new to talk about. Then too, if Nancy was the daughter of the so-called best families, there was a possibility of her being accepted in his own set.

The whole thing aroused his curiosity. He liked to play with the idea of bringing Nancy back to her own rightful heritage, and when Nancy refused to help him in his little game he determined that he would break that will of hers if it was the last thing he ever did.

Toward 5 o'clock of the afternoon after Nancy's first appearance in the style revue, Wescott rang for her to come into his private office. It was the first time all day that he had appeared to notice her. At lunch time he took some eastern buyers to the Athletic Club for lunch. They were gone now, his desk was clear, and he took the first opportunity to summon Nancy.

She flung the door open wide, and stood holding it, Harriet Crosby's eyes rivited on her back.

"Come in," Wescott said, "close the door, please."

Nancy closed it but did not advance.

"You act as though you were afraid of me. Come in. I'm not going to hurt you—little debutante, mystery girl."

"What do you mean, mystery girl?" Nancy asked.

"I mean you're a very strange little lady. There are so many things you don't know. In the first place you don't know how pretty you are. And in the second place you don't know what a furore you'd create among the debutantes if you'd only claim your rights."

Nancy couldn't quite follow Wescott. She had come into his office believing he had some task for her. Now he was talking about her claiming her rights.

"Mr. Wescott, what are you talking about?"

"How many times have I asked you not to call me Mr. Wescott. Howard's my name. Say it now—Howard."

"How can I call you Howard. You're my employer. What would Miss Crosby think. What would everybody think?"

"Think! Let every one think what they pretty d—— please. But what I wanted to say most was that I think I can recommend just the place for you to live, a nice, quiet place on Ellsworth avenue, just three rooms, bedroom, living room, kitchenette. I'd like you to see it tonight. How about it?"

Three rooms. How Nancy laughed at the tiny three-room apartments that she and Ginger had looked at. Until she had come to Pittsburgh she had never seen one of these kitchenette apartments, and how she laughed when she tried to imagine herself, Mud and Darry trying to get along in one. The three of them would have to have a two bedroom apartment, at least, she had decided before, but had dismissed the matter from her mind when she learned what rents were.

"Three rooms! Why, three rooms would never be large enough for my mother, dad and me, too," she said.

"But three rooms would be large enough for you, wouldn't they?" he answered. "A little person like you could be quite comfortable in three rooms I should think. The three rooms doesn't count the bath, you understand."

"Yes, but I don't intend living alone."

Wescott didn't answer for a while. He tapped his pencil against his white teeth. He said, deliberately:

"Wouldn't it be better for you to live there alone for a while? Wouldn't it be better to let your foster parents remain where they are? I think you said they were quite elderly people and they probably would find it pretty hard to be uprooted from a rather small place and planted on the seventh floor of a big city apartment building."

He didn't look into Nancy's eyes when he said this. He kept them straight on the desk before him. Then as a sort of important afterthought, and in a tone a salesman might use when he is offering a good buy, and his attitude is "take it or leave it," he said:

"Well, of course. The larger apartments are very expensive, too expensive, I'd say, for an office girl. I was just trying to make a suggestion, that's all. Even with your increased pay, I don't think you could take care of anything more."

He was talking rather casually now, as though it made very little difference what she decided to do. It was all up to her. His dark eyes even had a look of kind innocence in them. He wasn't looking at Nancy directly, and yet her every expression, every movement was registered with him.

"As soon as you are able to take my letters and use the typwriter, of course I'll be able to compensate you, perhaps to such an extent that you can bring your foster parents here—"

"Don't say foster parents," Nancy broke in. "I hate the sound of that expression. Mud and Darry aren't foster parents. They're something very special. They're more than a mother and father could ever be."

She felt like crying.

"Sorry, sorry," said Wescott. "Really I'm awfully sorry. I'll remember."

So far as he was concerned the conversation appeared to be ended. There was an awkward silence. At least Nancy felt that it was awkward, though Wescott seemed the soul of poise. He started to draw a succession of triangles on the blotter. Nancy watched him, thinking.

Should she take this small apartment as Wescott had suggested until she finished with her secretarial training? She longed to get out of Ginger's cluttered room, away from its heavy perfumes, away from Mrs. Carmondy's prying eyes, away from the dingy hallways. She wanted privacy, a place where she could be by herself.

Ever since she had come to Pittsburgh she hadn't a moment she could call her own, not one evening in which she could relax, read, or just sit and do nothing. Every night Ginger's room was filled with callers; either Vic and Jerry came up, or there were girls of Ginger's type. Chattering, over-dressed, all talking about men and clothes.

Nancy had dreamed of being alone in a place of her own. She often thought she would love to do some cooking over one of those kitchenette stoves, to make her coffee in the morning, to invite a few friends to tea. The thought of inviting a few friends to tea had made her smile.

What friends?

She knew that so far she hadn't much chance to make any real friends, that she really didn't know any of the kind of girls she would truly enjoy knowing.

Now, for the first time she could see her way clear to get a little place of her own. And here she was, hesitating because she couldn't have one of the bigger apartments. Why, she ought to be glad to even have a good, clean bed to sleep on, without asking so much, it came upon her as she stood facing Howard Wescott. She was actually amused at herself, for hoping for so much all at once, and a few weeks ago she would have been glad of a place to lay her head. Her common sense was telling her that the more people get the more they want.

"Mr. Wescott, Howard, that is—I'm sure you're right. I don't know what you think of me, even hesitating to consider the suggestion you make. It's just wonderful of you to be interested at all. To hear me talk you'd think I was of some value in this office—"

"Value! Why you're of great value to me," he said, "more than you know. It's just that I'm interested in the welfare of any girl who works for me and I want to see that you have as comfortable a place as posible to live in when you are away from the grind of the office."

How altruistic he sounded. If he hadn't been such an actor, Wescott would have laughed at his own high sounding words. If his greed for the satisfaction of his own wishes hadn't been so strong within him his cheeks would have burned. He was playing the snob, but Nancy was too inexperienced to realize it.

He knew he was letting her make her own decision, though indirectly he was making it for her, and instead of hating himself for it, he felt satisfaction at his cleverness.

"Very well, then," he said, as though some deal had been closed, "I'll call you at eight o'clock. Agreeable?"

Nancy didn't know whether she felt "agreeable" or not. She could not have defined her feelings. How she longed to have someone to turn to, how she would loved to have Mrs. O'Day to go to, her Muddy, who knew how to come to quick decisions and who seemed to know clearly what right was and what wrong was. There was Ginger, but Ginger's advice was likely to be anything. In one breath she might tell Nancy that she would be a "darn little fool" if she didn't let Wescott give her advice, and in the next she might warn Nancy against the very advice given.

Miss Crosby. Mrs. Carmondy. How preposterous it would be even to mention the matter to either of them—and yet they were women, the only two women whom Nancy knew very well, in addition to Ginger.

Nancy knew that she would have to think things out alone and she decided to do it. If she made blunders, well, she could start over again. She knew she had to get away from Ginger, that she had to get away from every one, that she longed for a clean, quiet place where she could think over the whirlwind of things that had swept her about. She wondered if she was being ungrateful to Ginger. It was so hard to know just what to do.

That night when she reached home she was relieved to find that Ginger was not in the room. It was upset, as usual, and it was some minutes before Nancy's eyes rested on a note lying among the debris on the dresser.

"Kiddo, it said, "Ziggie asked me out to the Red Circle Inn for dinner tonight. Will tell you all about the leg pulling tomorrow.

"GINGER."

Nancy read the note, let it fall back among the cosmetics on the dresser.

Mrs. Carmondy, generously enough, sometimes let the girls put things in her icebox. Cold ham, dry rolls, coffee made in a percolator, the operation of unscrewing the curling iron from its socket so that the percolator might be attached—all these things rushed into Nancy's mind. She felt sick.

She started to tidy up the room, but it seemed hopeless. Ginger's clothing was everywhere, the closet, none too big, was overflowing. Cheap magazines were tumbling off the tables and chairs. Nancy tried to straighten the lamp cord, pulled on it too hard, and knocked the lamp to the floor. The bulb smashed and the room was black as pitch. Tired, overwrought and nervous, the hurry and excitement of events beginning to tear on her nerves, Nancy suddenly felt a wave of homesickness.

She had never felt so hopelessly alone before.

She was hot with the urge to pull out her patent leather suit case from under the bed, fling her few belongings into it and fly from the Carmondy to the depot and home.

There was a lump in her throat that just would come, fight it as she tried. She threw herself across the bed and buried her head in the pillows so that no one would hear her sobbing. She gave way to all her pent up emotions.

"Muddy, why did I ever leave you," she cried, and beat her hands against the pillows. She got up, sat on the edge of the bed for awhile, the hot tears running down her cheeks. She slid to the floor, buried her face in her arms, and it was in that position that Howard Wescott found her.

He had climbed the two flights of stairs on Mrs. Carmondy's invitation, knocked at Nancy's door. She hadn't heard. When Wescott opened the door the feeble light from the hallway flickered in on her, a tired, golden-headed girl, crumpled on the floor, her head against the bed, and crying as though her heart would break.

"My, my, what's this?" Wescott said.

He lighted a match and bent over her, holding it, trying to learn what the trouble might be. The match burned down to his finger tips and he had to let it drop. He stooped over Nancy and picked her up as though she were a baby. He sat down on the edge of the bed, putting her head on his shoulder and patting her back.

"Now, now, what can the trouble be?" he said, soothingly.

"I want to get out of this place. I want to go home," Nancy wept. "I hate it here. I hate Pittsburgh and everything in it."

Wescott pressed Nancy's golden head down onto his shoulder, bending his own head close to hers.

"Do you know what I think?" he said.

"I think you're hungry."

Solution of Yesterday's Mystery Story: 'The Gentleman Who Killed'

THE fatal error made by Vance was that he left traces which proved him to be a left-handed person. The drink which he poured himself on the mantle-piece alone would indicate this to a clever detective; the carafe had its handle pointing to the left, and the glass was set down to the right of it. In opening the door to the bedroom, Vance instinctively reached for the handle of the left door, leaving it open. McManus, who was a right-handed man, had always reached for the right handle in entering the bedroom from the living room, in coming from the other side he would use the left door if that were already open, otherwise the right. That was why he had left finger-prints on both handles on the bedroom side.

When the detective asked Vance for a match he was setting a trap to see whether he was left-handed. Vance had realized by this time the errors he had made and was prepared to prove himself right-handed. He had tied his shoe-laces as a right-handed man would; he had placed all his match packets in his left-hand pocket, for convenience in striking them with his right hand. He struck a match for the detective with his right hand. But when he handed over the packet to the detective, that dignitary saw at once that the matches already torn off from the packet had been removed beginning at the left side, a definitely left-handed trick, and also that the packet bore the name of the Lafayette. This latter fact indicated that Vance had been in New York far more recently than eight months ago.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

ROSALIND

By LAURA REID MONTGOMERY

THE moonlight spilled down upon the tangle of June roses, paling the vivid tones into pastel tints; a multitude of stars embroidered the deep velvet sky. Rosalind dropped her hand on the head of the white Persian cat and looked about her. The garden seemed an enchanted place in the cool dimness but—memories lay thickly over the sleeping flowers and the girl's heart ached. She was only 26, a youthful age to be done with love, she mourned—not so much the lover as the love.

Dell had always chosen her in the kissing games and he had taken her in the school dances and the latter courtship had come as a logical sequence—if love is ever logical.

When he left for France he had taken her promise with him and she had mourned passionately when his name was among the list of the missing. She had marveled with a stricken wonder at the uselessness of his supreme sacrifice because the armistice had been declared so soon after he had gone. If he'd only waited a little, so his mother often said, but he had refused the safe places and gone gallantly over the top.

Dell's mother lived next door and her daughter-in-law had scant patience with the fancies of Mrs. Gordon. So Rosalind spent much of her time in cheering the old lady. Dell had studied horticulture and had had a passion for clipping evergreen trees into animal shapes. This, to Betty Gordon, seemed an absurd waste of time and the task of keeping the tree-zoo in order had fallen to Rosalind. Although she had little time for the monotonous clipping she realized that it comforted Mrs. Gordon to stroll through the quaint boxed paths and stare at the formal little shapes that had been first coaxed into beauty by her son's shears.

Rosalind left the white porch and went down into the fragrant garden. She had had a little gate swing between the grounds and she kept the boundary hedge exquisitely square-clipped, just as Dell had done. And because of her intense compassion for the older woman, she had started a few grotesque shapes on her own side. Two round balls of vivid green guarded the little gate, and apparently looking at a white statue of love beside a rose-tree, stood a horse. Rosalind had named him Pegasus, although she had not been able to achieve the wings that were rightfully his. She was thinking of something the practical Betty had said when she had noticed Rosalind's additions: "You encourage Mother-Gordon to grieve and I actually believe that she has some silly fancy about Dell not being really dead. Perhaps she thinks he has suffered from amnesia and that he'll come wandering past here some day and see those stiff animals."

"I don't believe she harbors any such fancy," Rosalind had quietly answered, "but if it comforts her any to see Dell's trees kept smooth and perfect, it is a small thing to do."

"You could be running about like other girls after your teaching hours are over," returned Betty. "You have mourned for Dell, now you ought to be looking about, unless," she ended a trifle shrewishly, "you want to be an old maid."

The sentence had fallen coldly on the girl's heart. An old maid was the last thing she desired to be but, so loyal had she been to Dell's memory and so bravely had she companioned his mother that the men friends had fallen off, chilled by the constant chaperonage of the widowed mother.

Only this morning Fred had sped up in his roadster and called to her, but Mrs. Gordon had been pointing out a rough spot on a tree lion and Rosalind had refused the drive. She cared nothing for Fred, but she's have enjoyed the cool spin.

"I guess I hardly know what I want," she murmured, twisting her pruning shears idly. "The truth is that there is no one around here I like as well as I liked Dell."

She made a pretty picture, bending over the lion in the shaft of moonlight. The shadows fell on her smooth head in lacy patterns, lending the illusion of a veil.

A long gray car had come silently up the road outside the low hedge and the man driving absently stared, then stopped. He had red curls that stood up above his broad forehead, and there was a crude strength in his nose and firm, beautifully-cut mouth. But the almost hard firmness was offset by his cleft chin and the steady fire in his deep blue eyes, and Rosalind, perhaps attracted by his steady regard, glanced up to meet the disturbing admiration in his face.

He got down slowly, almost as though he feared to break the spell of the place, and his voice was very low when he spoke: "You are real, then. I almost believed I'd stumbled upon an enchanted garden. Are you Una beside her lion, or are you tending the little god of love?"

The pruning shears dropped unheeded as Rosalind's face became an adorable rose. She stood between the plaster statue and the lion that had offended Mrs. Gordon by its shaggy coat. "I," she let fall at last, her breath coming in little husky gasps, "am an ordinary school teacher intent upon restoring order to"—a gay chuckle escaped her here—the situation was eminently absurd, yet why should her heart thump so loudly against her frock, why should she read such thrilling things in his eyes?—"my zoo," she finished at last.

"It was the odd positions of those prancing animals that attracted my attention," he murmured. "I'm very fond of formal gardens and I've tried my hand, or rather my shears, at creating, but even a round ball isn't easy. Did you mean that horse for Pegasus?"

That won Rosalind's heart. Not one soul had said such a delightful thing to her nor, had Betty, when the steed was explained to her, seen any resemblance to Rosalind's fanciful clipping. Betty had crudely remarked upon the devastating absence of wings and had likened the horse to the Percheron belonging to the local drayman. "He has no wings," said the girl, honestly.

"I'm glad he hasn't," answered the man, "for he would have swept you away from here before I found you. May I come tomorrow and try to help you clip the wings? I am Jim Hannaford and I've just bought a place in the next town."

"Not the Pines?"

He nodded casually. "There are some rather wonderful grounds there and I don't believe you'll miss your zoo here—when you leave."

"When you leave," repeated Rosalind to herself. He had taken her consent for granted, he would whisk her away from the cottage she shared with her two elder sisters—he.

"Don't look so startled," he whispered ardently, "just say—just tell me, sweetheart, what I want to know."

In spite of her treacherous heart that almost betrayed her by its beating she still retained the enchanting primness that somehow set her apart from the jazz-loving girls of the period and the man watched her face adoringly.

"June is nearly over," he coaxed, "we can't have anything except a June wedding, you know. We'll have it out here in the garden by your god of love."

Thinks Politicians Not as Bad As Painted

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 2.—Politicians, like dogs, have been given a worse reputation than they really deserve, said Assemblyman D. Glenn Moore, of this city, in an address to the students of Washington and Jefferson College here.

"But with all that, I can say truthfully, after experience in three sessions of the Legislature, with but very few exceptions, I have never seen a better showing of integrity than in the chamber of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania," said Assemblyman Moore.

Ignorance and lack of courage were termed by him as the two chief weaknesses of the legislators, while knowledge, he said, was the most important requisite.

COUNTY SCHOOL AID CHECKS MAILED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 2.—Checks totaling $299,574.96 were mailed today by State Treasurer Samuel S. Oil Companies Fight New Vera Cruz Tax

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 2.—(AP.)—El Universal says that several oil companies have sent a note to the Mexican government protesting against laws passed recently by the government of the state of Vera Cruz which they charge are unconstitutional. The laws apply additional taxation to the oil industry in that state.

OBITUARY

Karl W. Core

Karl W. Core, 51, of Ford City, Pa., in charge of construction work for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, died Friday in Washington, D. C. He was formerly manager of the Ford City plant of the glass company, and well known throughout the glass industry. He is a brother-in-law of Judge R. M. Gibson of the Federal District Court, and a nephew of D. B. Heiner, collector of internal revenue in the Pittsburgh district.

Mr. Core was born in Greensburg, and graduated from Washington and Jefferson College. More than 25 years ago he held the position of cashier in the office of collector of internal revenue in Pittsburgh. Mr. Core was a member of Masonic fraternities and of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Ford City. He leaves his wife and three children. Funeral services will be held Monday at Ford City and interment will be in Washington, Pa.

BORROW FROM "HOUSEHOLD" SAVE
Almost One-Third
Loans $10 to $300

This old established organization by reason of large volume, efficient management and ample capital is now making a substantial reduction in the cost of loans up to $300 by lowering the interest rate from the lawful maximum of 3½ per cent a month on unpaid principal balance to 2½ per cent.

FOR EXAMPLE ON LOANS.
Payable in 20 Equal Monthly Payments.
You Save as Follows:
$ 50 Loan—You Save $ 3.25
100 Loan—You Save 6.50
200 Loan—You Save 21.00
300 Loan—You Save 31.50
THE SAME PROPORTIONATE SAVING ON OTHER AMOUNTS.

Loans may be paid in full at any time and you will only be charged for the actual time you keep the money. You get the full amount in cash—no deduction of any kind. We do not notify your employer, neither do we make inquiry of your friends, relatives nor tradespeople. If it is more convenient to call personally, phone Atlantic 1198 or Atlantic 0735 and we will send a representative to your home.

Private Sale of Real Estate.
In the Orphans' Court of Allegheny County, State of Pennsylvania, No. 471 January Term, 1929. Notice is hereby given that Joseph A. Hill, administrator of the estate of Joseph Hill, deceased,
has presented his petition to the Orphans' Court at the above number and term, praying him to enter an order authorizing and directing him to sell at private sale to Carrie Tepe, of the City of Pittsburgh, County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, a certain piece of real estate designated as lot No. 48, as herein described for the price or sum of $8,000.00, payable in manner as follows to wit: the sum of $200.00 paid to your petitioner at the time of the execution of the agreement by the proposed purchaser to make the deed, at the price mentioned, and the balance or $7,800.00 upon consummation of the sale and the delivery of the deed.
All that certain lot of ground situate in the Nineteenth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, being lot No. 48 in the Norwegian Plan of record in the Recorder's Office of said Allegheny County in Plan Book Vol. 23, page 10, bounded and described as follows, to wit:
On the northerly side of Crosby avenue, at the easterly side of lot No. 47, of said plan; thence southwardly along Crosby avenue, a distance of 50 feet to lot No. 49 in said Plan, and extending back at right angles to Crosby avenue, preserving the same width of 50 feet between lot Nos. 47 and 49, 119 feet to a 20-foot alley.
Having erected thereon a two-story brick veneer dwelling house.
And also:
To the Charles Nelson and Eleanor C. Nelson, his wife, of the City of Pittsburgh, County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, the real estate designated as lot No. 45 as herein described, for the price or sum of $8,300.00 payable in manner as follows: The sum of $200.00 paid to your petitioner at the time of the execution of the agreement, $3,100.00 upon the consummation of the sale and the delivery of the deed, and the balance or $5,000.00 the said Charles Nelson and Eleanor C. Nelson, his wife, are to assume, this being a mortgage as herein described.
All that certain lot or piece of ground situate in the Nineteenth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, being lot No. 55 in the Lonergan Plan, of record in the Recorder's Office of said County in Plan Book Vol. 23, page 10, bounded and described as follows:
Beginning on the northerly side of Crosby avenue on the westerly side of lot No. 54, said point being distant 50 feet along Crosby avenue 50 feet to lot No. 54 in said plan and extending back northwardly preserving the same width at right angles to Crosby avenue, 119 feet to a 20 foot alley.
Having erected thereon a two-story brick veneer dwelling house.
That the above-mentioned properties are each subject to the liens of certain mortgages, as follows: Lot No. 48 in the sum of $1,200.00, executed by Anna M. Brown to Anna M. Conner, said mortgage being dated the 24th day of June, 1921, and recorded in the said Recorder's Office of Allegheny County in Mortgage Book Vol. 1852, page 626. Lot No. 55 in the sum of $5,000.00, executed by Joseph Hill to the Potter Title and Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., and recorded in said Recorder's Office in Mortgage Book Vol. 1959, page 45, dated the 3rd day of February, 1925.
And the Court has fixed
February 16, 1929, at 10:00 O'Clock A. M., in open court, at the City-County Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., as the time and place for the hearing upon said petition when and where all persons interested may appear, object and be heard, and offer a substantial increase for said real estate, in accordance with the Act of Assembly in such case made and provided.

NO. 49.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing the execution of a contract with the Borough of Sharpsburg for the maintenance of a City water main in said borough in lieu of contract between the City of Allegheny and the Borough of Sharpsburg, as authorized by ordinance of the Borough of Sharpsburg approved June 3, 1895, and accepted by the City of Allegheny by ordinance approved July 23, 1895; providing for the taking of water from said main by the Borough of Sharpsburg under certain conditions; and authorizing the settlement of an action at law brought by the City of Pittsburgh against the Borough of Sharpsburg.

WHEREAS—The City of Allegheny, which was annexed to the City of Pittsburgh on the first day of January, 1907, did enact an ordinance approved by the Mayor, July 23, 1895, accepting the conditions of an ordinance of the Borough of Sharpsburg, approved by the Burgess June 3, 1895, wherein the Borough of Sharpsburg granted the consent of said Borough to the City of Allegheny, its agents and employes, under certain terms and conditions therein set forth, to enter upon the streets of the Borough of Sharpsburg for the purpose of constructing a conduit for the supply of water to the said City, under the terms of which ordinance and acceptance by the City of Allegheny the said conduit was constructed and has been maintained in the said Borough of Sharpsburg from thence hitherto; and,

WHEREAS—The City of Pittsburgh, which succeeded to the rights and liabilities of the City of Allegheny under said ordinance and acceptance, entered suit against the Borough of Sharpsburg in the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, Pa., at No. 1681 July Term, 1925, to recover a certain sum of money claimed to be due to the City of Pittsburgh from the Borough of Sharpsburg by reason of the taking of water from said conduit by said Borough of Sharpsburg; and,

WHEREAS—The City of Pittsburgh and the Borough of Sharpsburg have agreed to settle said suit and any claims the City may have against the Borough due to the taking of water for the Borough from said conduit until the present time, upon certain terms and condition; now, therfore,

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the City Solicitor is hereby authorized and directed to take a consent verdict against the Borough of Sharpsburg in the sum of $32,325.00, said verdict to be reduced to judgment and to be paid by the Borough of Sharpsburg to the City of Pittsburgh within four years from the date of the same, with interest at the rate of four per centum (4%) per annum, the judgment to be paid by equal annual installments on the first day of November, in each year.

SECTION 2. The terms and conditions under which the City of Allegheny constructed and maintained said conduit and the City of Pittsburgh maintained the same having through the process of time become unjust, the City of Pittsburgh and the Borough of Sharpsburg have agreed that the said terms and conditions shall be changed and shall be evidenced by a new contract in writing, which contract the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works, on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh, are hereby authorized to execute and deliver, said contract to be in the following phraseology:

THIS AGREEMENT

Made the.....day of ....., A. D., between the BOROUGH OF SHARPSBURG and the CITY OF PITTSBURGH, both municipal corporations of the County of Allegheny and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, WITNESSTH:

FIRST. The terms and conditions of the agreement between the City of Allegheny and the Borough of Sharpsburg, as evidenced by an ordinance of said Borough approved June 3, 1895, and accepted by the City of Allegheny by ordinance approved July 23, 1895, are hereby annulled, and in lieu thereof the Borough of Sharpsburg and the City of Pittsburgh agree as follows:

1. The City of Pittsburgh is granted the right in perpetuity to maintain in its present location the conduit traversing said Borough of Sharpsburg for the purpose of carrying water from the pumping stations of the City of Pittsburgh to the City of Pittsburgh, and to maintain, repair and replace the same as to the City of Pittsburgh, its proper officers and agents, may seem proper.

2. For the purpose of affording an opportunity for the Borough of Sharpsburg to take water from said main as and when it shall be necessary under the terms of this agreement, a battery of two meters, at the cost and expense of the Borough of Sharpsburg, shall be placed on the existing connection from said main to the distribution mains of the Borough on Eighteenth street, said meters to be of the type to be approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh before installation and the installation to be approved by him after the work is done.

3. The Borough of Sharpsburg shall be permitted to use said water supply from said conduit without cost to said Borough, in case of emergency caused by breakage or failure in its own system whereby water cannot be supplied in sufficient quantity from its own system or in case of fire. During the period of time in which the Borough shall take water from said conduit no water shall be taken into the Borough's lines from its own water system. Immediately upon the putting out of said fire the taking of water from said conduit shall be discontinued; and in case of the breakage of the lines of the Borough's system or failure thereof, the repairs shall be made as expeditiously as possible. In case the Borough desires to take water from said conduit, notice shall forthwith be given to the Bureau of Water of the City of Pittsburgh. Any other water taken from said conduit by the Borough of Sharpsburg shall be paid for by said Borough under the same terms and conditions as other resident consumers of water in the City of Pittsburgh pay, at the current rates provided by ordinance of the City of Pittsburgh at the time said water is taken.

4. In case it shall become necessary for the City of Pittsburgh to enter upon the streets of the Borough of Sharpsburg for the purpose of making repairs or for the reconstruction of said conduit, the City of Pittsburgh shall immediately upon completion of same restore the surface of the said streets to the same condition they were before opening and the streets shall not be entirely blockaded during said work unnecessarily; all of said work to be done under the supervision of the Street Committee of the Council of said Borough of Sharpsburg.

5. The City of Pittsburgh shall and will idemnify and save harmless the said Borough of Sharpsburg of and from all damages, loss of injury, either directly or indirectly, which are in anywise caused to or done either to the public or private property, easements or rights of said Borough, or to the persons, or corporations situate therein by reason of the location, construction, reconstruction, operation and maintenance of the said conduit or removal or abandonment of the same, and from all suits or actions in either law or equity, of, for or on account of the same, and from all costs and fees, including attorney's fees and expenses, arising therefrom.

This agreement executed on behalf of the Borough of Sharpsburg pursuant to authority conferred by ordinance of Council approved ..... and recorded in Ordinance Book, Vol....., page....., and on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh pursuant to ordinance of Council approved by the Mayor on..... recorded in Ordinance Book, Vol. ....., page.....

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That Dalton avenue, from Leeds way to Preble avenue be and the same is hereby opened to a uniform width of 24.0 feet by taking for public use for highway purposes all of the property within the lines as hereinafter described, to-wit:

The southerly line shall be parallel to and at a perpendicular distance of 120.0 feet north of the northerly line of Franklin street and shall coincide with the dividing line between properties now or late of Allis Chalmers Company and United Oil Company.

SECTION 2. The grade of the southerly line thereof shall begin at the westerly line of Leeds way at an elevation of 32.58 feet (curb as set); thence rising at the rate of 1% for the distance of 63.0 feet to a point of curve to an elevation of 33.21 feet; thence by a convex parabolic curve for the distance of 40.0 feet to a point of tangent to an elevation of 33.21 feet; thence falling at the rate of 1% for the distance of 32.0 feet to the westerly curb line of Preble avenue to an elevation of 32.89 feet (curb as set).

SECTION 3. The Department of Public Works is hereby authorized and directed to cause said Roalman street in the 21st Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, from Leeds way to Preble avenue to be opened in conformity with the provisions of Section 1 of this Ordinance.

SECTION 4. The costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby and the benefits to pay the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties benefited thereby in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same.

SECTION 5. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this ordinance.

NOTICE is hereby given that Ordinance copy of which is published herewith, was introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh on September 24, 1928, pursuant to the provisions of the several Acts of Assembly authorizing said City, without any petition of property owners, to open, widen, straighten, extend, vacate, grade, pave, curb, macadamize and otherwise improve streets and alleys, or parts thereof, within its limits, viz:

BILL NO. 2678.

AN ORDINANCE—Opening Roalman street in the 21st Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, from Leeds way to Preble avenue and establishing the grade thereof and providing that the costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby be assessed against and collected from properties benefitted thereby.

BUGS BAER Says

THE milk war in Chicago proves that a man can fight about anything.

We don't know how it started unless the boys are still striving for the control of everything that comes in bottles.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We do know that the neighbor's children wrecked the morning milk train as it was steaming along on its less than two per cent errand.

Although there was plenty of machine-gunning there was only one casualty.

One of the boys drank some of the milk.

When Jesse thought things weren't going just right with the village bank he would stroll in and attend a director's meeting after midnight.

Any new business that came up would be discussed on horseback.

Now the minority stockholders meet in automobiles and vote from ambush.

The lads are for big business with a chain store system of hide-aways.

We cannot understand how they made Mars a milk-maid.

Maybe it's one of those Wall Street mergers.

Anyway, the beer-barons and the alkie dukes are struggling for the milk title.

The clothes-pin gang are after the paper-clip bunch for infringing on their racket in a small way.

When the milk is on the veranda and there's a bomb under the porch—we guess we will drink our morning coffee black.

Don't think this is not a real war. When they start wrecking trains they ain't pulling bon-bons at birthday parties.

If the skirmish spreads you will have to wear a bullet-proof vest for a lounging jacket and wheel the baby in a caterpillar tractor.

THE TOWHEE'S FOE

This is the regular Saturday Morning Hour, given over to the Protection of Birds, namely the Brown Towhee.

We are sorry to say that there are people who think it is great fun to shoot the Brown Towhee. Mrs. Beatrice Lillie tells a story showing this. A pair of Towhees had a nest in a tree near her hotel. It was a newly hatched family that seemed to be all mouth. One day "The Bird Lady" was feeding the hungry brood when along came a hunter and, without saying a word, opened fire. And now when anyone asks Mrs. Lillie to feed Towhees she hastily changes the subject.

If You Want Sane Sunday Get In and Fight For It

It is up to the people who believe the blue law is an unnatural interference with their rights to help the sponsors of modification of the old statute to win their battle in behalf of freedom that never can prevail in Pennsylvania as long as the law of 1794 exists. Opponents of modification, who know the law is unjust and unenforceable just as well as you do, say there is no public demand for changing it.

If you believe as they do, we accord you the respect that sincerity of honest opinion should receive even though we think your desire to keep in "force" a law that is not enforced, and not be enforced, is ridiculous.

f you are of the vast number who see the foolishness of tuation in which we operate railroad trains, run automo-, sell medicine and milk and other necessities of life, gen-rate el-ctric light, cook meals and do other things we have to do on Sunday, all opposed to the law of 1794, you will join the fight to modernize it.

If you are among those who see no harm in innocent Sunday amusement and recreation that does not interfere with religious services you will add the strength of your support to the movement to permit a little of the sunlight of the twentieth century to penetrate the darkness of eighteenth century Pennsylvania.

A number of prominent persons, headed by A. L. Humphrey, president of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, have drafted a bill for liberalization of Sunday to the extent of permitting nonfee sports, amusements and musical events. The Fittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has advocated going farther, to permit even "commercial" Sunday diversions, innocent in nature, with such regulation as is essential, but it indorses the bill drafted by the public-spirited group mentioned.

We still believe there would be discrimination and injustice even with the modification proposed, yet we approve of he half a loaf if we cannot have the whole.

And the half a loaf is not assured, by any means. Even hat is begrudged and will be denied unless YOU, as an individual, let it be known forcibly that you want it.

Opponents of the proposed measure say you do not want it. Do you?

If you do, get busy!

Deportation of Girl Cruel, Even Though Just

Enforcement of the strict letter of the law seldom has had more cruel effect than is shown in the deportation of Mary ornyak, separated from her mother and brother here and sent n her way back to her native land, Hungary.

Here is a young woman who has lived in America seven ears and who, through an unusual chain of circumstances, is sted as having become a public charge before she had been in merica five years, and thus became subject to deportation nder the immigration laws.

After she had been here 11 months she fell and suffered n injury. A hospital where she was a patient employed her nother, who offered her salary in payment for her care, which as refused, the first step in commendable charity that was to anish Mary ultimately. Then it was found that tuberculosis f bone had developed and that state laws made it mandatory iat Mary be removed from that type of hospital to another. he other was Mayview. Another link in the chain. Another ospital received her when an operation became necessary and , too, refused pay. Another deadly link.

A wonderful record for our hospitals, which some people t times think are too commerical, but fatal for Mary, who, or two years, while the immigration officials were investigat-ng her case, worked and supported herself, although crippled.

And the once strong, healthy, intelligent girl who came so opefully to America is sent back because the law designed to eep out or deport those unable to care for themselves must e applied to the strict letter. It is too bad, but an elastic law ight be prolific of abuses greater than the seeming injustice n this case.

New Rule

Old Drinking.

The House of Commons, excited because Miss Susan Lawrence, Labor M. P., rose to speak without a hat, shouted, 'Hat! Hat!''

Miss Lawrence took a piece of paper and held it over her ead to represent a hat.

The House of Commons, at present sober, was not so always. In the good old Tory days, drinking too much was the rule and men rose to speak with their hats on, when it was against the rule. So it was decided to keep their hats on. Pitt wore his hat in the Speaker's presence when it was against the rules. Asked, "Is the honorable gentleman aware of the presence of the Speaker?'' Pitt replied that he was sorry to say he was aware of the presence of two Speakers.

A $20 Rock Pile

By Herbert Kaufman

FIFTH avenue, between Forty-eighth and Fifty-first streets, is haunted with ghosts.

Dutch burghers and colonials, in knee breeches and perukes, stroll through the walls of brick and granite, and gather in excited, gossiping knots, examining the site of the new Opera Center, which John D. Rockefeller proposes to erect.

A century ago, these same three blocks were rentable at $125. Mr. Rockefeller pays Columbia University $3,000,000 annually, or a sum total of $260,000,000 before the lease expires.

Small wonder that little Old New York has waked from the grave to verify the news, and shake bewildered heads at its mad descendants.

And yet, considering local realty values at the time, the traders who bought Manhattan Island for $20 didn't drive an especially slick deal.

They could hardly have chosen a less propitious location for the world's greatest metropolis, than a rock pile surrounded by marshes.

The very nature of the terrain limited its drinking-water supply.

There was a minimum of arable soil.

The early settlers, with their port flung wide to the plagues and diseases of the universe, were constantly decimated by yellow jack, bubonic and smallpox epidemics.

Appalling conflagrations again and again wiped out business and residential districts. Adjacent larders soon proved insufficient for the expanding population.

But the handicaps which the community was compelled to meet bred imagination, doggedness, enterprise—became whetstones on which wits were edged and initiative sharpened.

Necessity seized New York by the scruff of the neck and forced its people to think and dare, or yield place to more favorably situated townships.

Necessity has been Father Knickerbocker's schoolmaster, subway designer, skyscraper builder and efficiency expert.

No city ever had or now faces comparable problems in housing, in transportation, in traffic regulation, in crime and health control, in sanitation, or in self-financing.

Never before was gathered in one spot such a polyglot multitude to be wrought into an effective and harmonious citizen body.

Never before did so many folk insist upon concentrating their wealth and energies in so small an area.

And never before were all these challenges as successfully met.

In 1821, when Columbia's "Upper Estate" was within purchase reach of half the readers of this article, the editor of Niles' Register pontifically declared that no further opportunity existed in America, and warned land investors not to speculate at current inflated prices.

Your grandchildren will live to marvel how Mr. Rockefeller was able to snatch such a bargain under the shrewd eyes of his contemporaries.

O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, Feb. 2.—The beguiling art of the great dressmaking parlors is sharp proof how France excels in flattery. It seems impossible for American ladies to visit these seductive salons "just to look." Almost invariably they are cajoled into a splurge of buying that sends husbands into ante rooms anxiously to thumb the bankroll.

The establishments are more like elaborate private homes with grand stairways, Gobelin tapestries, glittering chandeliers and other magnificent furnishings. Every visiting lady feels the grand duchess, with everybody from the door flunkey to the haughty manageress prostrating themselves before her.

The high-heeled exquisites in wasp-waisted braided coats, pin-striped trousers and flowered lapels bestow their carpet-kissing bows. They seem to be in an ecstatic and perpetual gurgle, and actually coo and skip with a hand on the hip in their delirium over the mere prospect of a sale.

Nothing is too much trouble. Every mannikin on the place is routed out, doled up in an endless procession of costumes, and paraded forth with their "walking on eggs" strut. Most places have tiny stages with proper spotlight upon which they give their revue for a single customer who may not even buy.

The beautiful saleswomen hover around the prospective customers. Tres chic! Tres joli! And how divine Madam would look in that! The old oil, but it works. All saleswomen are in costumes of a single color—usually beige or blue. And are known by first names—Mlle. Vera, Mlle. Jeannette, etc.

There are 12 saleswomen for every customer. Their salaries are tri'.... —hence the profusion. They work on commission, and that is why they are so abject and pleading. The French know the first price is merely "a feeler," but Americans are not used to the sharp bargaining. And are usually stung.

All the salons have little circular bars and at grand openings tea carts trundle every conceivable drink free. Yesterday I saw the other side of the glittering picture—the workrooms. Countless pale, stooped, anaemic and tragically young needle girls were toiling away in the feeble light of the dark basement for a few francs a day. Not so pretty!

The stigma of vulgarity Europe likes to attach to Americans is overdrawn, but there are times when many of us would not care to waltz in the street with our countrymen. Paris is filled with brash upstarts—sidetracked here with allowances to keep the inevitable scandal as far from the family doorstep as possible. They are the nuisances of the American bars. Today two timid American girls stepped into a bar by mistake. Their embarrassment was painful, but as they departed the rowdies—all Americans—beat time to their footsteps with accompanying jeers. Such discourtesy toward strangers would not take place in the lowest drinking dive in Paris.

Many of these American showoffs feature a British accent and cheerio as well as posing as graduates of Oxford. They call their native country "Aw-meer-ekal" or "the states," and are fearfully abashed at the lack of culture over there. Happily one of them rubs some regular American the wrong way almost every day, and is slapped silly. And that helps a little.

* * *

The Bowery in its crumbiest days never had anything so depressingly indicative of poverty as the Marche de Puces—the Flea Market. Held thrice weekly near one of the Paris gates, it offers a complete suit of clothes for a few sous. I saw an overcoat go for four francs. Patrons are mostly sewer rats and other human scum that congeals here. Also those hunch-backed and caped horrors with crawling gaits who seem like abominable subterranean bugs. Ugh!

* * *

In those narrow little lamp-lit streets at night, there is a shudder. After all, the Apache is not a fictional creation, and when the sun goes down he does prowl. Dismissing a taxi after midnight for a walk home, I cut across a boulevard into one of the shadowy bypaths. The sidewalk was about two feet wide, and all the buildings were tightly locked and barred for the night. A penetrating chill and an obscured moon made it an elegant night for a throat-slitting. And whether a figure lurched out of a doorway by accident or design does not matter. He could never have caught me, anyway, for I suddenly took up flying.

Tales That Are Told

Drawing a Blank

THE manager was gratified to see that his advertisement had attracted the attention of three promising characters. His keen eye quickly noted the pros and cons of the first two, and passing on rested for more than a moment on the third—a decidedly pretty woman.

"By Jove, what a peach!" he thought as he passed through into his office beyond. "She probably doesn't know a thing—they never do when they are so good to look at—but it would be a relief to have that smile around the office."

Removing his hat and coat, he went out into the waiting room and said: "I am very sorry to have kept you waiting, but I find the position of bookkeeping was filled after I left on Friday." As the candidates filed towards the door he whispered to the girl to wait. "I think I have a vacancy that might interest you," he said in a low voice.

It took a moment to penetrate, then she turned and bestowed upon him the most wonderful smile he ever beheld, and said, quietly: "Thank you very much, but I'm not looking for a job—I only came along with my husband."

Reasonable

MR. YOUNGHUSBAND was taking his little daughter, aged 5, for an evening stroll before going to bed.

"Daddy," she remarked as they neared home, "I think I should like to get married."

"Do you, my dear? And who do you want to marry?" asked the proud parent.

"Well," said the little girl, "I'd like to marry granny."

Her father laughed heartily.

"And do you think I'd let you marry my mother?" he asked, patting the child's head.

"Why shouldn't you?" she countered warmly. "You married mine, didn't you?"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

SOMETIMES a guy gets into such a bad jam that there ain't much you can say to make him feel better. It's better to keep still, maybe.

Now, it's awful hard to think of anything appropriate to say to a fellow that's just been sentenced to life in the pen, for instance. Only you might say, "What type of loud-speaker do you prefer?"

Well, it's still harder to say something appropriate to a guy that's in the pen and been there 20 years or so.

There was a new social service worker that went up to Sing Sing to practice on some of the good-humored boys up there. She said to one of them that seemed kinda down in the mouth. "Cheer up, man. Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage." "Well," says the prisoner, "I reckon they don't, if you say so. But they can create the most darned realistic illusion you ever laid eyes on!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

THIS is a straight talk to parents.

You're having trouble with the youngsters, aren't you? Trying to make them slow down, cool off—show you respect and consideration—act as you did at their age.

Fifty times a week you tell them how you acted when you were young—

LAY OFF!

STOP TELLING THE YOUNGSTERS ABOUT THE NOBLE RECORD YOU HUNG UP IN YOUR YOUTH.

THE CONDITIONS OF YOUR YOUTH HAD NO MORE LIKENESS TO THE CONDITIONS OF THEIR YOUTH THAN A WHEELBARROW HAS TO A TRI-MOTOR AIRPLANE.

"Human nature doesn't change," you snort indignantly. "Children are what children have always been since Adam was a pup."

Human nature mayn't change from one generation to another—but human environment does change—and human environment has changed so rapidly in the last twenty years that we have been forced to face entirely new standards of human conduct.

Your youngster has something which you never had—

Something it was impossible for the average youngster to attain when you were young—

HE HAS ECONOMIC INDEPENDENCE.

Any time after he's fourteen he can earn his own living if he so wishes.

You couldn't do that—particularly if you were a girl. There were a few chores, to be sure. You could earn some pin money carrying groceries after school and on Saturdays, mowing lawns, raking leaves, chopping wood.

THE STREETS WEREN'T FILLED WITH CROWDS OF EIGHTEEN AND NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD BOYS AND GIRLS GOING TO AND FROM OFFICES.

KIDS DIDN'T HAVE THE PRICE WHEN YOU AND I WERE YOUNG, MY DEAR. THEY DO NOW AND THAT SIMPLE ECONOMIC FACT HAS MADE ALL THE DIFFERENCE IN THE WORLD IN THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN PARENTS AND CHILDREN.

If you think your child is going to sit in reverent silence and listen to you as if you were a Delphic oracle you're dippy. If you think he is going to obey commands based on the experience of YOUR youth, you're violently insane and ought to be restrained.

That youngster knows his world. The chances are he knows it a great deal better than you do. He is probably a much more efficient citizen of that modern world than you are.

Children have no particular respect for parents merely because they are parents. As a matter of fact they never did.

I LIKED my parents. At moments I even loved them. BUT I OBEYED THEM BECAUSE THEY HELD THE PURSE STRINGS AND BECAUSE OF THAT HAD ALMOST UNLIMITED POWER TO CONTROL MY FREEDOM.

Parents have practically no power to control their children's freedom nowadays. The job has taken it away.

BUT THEY STILL HAVE THE POWER TO WIN THEIR CHILDREN'S LOVE AND RESPECT IF THEY CAN PROVE WORTHY OF THE SAME.

AND THAT'S ALL THE POWER ANY PARENT SHOULD HAVE.

THE EARTH WOBBLE

By Garrett P. Serviss

THERE is a little oscillation of the earth in its daily rotation which is known to astronomers but unfelt by anybody. It is called "variation of latitude," which sounds better than "earth wobbling." A good many speculations, some a trifle startling to the uninitiated, have been suggested by this irregularity of our whirling globe, but there is nothing really alarming about it. The North and South poles simply appear to wander a little on the earth's surface, swinging around the fixed axis of rotation which has an unchanging direction in space. They never get more than 20 or 30 feet away. Perhaps as clear a definition of the phenomenon as has been made is that of Moulton, who says the direction in space of the axis of rotation does not change, "but the position of the earth itself changes, so that its axis of rotation continually pierces different points of its surface."

This wobbling was discovered and has been studied by observations on the positions of the stars, which of course, change with reference to the observer's zenith if his latitude changes. But now a new interest has been added to the phenomenon by the discovery just announced by Harlan True Stetson, of the Harvard Astronomical Laboratory, that there appears to be a connection between the variation of latitude at any point on the earth and the position of the moon in the sky at the time when the observations on latitude are made.

Observations made at Gaithersburg, Md., and at Harvard unite in testifying to the existence of this connection. Increasing altitude of the moon is shown to correspond in a most striking way with rise in the value of the latitude. And when the moon is below the horizon the negative altitude of the moon records with decreased value of the latitude.

The figures dealt with are minute notwithstanding their great significance. The extreme range of the variation of latitude due to the lunar effect is only .09 (less than one-tenth) of a second of arc. This corresponds to a distance on the earth's surface of about 10 feet.

Two or three possible causes for the effect observed are suggested, without any of them being put forward as a definite hypothesis. One is a tide in the earth's crust produced by the attraction of the moon, but this is not regarded as at all probable.

Bible Passages

"Work of God"

(Ecclesiastes 8: 12-17)

THOUGH a sinner do evil an hundred times, and his days be prolonged, yet surely I know that it shall be well with them that fear God, which fear before him:

But it shall not be well with the wicked, neither shall he prolong his days, which are as a shadow; because he feareth not before God.

There is a vanity which is done upon the earth; that there be just men, unto whom it happeneth according to the work of the wicked; again, there be wicked men, to whom it happeneth according to the work of the righteous: I said that this also is vanity.

Then I commended mirth, because a man hath no better thing under the sun, than to eat, and to drink, and to be merry: for that shall abide with him of his labour the days of his life, which God giveth him under the sun.

When I applied mine heart to know wisdom, and to see the business that is done upon the earth: (for also there is that neither day nor night seeth sleep with his eyes:)

Then I beheld all the work of God, that a man cannot find out the work that is done under the sun: because though a man labour to seek it out, yet he shall not find it; yea farther; though a wise man think to know it, yet shall he not be able to find it.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Dower of Memories

AT a feast-day's end when mirth
All is done, comes then a dearth
And, perhaps, a shadow falls
As a banquet room at dawn
When the revelers are gone
With dim lights and faded flowers
Mock the gleam of vanished hours.

Yet, though well-loved guests are gone,
Flutes and banners all withdrawn,
As the festal spirit wanes
Something of its spell remains,
For no rapture passed along
But left echoes of its song
In the memories that stay
When joy's self has slipped away.

Not, then, for a fleeting hour
Are the laughter and the light:
Through long years their shining dower
Will, returning, bring delight.

Isn't It So?

If it's a woman and the shoe pinches she buys it.

If a man loves a woman he will give up smoking for her sake, but if she loves him she won't ask it.

Riches may not bring happiness, but they have at least one advantage over poverty—they don't prevent it.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

WHY is it that you cannot speak of one person to another without mentioning some defect in the character or the standing of the one under discussion?

Do you think it adds to your own prestige to speak ill of another?

Perhaps it is habit with you, not a malicious tendency.

You know certain things and you think aloud.

But why should you think of the unkind, undesirable qualities of a person before you remember the good qualities?

But it is something to add to the conversation.

It is thoughtless talk.

But it does a world of harm and sets in motion a feeling antagonistic.

You notice this unintentional leaning you have toward the sensational.

For that is really what it is—a disposition to draw attention to yourself at the expense of others.

You wonder why you do it, and half-heartedly say you will be more kind.

Why don't you just quit it?

And thereby be more fair toward those of whom you speak.

There are some good qualities in practically everybody—talk about them.
